ELCHANITE

We, the men of the blue and white, hold
our heads so mighty high.
Nothing stands before our will and might,
with the best we vie.
Inspired by your past, we will sing 'till the last, your glory and world renown.
Your cherished ideal emblazoned with zeal,
the standard of your crown.
Oh, Mentor of youth, Guardian of truth,
Molder of lofty minds,
Oh, fill us with wisdom, virtue, discretion,
worship of divines.
To Thee we sing with glowing hearts, our pride and joy so true.
To a tow'ring place from depths of dis-
grace hast raised the spirit of the Jew.
Oh, Alma Mater do comply, with strength
us fortify,
With a torch on high to lead the way,
mankind to edify.
With heart and soul to fulfill thy goal,
Yeshiva U. High.

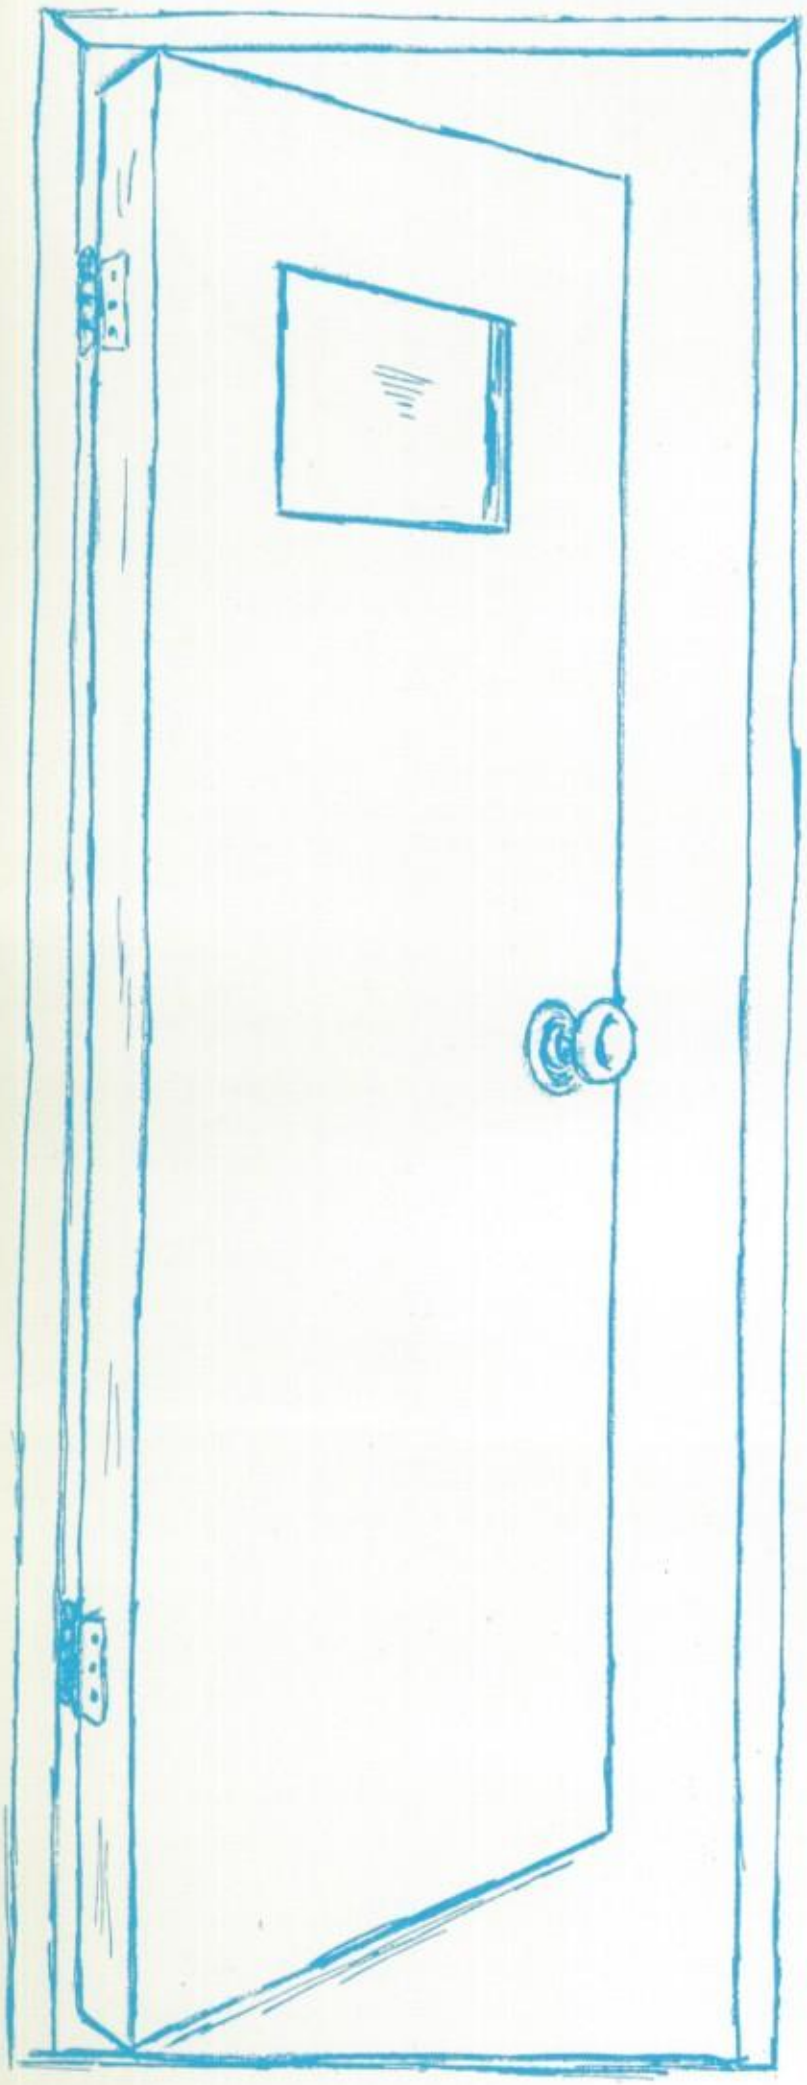
DOORS



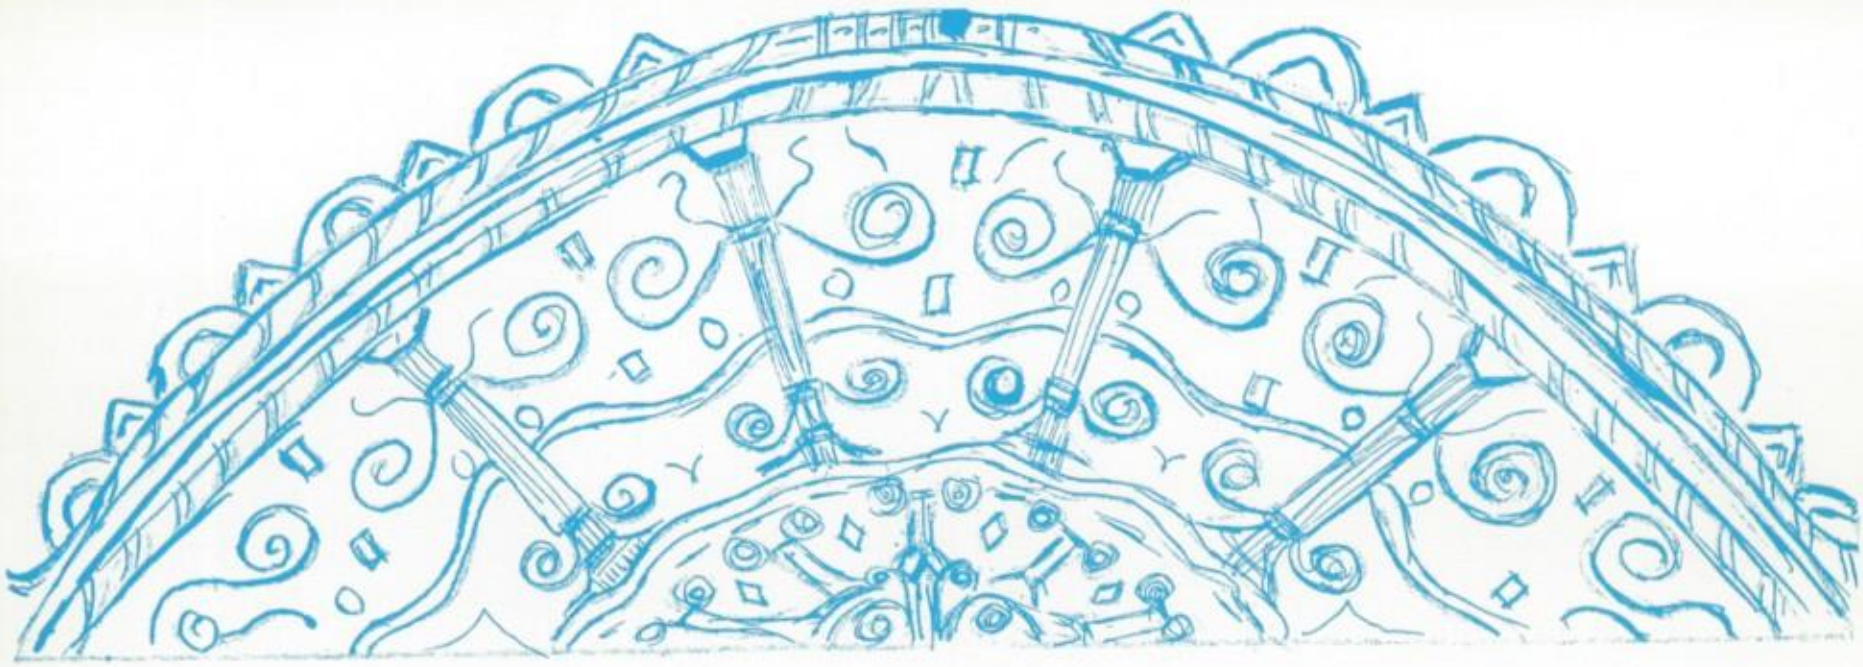
We live in a world of symbols and representations: flags for nations and ideals; maps for land area; the Seder plate symbolizing sacrifices and the story of Passover; and architectural blueprints representing all the buildings man has created. Within these buildings the opening and closing doors, the most prosaic of daily actions, holds much meaning for us as we stand on the threshold of graduation.

For most of us it was seventeen or eighteen years ago when our personal doors, the doors to the palace of life, were opened. In time we shall return to the place whence we came, but, hopefully, not without taking a long look around, and wondering at and perhaps learning a little of the mystery of life.

When we first came into the world, we were shown around the rooms of innocent infancy, the rooms which love pervaded completely, for no fears, pressures or prejudices were permitted to enter. There were no tensions in our first five years, no worries or responsibilities. We can remember this period only in a hazy way, but we can appreciate it because we shall never be able to relive it. The doors of infancy were closed to us the moment we stepped into first grade.

Throughout our elementary school education, we opened doors to many classrooms and the infinite suites and wings of knowledge. Our teachers hurled facts and ideas at us in an effort to broaden our scopes in both religious and secular fields.

Then we took another stride forward as time closed the elementary school door for us, opening those bronze portals on Amsterdam Avenue, those guardians of the edifice which houses Yeshiva University High School. Here, too, both literally and figuratively, doors were opened and closed: doors to the classrooms of teachers, study, and examinations; doors to the office which held at times pleasant and unpleasant surprises for us; doors to the Beis Medrash, auditorium, cafeteria and gym; and doors to the guidance office where the course of our futures may well have been charted. With the gates of childhood firmly shut, we opened in high school another series of doors in our path to maturity.



Now we stand before yet another closed door. The gates of higher education are about to open, and we feel somewhat hesitant, unsure, even afraid. The portals of adult life loom before us, soon to reveal our destinies. That which lies beyond will soon be reality, and we fervently hope that we are prepared for this reality.

We also stand at the threshold of a new age of mankind's achievement and growth. This door to advancement, to which knowledge is the key, presents a formidable challenge. Whether mankind is going to benefit or perish because of its opening will soon become apparent. We must see that the door to knowledge, which is in the process of being opened, is opened carefully and with discretion.

The door to the understanding of others, on the other hand, is for us to throw open. For too many years it has stood shut and locked, and men have suffered because of their reluctance to open it. Beyond this gate lies the path to ultimate peace. If it remains barred, then the opening of the door to human achievement will become meaningless.

Perhaps the most mysterious portal of all is the door to one's self. As the shallow conformity of his high school years gives way to adult maturity, a young man must discover the unknown within himself. It will take more than self-evaluation for us to open this door; it will take sincerity and will. Many have failed to achieve this self-discovery, and their lives have lacked purpose and meaning.

As each day passes, we grow more conscious of the unknown that is soon to become known. We approach the new, fascinating gates to the future. New challenges, joys, hopes, and fears will be revealed with their opening.

This is also the time for the closing of doors. Our graduation is a finite action. It is the symbol of an end. We have closed the door to our high school years. No matter how much we may desire to leave it ajar, the force of new challenges and responsibilities slams it shut. The echo of our footsteps in the familiar corridors of school can never sound the same. Only in fond memories can we recall these days of development and fraternity.

Many of us will be forced to close the door on old friendships. Amidst all our promises to remember and keep in touch, we can already sense the movement of the slowly closing door. Miles, interests, and ideals will separate us, and we will spread the curtains of new friendships.

It is on this most awesome threshold of life that we must ask ourselves some very basic questions to determine whether our four high school years have really prepared us to open the new doors confronting us.

Have our virtues been strengthened in these four years? Have our morals been reinforced? Has our sense of values been molded to stress truth and uprightness? Our answers to these questions should be affirmative, since our teachers, the guardians of the classroom portals, have sincerely endeavored to instill in us high ideals to live by. And these ideals, ideals taught by the Torah, the Jewish religion, and the great personalities of past and present generations, can help us to overcome the trials we shall encounter in the time to come.

As we stand on the threshold of the future, we realize that there is one door which, if we have developed any sense of true values, we can never allow to be closed. This is the door to our spiritual heritage. It is a door which others have for centuries attempted to shut, and great shame would be placed upon us and our generation if we were to permit such glory and wisdom to be locked forever from the future. This portal is the guardian of our faith; it has been our shelter in past years of persecution. Our goal must be to see that the door to Torah be eternally open.

The door to the future looms before us. Let us open it wide and walk through it proudly into the greatest chamber in the palace of life, which in itself serves as a mere foyer to the grand ballroom of the next world. Let us strengthen our virtues and morals, our ties with man and G-d. Let us work towards the goal of universal and eternal brotherhood and peace, guided by the Torah and the living precepts of religious Judaism.

GRADUATION

YESHIVA UNIVERSITY HIGH SCHOOL

AMSTERDAM AVENUE AND 186th STREET

NEW YORK, N.Y. 10033

Dear Graduates,

The graduation exercises, which will take place in June, will mark the official termination of your high school course of studies. As a class, you have distinguished yourselves scholastically in local, state, and national competition, and it is our hope that you will continue to be a source of pride to our institution.

I should like to think that you are now leaving these hallowed halls of learning as Torah true young men, instilled with religious, ethical, and moral principles ready to carry on our Torah way of life wherever you have chosen to continue your college education.

At Yeshiva University High School, we have given you a strong foundation on which to build your educational future, and look upon you as our next generation of Rabbis, teachers, and religious and communal leaders.

May you all continue to be a source of pride and joy to your parents and to your Alma Mater.

Sincerely yours,

David L. Weinbach

שלום רב,

בשם הנהלת ישיבה אוניברסיטי ומוסדותיה ברצוני להביע את הערכתנו העמוקה על הזכות שניתנה לנו לקבל את פני ראש הממשלה, מר מנחם בגין, בביקורו בישיבה.

ביקורו של ראש הממשלה בישיבה, בשבוע שבו חגגנו את יובל השנים להקמתה, הוסיף נופך מיוחד לחגיגות. ראש הממשלה, שהוא בוגר הישיבה, נשא דברים חמים ומרגשים לפני מאות תלמידים, מוריהם ובוגרים רבים. דבריו, שהתייחסו לתקופת הלימודים שלו בישיבה ולדרכו הציונית, עוררו הדים עמוקים בקרב כולנו.

ביקורו של ראש הממשלה בישיבה היווה הזדמנות נוספת לחיזוק הקשר בין הישיבה לבין ממשלת ישראל. קשר זה, שהחל עוד בימי הקמת המדינה, התחזק במשך השנים ומהווה מקור גאווה לשנינו.

אנו מקווים שביקורו של ראש הממשלה בישיבה יהווה תמריץ לתלמידים ולבוגרים להמשיך ולתרום את חלקם בבניין הארץ ובחיזוק ערכי היסוד של עם ישראל.

בברכה,

יצחק רבין
ראש הממשלה ושר הביטחון

DEDICATION

The goal of our institution has been, and always will be, to instill in its student body a thirst for truth, knowledge, and enlightenment, a love for the spiritual and moral ideals of Judaism, and a devotion to the concept of human decency.

Most essential for the realization of the aforementioned, is the dedication exhibited by our rabbis, instructors, and administrators, the small body of individuals entrusted with the ultimate executive powers and duties regarding the functioning of Yeshiva University High School.

Rabbi David L. Weinbach, former assistant registrar and present administrator of Y.U.H.S., has zealously endeavored to guide those young men who have entered our institution to a high level of intellectual achievement and aesthetic sensitivity. To him it is vital that Yeshiva produce young future leaders of the Jewish community, concerned with the perplexing and crucial matters facing society today, dedicated to the ideals of the Almighty's eternal Torah, and willing and able to assume the responsibilities of mature adults.

Humble, but commanding a deep respect, keenly forceful, yet understanding, Rabbi Weinbach admires those who strive to meet the challenge of a strenuous advanced program without lowering their standards. Indeed, his philosophy is truly manifest in his fervent desire to provide a challenge and a satisfaction for all students at Yeshiva University High School.

A Tragedy in Four Acts

ACT I
Scene I

Boy: But mother, spare me the thought of having to go to YUHS!
Mother: Shut up and seal thy application.
(Later)
Boy: But mother, do I actually have to take a test to enter YUHS?
Mother: Shut up and cram for the I.Q. test.
(Even later)
Boy: . . . so Rabbi mumbled to me in yiddish for 15 minutes or so. I couldn't quite understand him, he asked things like "Vos is dien nummen? and I quickly answered BABBA KAMA. The look on his face . . .

Scene II (In September)

Boy: I don't like it here.
It smells bad.
Second Boy: The walls are dirty.
Third Boy: The desks shake.
Chorus:
Dirty walls—.
SMELLY HALLS
Shaky seats
Next year in Bronx Science.
Boy: I am entering T.A.
Second Boy: I am entering T.I.
Third Boy: I am entering Mechina.
Chorus:
We part ways
but we look forward to better days when we shall meet in a better world.
FAREWELL!

Scene III

Rabbi: Will two boys please volunteer to go downstairs and bring them up.
Two Boys: We will!
Rabbi: Do not delay. They are impatient. Get the BIG RED ONES. My favorite color.
Two Boys: Yes! THE BIG RED ONES.
(Later)
Rabbi: We now have our Gemorahs.
(All rise for a moment of reverent silence. All sit.)
Rabbi: Treat them with care.
Learn Learn Learn
Chorus:
Learn Learn Learn
Learn Learn Learn
Students: Oh rabbi may we now venture into the cold world of secular studies?
Rabbi: Yes you may. But beware the math teachers that destroy, the English teachers that deride, the science teachers that corrupt. Beware the imparters of secularism.
Students: We shall take thy advice and heed thy warning. Now on to mythology class.
Co-en: Disciples in the ways of the mystic gods: greetings.
Students: Our rabbi said we must never talk to strange secular teachers.
Co-en: Fear not, I shall impart to you the secrets of the participle, and perplexities of Gerund and the ways of the Olympians. (At mention of Olympians he hoists pants in sign of reverence.)
Students: Is it like Tosephos?
Co-en: It is like Tosephos.
Students: Then we are saved.
Co-en: Yes, I shall make comma-unist of you all.
Chorus:
Math
English
Civics
Gen. Science.
It can do no harm; it is like Tosephos.
Students: Hark ye! To civics!
Koenigsbergus: Good afternoon and what do you say PEARL.
Students: Tell us about rotten communism.
Koneningsbergus: COMMUNISTS ARE BAD.
AMERICANS ARE GOOD
Chorus:
Communists are bad
Americans are good
We can do no wrong
Wave the flag . . .
(Large figure draped in white toga with large candle in hand appears. He marches on stage, looks around as if he is looking for someone. He mumbles something about some kind of a kite and walks off.)

Scene IV

Boy: I am going to art class.
Second Boy: I am going to music class.
First Boy: I will scribble and scrawl.
Second Boy: I will listen to scratchy records.
(Pregnant pause)
Both to each other: Meet me in the lockers and we shall do something worthwhile!
All Freshmen:
WE HAVE EATEN IN SID AND GEORGE.
WE HAVE SEEN MR. ABRAMS.
WE HAVE PLAYED HOCKEY IN THE HALLS.
WE ARE OFFICIALLY OF YUHS!!

ACT II
Scene I

Boy: LEARN?
Chorus: Learn Learn Learn.
English Teachers: Learn.
Math Teachers: Learn.
Bio Teacher: Learn.
Gym Teacher: Play.
Chorus: We cannot play. We only know how to learn. We will do our French in gym class. We must never play. But wait maybe we can play for ten minutes or so. . . .
Administration: Average—College—Marks— If you play you will never get into college. Only Y.U.
Chorus: Learn Learn Learn.
Rabbi Dulitz: Learn!

Scene II

Students: Onward to the Russian Embassy.
Chorus: March March March.
Boy: Liberty—Freedom!
Second Boy: Did anybody bring a knife and some schmaltz maybe?
Administration: Shave points.
Back Back we say!
Chorus: Boo! ! ! !
Administration: Average—College
Marks—Points.

Scene III

(Large figure in white toga with candle reappears, he is still searching. He grunts in disappointment. He again mumbles but a little clearer. Narrish—kite! ! He walks off stage)
Rabbi: So the children of Israel lifted their swords against the enemy. . . .
Pea Shooters: Pfft!
Blackboard: Ping!
Rabbi: . . . and slew them with a mighty hand.
Pea Shooters: Pfft! Pfft!
Desk and Blackboard: Ping Ping.
Rabbi: Now open your chumashim. . . .
Pea Shooters: PFFT PFFT PFFT! ! ! ! ! !
Walls: PING PING PING! ! !
(Many days later)
Administration: Villains. You are caught!
Pea Shooters: Silence.
Walls and Blackboards: Silence.
Rabbi: I knew something funny was going on all the time!
Students: I must heed the call of ERON PREP.

Scene IV

Students: Let us go to the matzoh factory.
Rabbi: Do not bring lunches!
Students: (We shall scatter breadcrumbs all over the place.)
Boy: Delicatessen Coming Soon.
Chorus: We must heed the call of the ERON and Forest Hills and Clinton.
Students: January June.

ACT III
Scene I

Students:
Here we all are in the junior year.
Here we all sit and wonder how
It is possible to avoid getting Rabbi Dulitz again.
You can't fight it.
Many Boys: We will take chemistry.
(Later)
Fewer Boys: We are taking chemistry.
(Much later)
Boy: I took chemistry.

Scene II

Rabbi Suna: Learning! Learning. Learning.
You must not have youthful arrogance.
Chorus: We will reap the fruits that we will gain.
Rabbi Suna: Birnbaum your stomach sticks out!
Chorus:
Corner store hoodlums
A roof under our head
We are not worth a penny to know.

Scene III

Joe: You are sick, you are sick.
Chorus: Sick sick sick.
Joe: Undeniably sick.
Chorus: Give us KUDOR.
Joe: Midwives all.
Chorus: Give us ink blots.
Joe: Frustrated all!
Boy: Help me with my problem.
Joe: Seethe in thy venom you are rotten.
Boy: Forgive me my sins.
Joe: Well . . .
(Large man in toga with candle appears again. He looks around. He sees what he is looking for. He extinguishes candle. "Come dear. I have a lot of compositions for you to mark.")
Students: ALPHA/OMEGA/PHI/
Candidates: LIBERTY EQUALITY BUT NO FRATERNITY.
Students: Disperse flee.

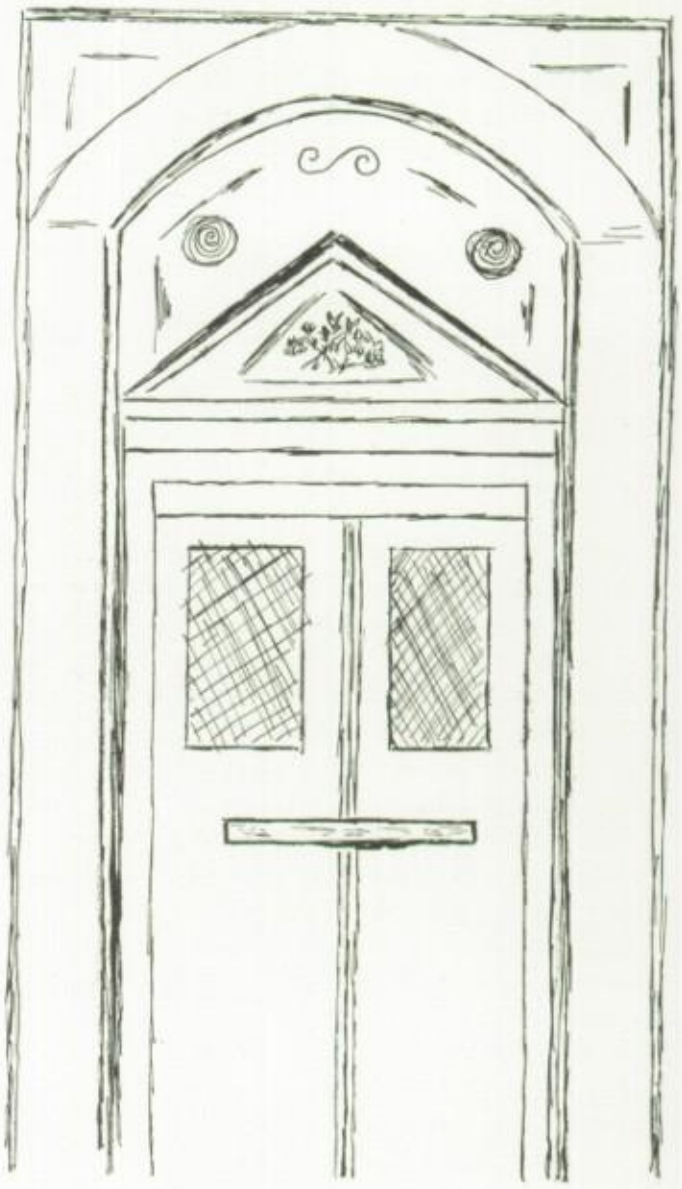
ARTHUR AINSBERG

One of Yeshiva Soloveichik's experts, Arthur is one of the most popular seniors, witness his election to the Senior Council. His pride and joy is his motor scooter which he recently purchased after two years of saving his pennies. (Unfortunately, the back seat had to go.) Arty has spent his last few summers slipping coupons out to his friends at the penny arcade in Monticello. During his junior year, Arthur reached the heights—Editor-in-chief of the now abolished Bulletin. He was a mainstay of Mr. Leibel's fifth period debating team in his junior year. Prospects for the future include majoring in law at New York University.

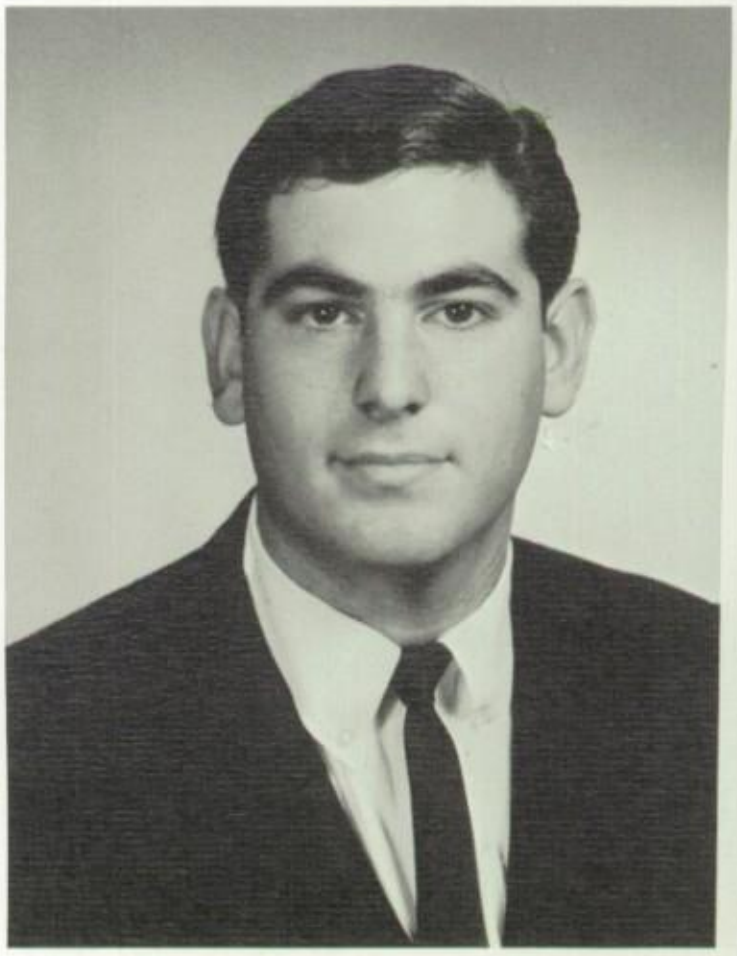
בשפתי נבון תמצא חכמה (משלי י"ג).

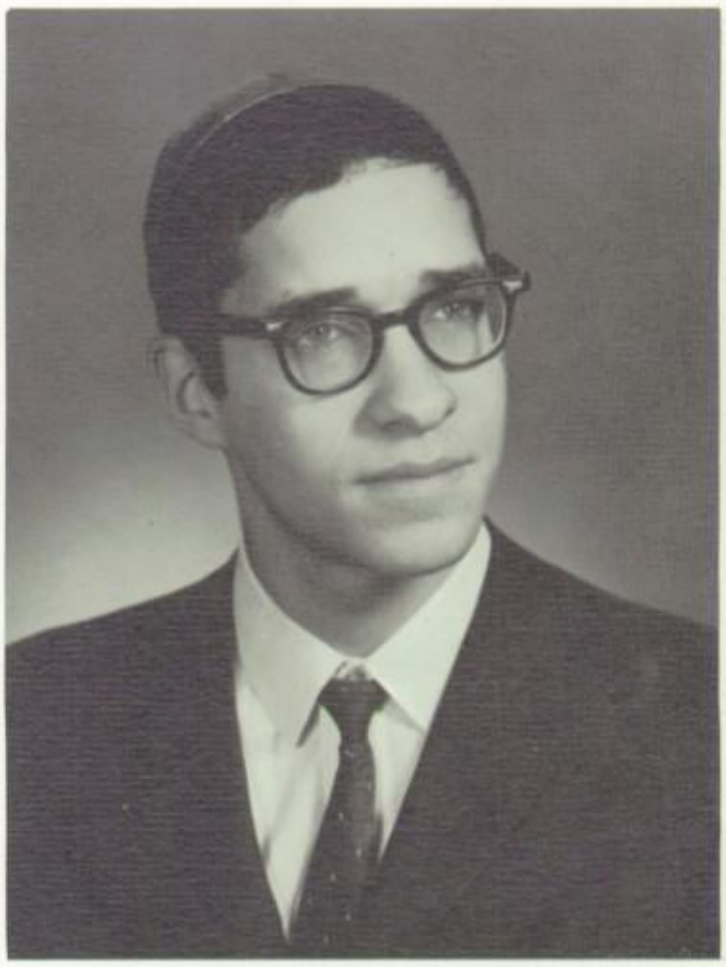


BARRY ALTMAN

Throughout his four years at Yeshiva, Barry has constantly been one of the most popular boys in the class. Coming to Y.U.H.S. from Akiva, Barry immediately showed a tremendous gift for the study of history and economics. As a "farmer," he was the first to be inducted into 'Willy's' "95 Club," Barry not only excelled in his studies, but he also served faithfully as captain of our successful swimming team. Serving as a inspiration and a leader to the team, he led our 'mermen' to unprecedented heights. Yet Barry never let his many successes faze him, and throughout his four years he never permitted school policies to affect him. Barry's looks, personality, and special touch insure him of success as he continues his studies at Buffalo State University.

קל הוא על פני המים (איוב כ"ד).





AVROM BAKER

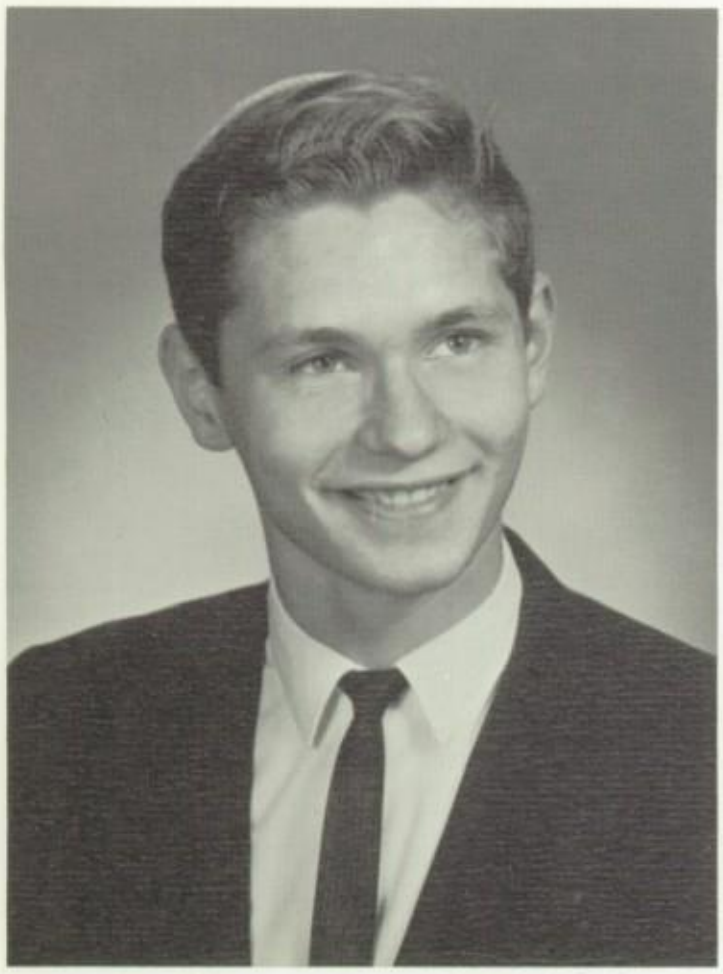
Avrom came here as an honor student from Yeshiva Chofetz Chaim. During the last four years, he has gained the admiration and respect of students and teachers alike because of his studious work habits and friendly personality. He has starred in subjects like physics; however, his brilliance in talmud far outshone them all. Because of his outstanding talmudical ability he was skipped and put into one of the best shiurim in the college—Rabbi Lichtenstein's. He would have gone to an officially higher shiur if not for his desire to learn from Rav Lichtenstein. He is a Baal-Tzdokah and Gomel-Hasadim; he has never refused an outstretched hand or a colleague in trouble. Avrom can be seen learning in the Beis-Medrash in all his spare time. He expects to enter Y.U. to become a rabbi—a leading one, we are certain.

אל תט ימין ושמאל תסר רגליך מרע (משלי פרק ד').

MOSHE BASKIN

While in Y.U.H.S., Moshe has engaged in various extracurricular pursuits such as Intramural Math Chairman, member of the Class of '64 literary staff, and member of the interscholastic Checker and Tennis Teams. Moshe is an ardent Zionist who has been extremely active as a madrich in Bnei Akiva. However, Moshe's forte, as shown by his activities in and out of school, lies in mathematics. He has been fascinated by both the recreational and practical aspects of this science and plans to cultivate this interest, together with a newly developed one for physics, by majoring in physics and/or mathematics at Yeshiva University.

ויגדל משה ויצא אל אחיו (שמות ב').



JACOB BAUMAN

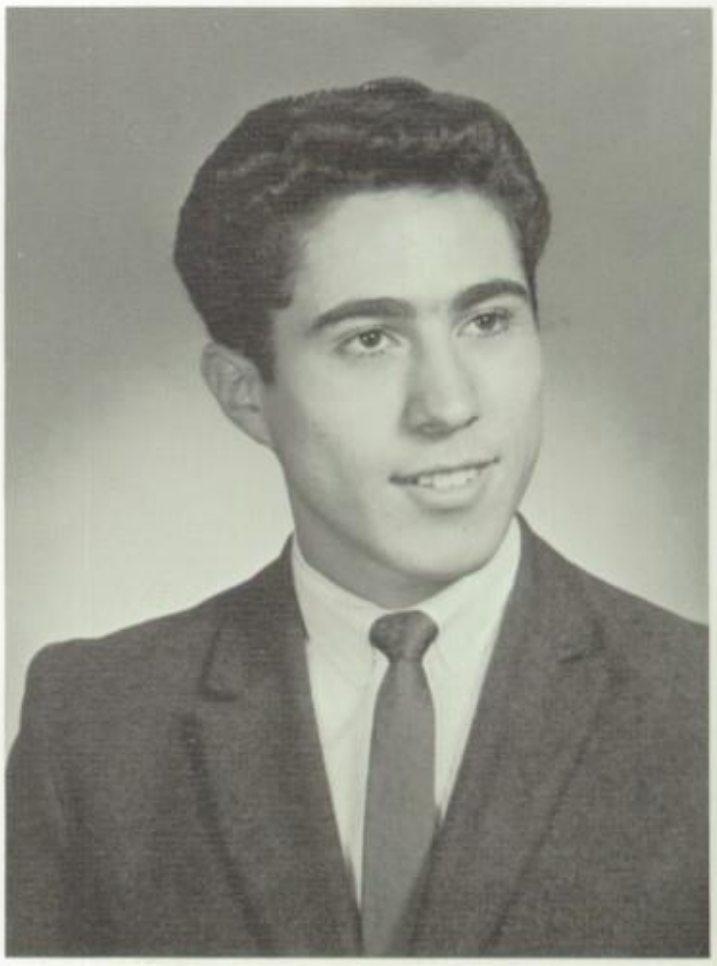
Known to his friends as the "other" Bauman, Jake the "Flake" has become one of the most distinctive members of our class. One of the finest natural athletes in the school, he lent his talents to the Basketball, Track and Baseball Teams. His greatest contribution, however, has been to the Basketball Team, where his brilliant jump shot made him one of the team's mainstays. Despite his athletic obligations Jake found time to compile an excellent scholastic average. He particularly enjoyed and excelled in Dr. Frankel's course in "advanced biology for the high school student" and Mr. Finkelstein's chemistry class. The knowledge gained in these classes will help Jake as he studies medicine at Yeshiva University.

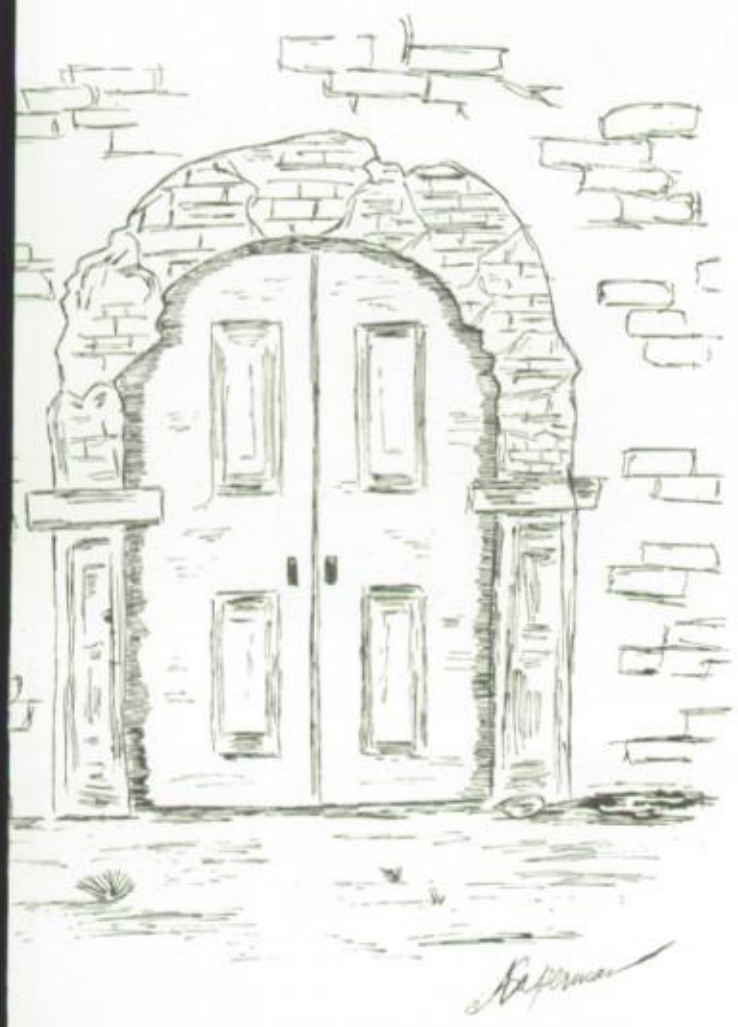
איש אמונות רב ברכות (משלי כ"ח).

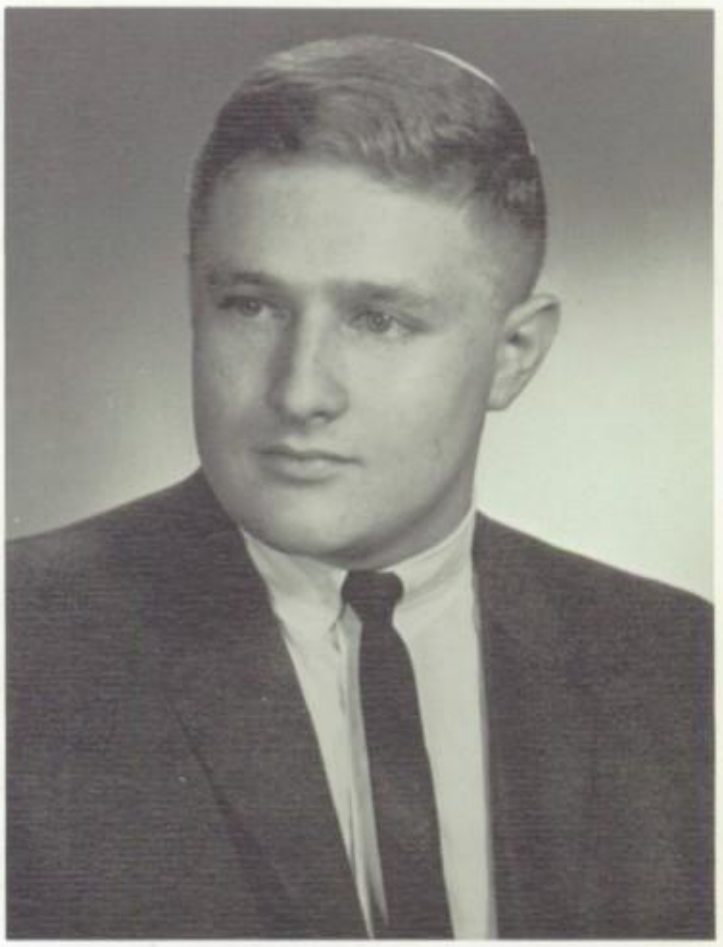
ROBERT BECKER

Bobby is one of the more outspoken boys in our class. His strange mannerisms have given him a "special pseudonym in class." His thoughtful ephitets adorn many of our school furnishings. Bobby was a member of the fateful Passover Provisions Committee. For his role in this organization he gained only censure and a "minus four" from the administration. His interest in soccer revived the sport in our school and made him captain of our team. Although not thought of as a grammarian, he nevertheless was appointed Copy Editor of the Elchanite. He served well in this capacity. Bobby intends to continue his studies in Yeshiva University.

בארח צדקה אהלך (משלי ח'־כ').







ALBERT BELSKY

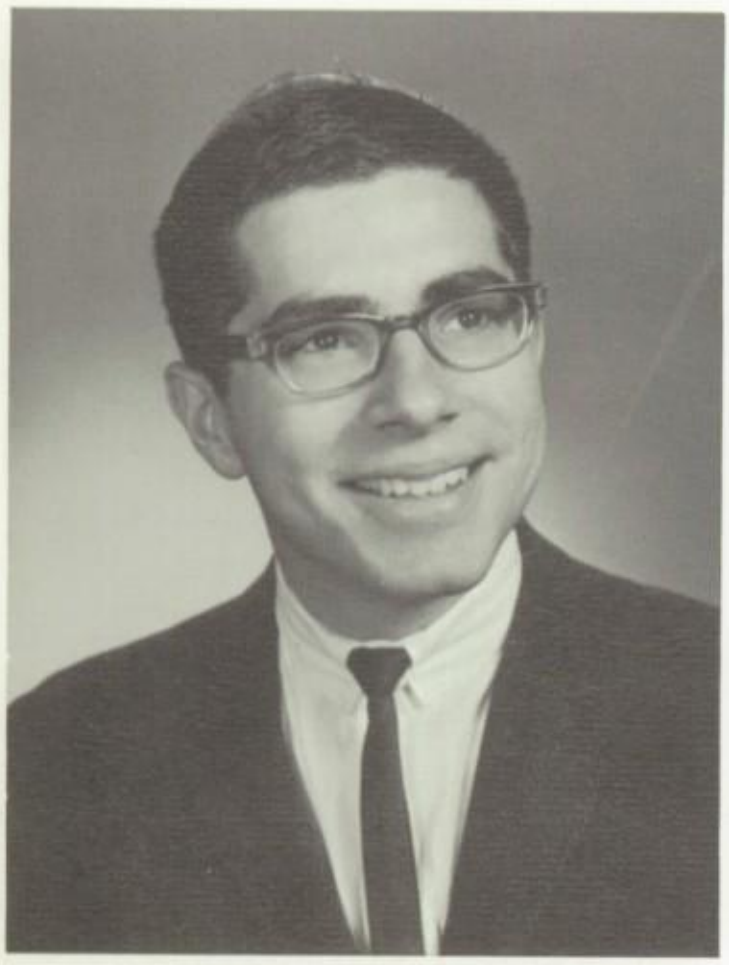
Al, as the only representative of Holyoke, Massachusetts at Y.U.H.S., has carved his mark here with his ready wit and prolific pen. As a dorm boy with an imprisoned existence for four years, his mind always abounded with original and creative ideas. Al's great ability to write "forced" the Elchanite to accept his as Literary Editor. His only shortcoming in this post was his failure to understand or be informed of the Elchy's theme. Once this door was opened he proved a worthy member of the staff. An Explorer Scout, Al was able to survive three years of wilderness conditions at the dorm and two years of hard work under the "Great Rabbi." We are sure he will succeed as he studies law at the college of his choice.

מרחוק ה' נראה לי.

JACK BENDHEIM

An extremely versatile member of the senior class, Jack has managed to get into almost everything going on in our school. A natural-born money grabber, Jack put his talent to good use as Business Manager of the Elchanite. His love of tennis coupled with his ability as a player made him an obvious choice for captain of the Tennis Team. In his senior year, by a combination of sassiness, hard work and a little behind-the-scenes politics, Jack was elected President of the G.O. We wish him the best of luck as he pursues his career of engineering at Yeshiva University.

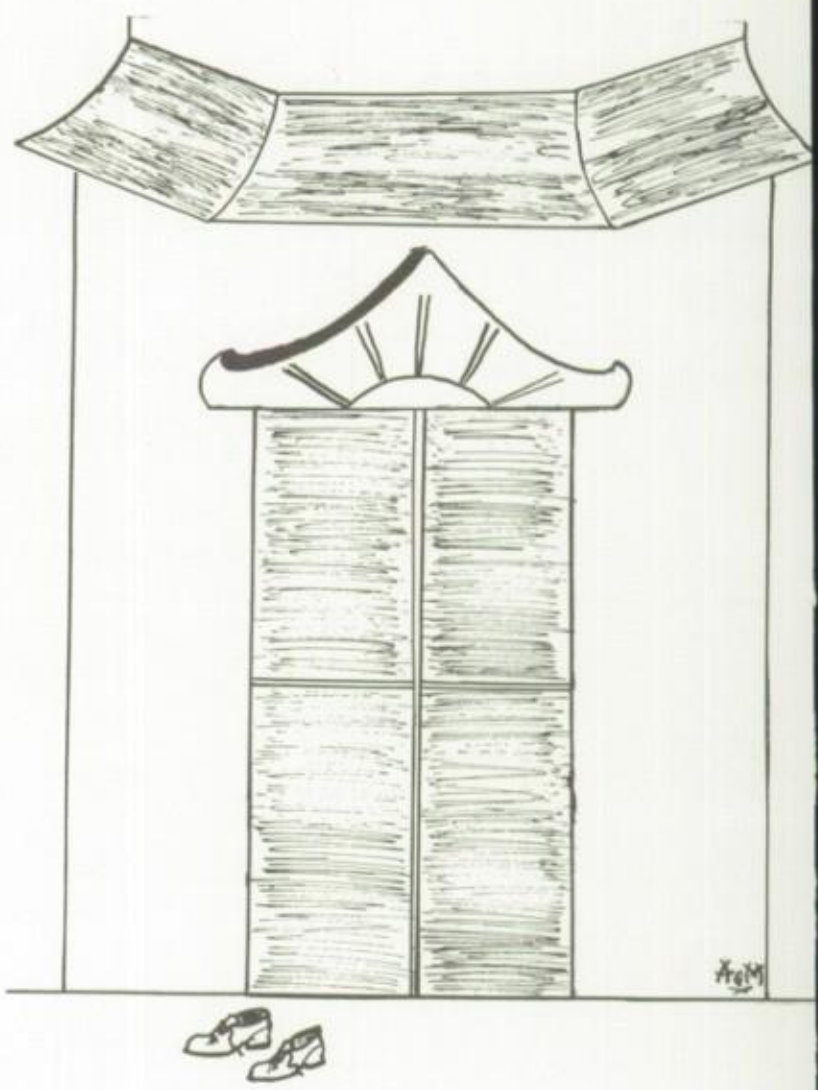
מעלה נשיאים מקצה הארץ (תהלים קל"ה).



BEN-ZION BERLIANT

Ben-Zion is one of the most ardent Hebraists in the class of '64. His interest in this language has led him from a summer in Camp Massad to a year as Editor-in-Chief of the Hatchiya. His liking for Hebrew is shown by his liking for anything Israeli, especially singing and dancing. Ben was a fine asset to our Track Team and by his own admission was an "ace cameraman" for the Elchanite. Finding the T.I. program too rigorous, Ben switched to the comparative ease of T.A. Yet he still found he could not escape the smiling face and bare pate of Rabbi Gordon. Despite these harships, Ben survived and will attend Yeshiva College where he will major in either physics or engineering.

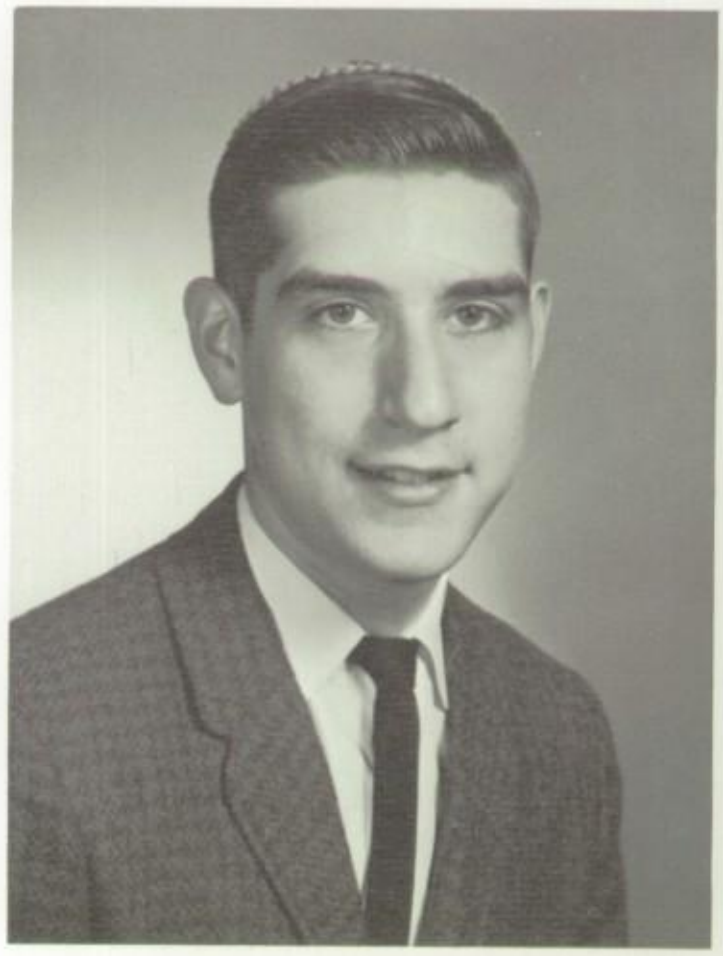
איש אהב חכמה ישמח אביו (משלי כ"ט).

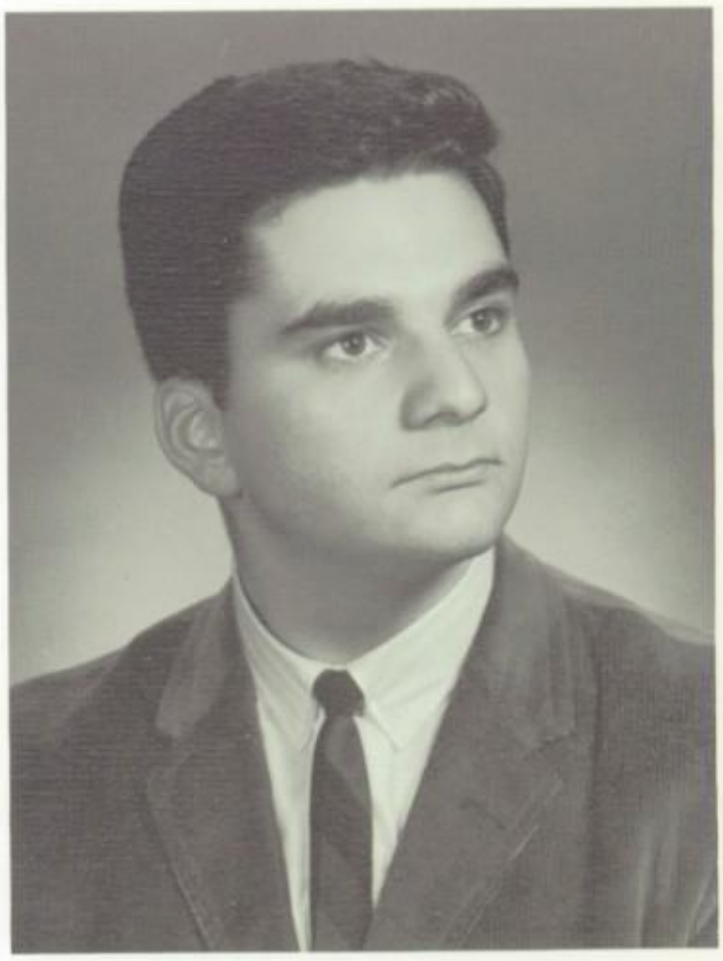


MICHAEL BIRK

Mike's keen, inquisitive mind greatly aided him as he went through four years of hardships at Yeshiva. His interest in math made him an able standard-bearer for our school on our Math Team. He further lifted our school's image as an active member of our Soccer and Checker Teams. This proves Mike's versatility. He is equally at ease running across a soccer field or sitting in front of a checker board. He also took an interest in the "Shapiro Library" where he rose in the ranks to become Chief Librarian. In this capacity Mike thwarted more would-be borrowers of our sacred tomes than any of his predecessors. We wish him luck as he pursues his studies at City College.

עשות ספרים הרבה אין קץ (קהלת י"ב).

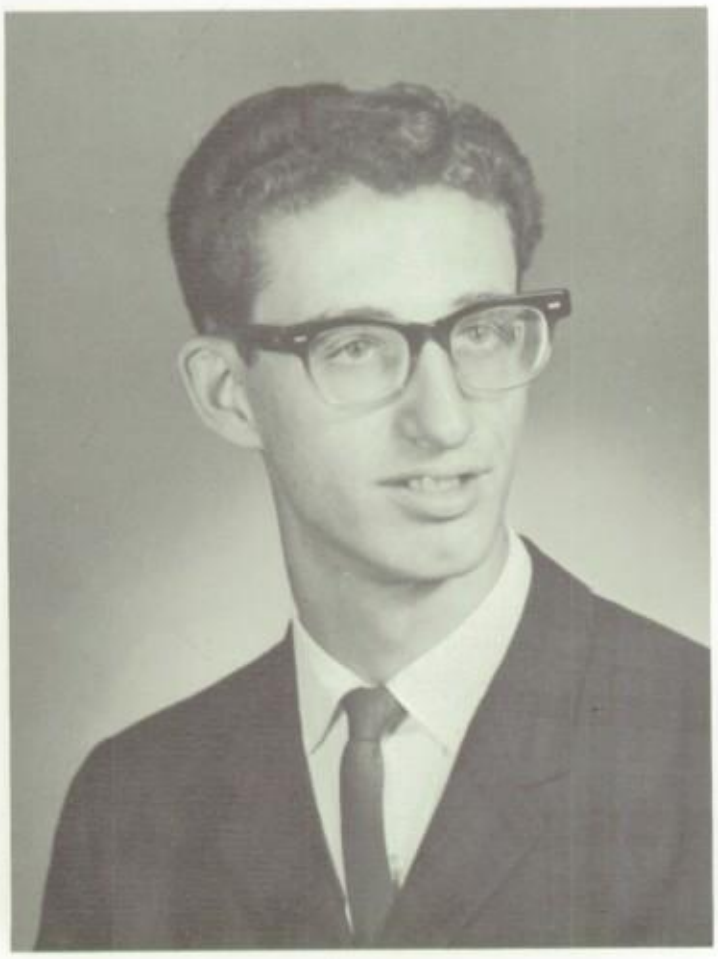




MOSES BIRNBAUM

Often while walking throughout the hallowed halls of our school, one may hear a calm but argumentative voice explaining at great length to a teacher why and under what conditions that teacher or some student is wrong or right or neither. Most likely this voice will belong to Moses A. Birnbaum, celebrated orator and co-captain of our marvelous interscholastic Debating Team. Moe has also applied his talents to humor as Feature Editor of the Academy News and the Class of '64 and as a contributor to Depth, the defunct Y.U.H.S. humor magazine. Moses, with an eye to his forensic abilities, plans a career in either law, the rabbinate, or teaching history. Anyone who doubts his chances of success had better prepare to face a stiff debate.

לא מצאתי לגוף טוב משתיקה (אבות ד').



DONALD BLEICH

Despite the opinions of our worthy administrators, Donny is one of the most law-abiding members of our class. An agile basketball player, Donny's Yeshiva career was thwarted temporarily by the untiring efforts of "the little man in 109." His enthusiasm for Gemara made him one of the first choices for the proposed Gemara Team. His "rebbes" have been unable to bear the thought of parting with him. Donny's keen interest and ability in mathematics enabled him to qualify for a special calculus course given in the college. We know this will greatly assist him at NYU where he will prepare for a career as an actuary.

משכילים בכל חכמה ויודעי דעת ומביני מדע (דניאל א').

ERIC BLITZ

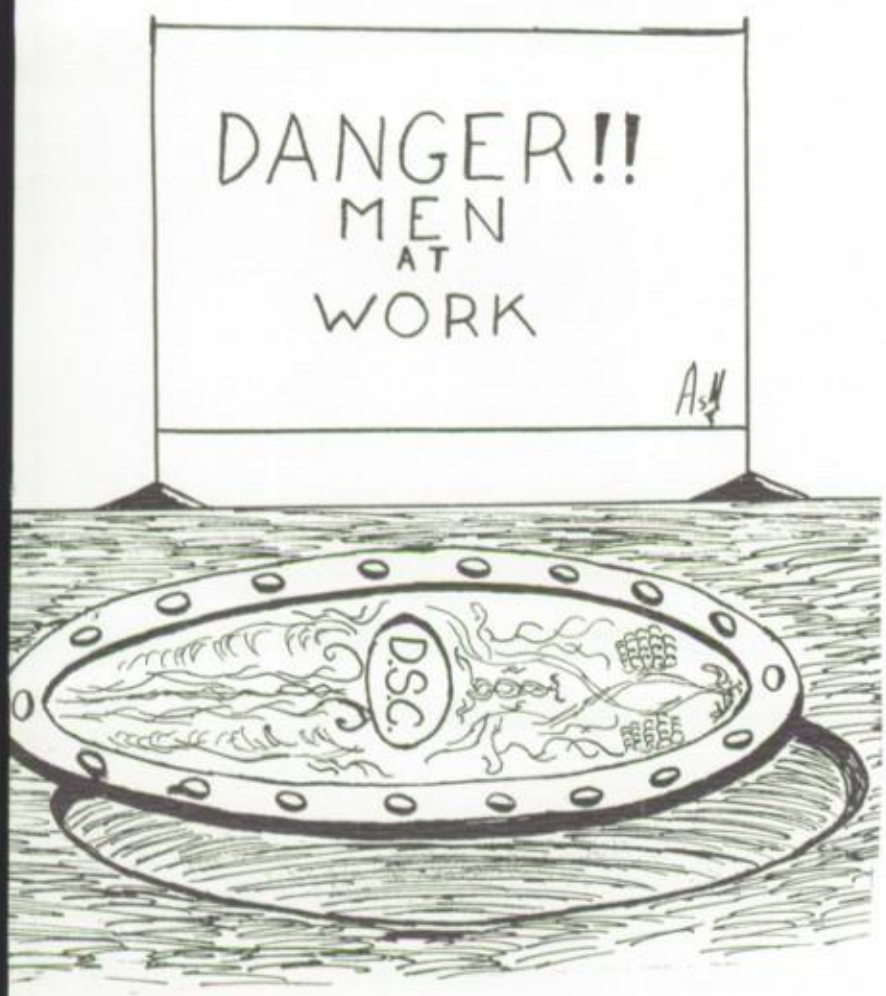
Although entering Yeshiva with only basic knowledge of Hebrew, Eric managed to excel in both Jewish and secular studies during his three-year stay. His scholarship and scholastic achievement were always subjects of conversation among fellow-students and among even the most hard-hearted of his "mentors." During his tenure as Literary Editor of the Compact he devoted much time and effort in helping to make that publication what it was. His support of and participation in such inter-scholastic and intermural activities as chess and checkers have been a factor in its consistent showing. Because of his desire to know more about man and the civilization he has built around him, Eric will major in the humanities at Brandeis.

חכמים יצפנו דעת (משלי י׳).

SHALOM BRILLIANT

With the last name "most likely to be used in a pun," Shalom has weathered both students' and teachers' remarks for four years at Y.U.H.S. Greatly endowed with artistic ability, Shalom could be found doodling during any class (although he favored gemara for this enterprise), Shalom has been Art Editor of almost every publication in our school. Despite his objection to the Elchy's theme, Shalom agreed to be Art Editor of the Elchanite. His fine work is an asset to our book (even though it was always submitted three weeks after the deadline). Shalom mastered his track technique running to catch the Bernstein-mobile every morning. His frequent failure to do so made his placement on the Track Team impossible. Shalom will continue his artistic endeavors as he studies commercial art or architecture at the college of his choice.

ויהי שלום בין חירם ובין שלמה (מלכים א׳־ה׳).



JOSEPH BURGER

Joey is one of the finest and most popular students ever to enter Y.U.H.S. His congenial manner led him to the post of vice-president of our G.O. In this capacity, Joey was a great crusader for more student participation in our school's extracurricular program. A very thoughtful student, Joey was a logical choice for Literary Editor of the Elchanite. Although Joey is not a communist, his five-year plan aroused much controversy among his classmates. His aversion to gemara teachers caused him to hotly rebuke a certain sophomore "rebbe," to that teacher's shock. Joey's clear and fine voice has been a welcome addition to many assemblies. He organized a singing group which became popular far and wide. As a result of Joey's fine personality we are sure he will be successful as he prepares for a career in psychology at Queens College.

שמח בחור בילדותך ויטיבך לבך בימי נעוריך ודע כי
על כל אלה יביאך הא־לקים במשפט (קהלת י״א).

RAOUL CAPPELL

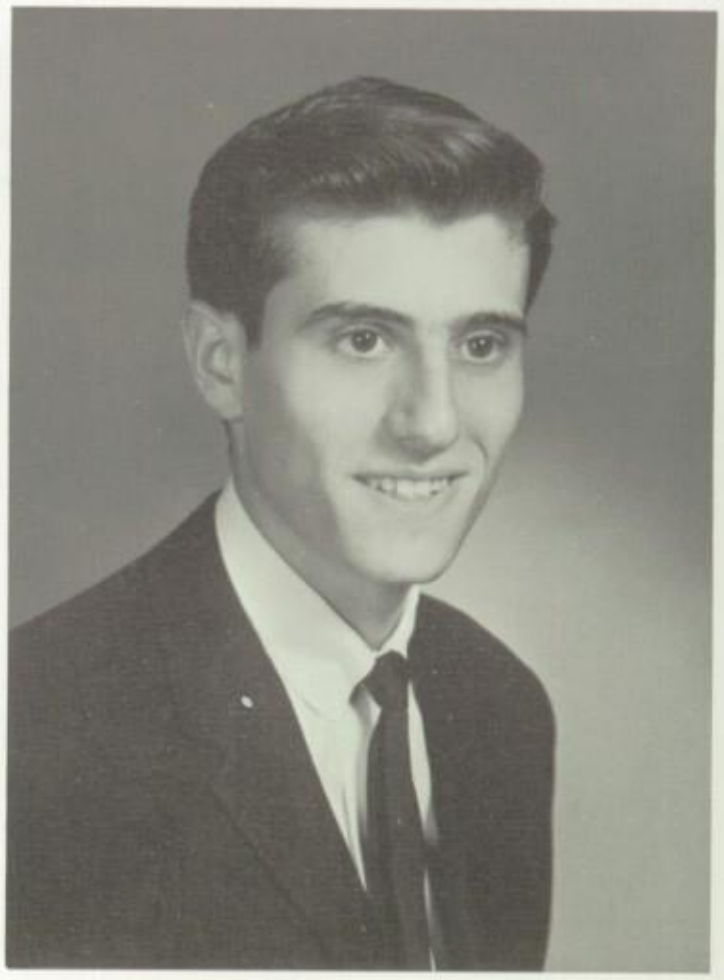
A member of the Bronx contingent, Raoul is recognized as having a deep insight into numerous fields. His mind has worked most actively during the social science subjects, where his opinions could be voiced numerous times daily. Raoul, who amazed his "Rebbeim" with his many amazing "peshatim" (explanations), has brought many lively moments to his morning classes. Always ready to do a friend a favor, he rarely shirked a fellow classmate's plea for assistance. His activities include chairman of the checker team, Typing Editor of Depth and the head of the Canvassing Committee. A good chess player, he helped our team to important victories. Although at the moment he is unsure of his major in college, we are sure he will carve a mark of distinction for himself in his eventual chosen profession.

תם וישר יצרוני (תהלים כ״א).

RICHARD CHAIFETZ

Quiet and reserved, Richard came to us from Worcester, Massachusetts in his sophomore year and still managed to have Rabbi Dulitz four times, a harrowing circumstance even if spread over four years. However, Richard came through it all unscathed. He has been an S.O.Y. committee chairman and has helped shape many of our laws as a member of the Constitution Committee. Unfortunately, the law of the probability of receiving certain teachers did not come under his jurisdiction. Richard will pursue a career in medicine after attending Yeshiva College.

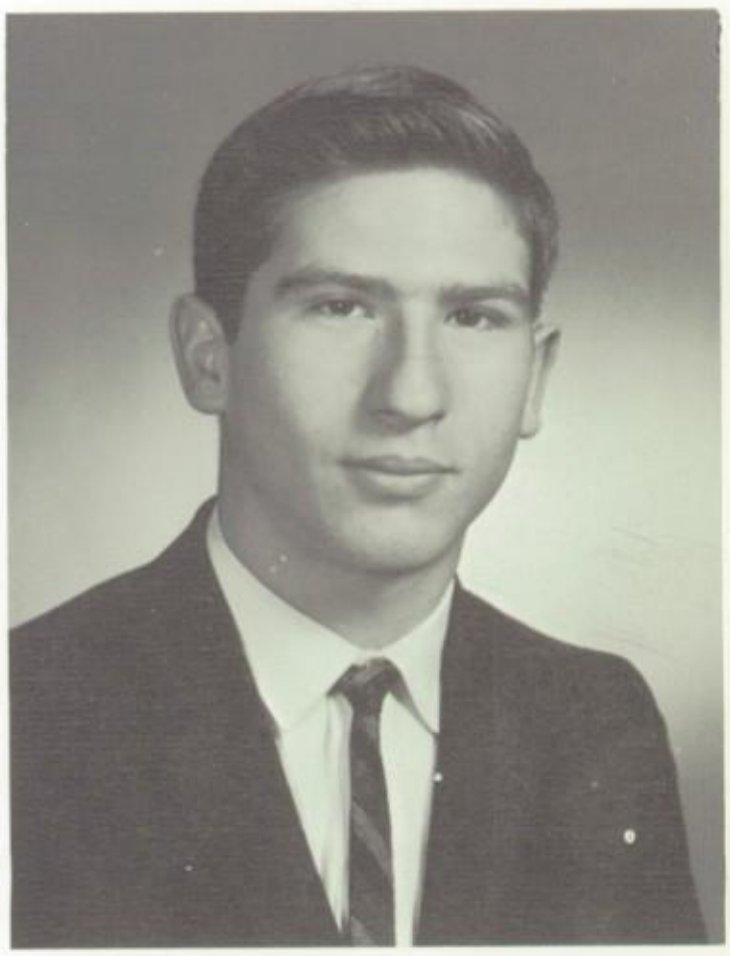
כעבור סופה ואין רשע וצדיק יסוד עולם (משלי י').



WILLIAM DAVIDSON

Coming as he does from the lazy country atmosphere of a Connecticut farm and even lazier atmophere of Chofetz Chaim, Will at first looked upon our school as a challenge. In two years he has not only met the challenge but also has gone further. His warm personality and quick smile were evidently his greatest assets even in the beginning. His rustic humor and perpetual optimism have had a bolstering effect in the dorm and school life of many students. Will plans to attend Yeshiva College where he will prepare for a career in some branch of medicine.

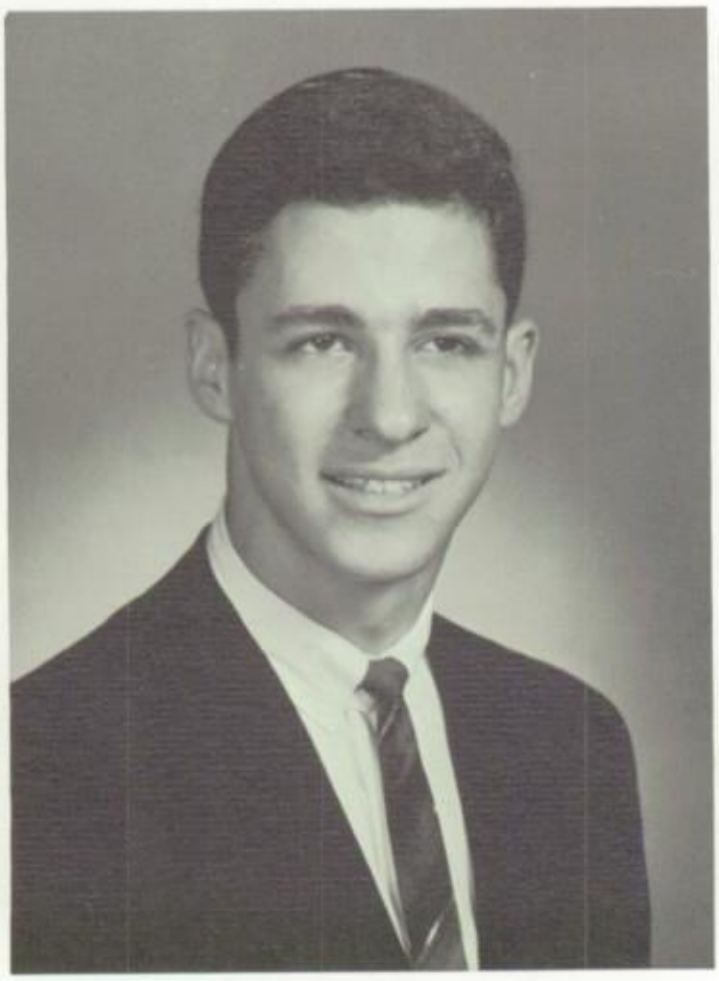
הוי שפל רוח בפני כל אדם (אבות ד').



MARVIN DICKEN

A Bronx boy whose heart sometimes seemed to be in Ramaz, Marvin nevertheless enjoyed his four years here. An avid numismatist, Marvin could be found at times pursuing his hobby in an odd way by pitching coins. A three-year tour of learning under the "Great Rabbi" almost ended abruptly in his senior year. His love of English solved this problem. Marvin has been a vital asset to our Math Team and has aided the Class of '64 with his service on our Junior Council. He also served as librarian in his senior year. We are sure that his knowledge of math gained from such mentors as Lyons and Schwartz will aid him as he studies Math at the college of his choice.

זכרתי לך חסד נעוריך . . . לכתך אחרי במדבר בארץ לא זרועה (ירמיהו ב').



JULES DIENSTAG

Jules' tenure at Y.U.H.S. may be termed a constant battle which he always won. Starting out in T.I. with Rabbi Gordon, Jules knew Yeshiva could be hard. After another year with R.M.G.(od), Jules decided to switch to T.A. Unfortunately, this time Jules met Rabbi Gordon's broad smile and head every afternoon for another year, Jules also waged a constant battle with the "Great Rabbi" whom he was privileged to have as a mentor for three consecutive, hard-working years. His efforts in the "less work for Yeshiva boys" campaign will long be remembered. Despite all the hardships of a T.A. boy, Jules managed to maintain one of the highest scholastic averages in our class and become president of Arista. While "struggling" with his teachers and subjects, he managed to become Business Manager of the Elchanite and captain of our Track Team. We are sure he will be successful as he studies science at Yeshiva University.

יהודה אתה יודוך אחיך (בראשית מ"ט).

SEYMOUR EDELSTEIN

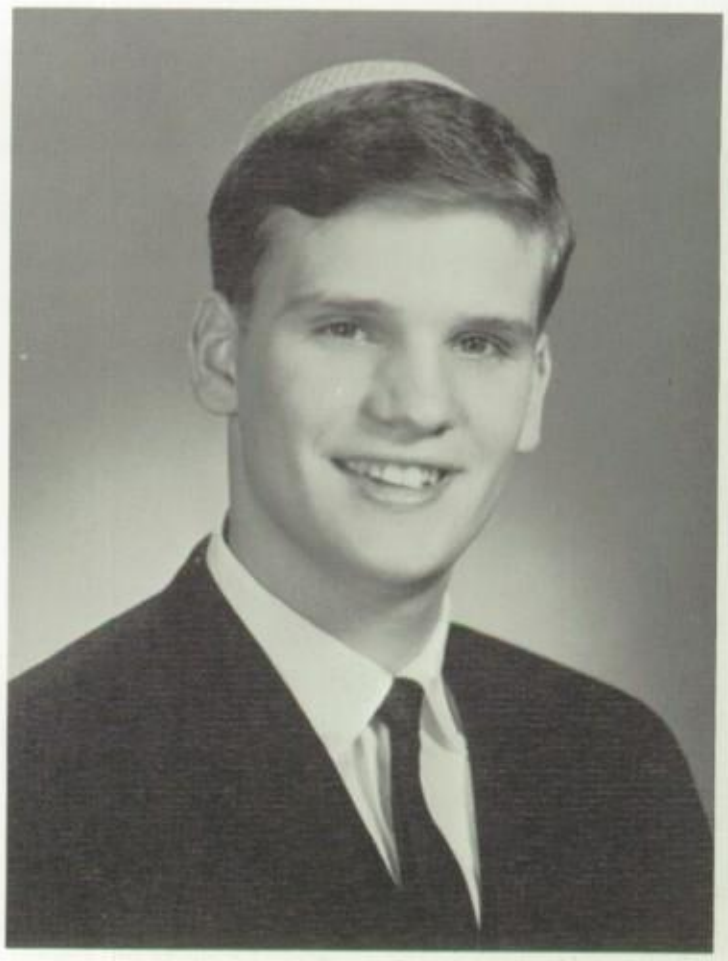
"Yogi" is one of the few boys in the class who has managed to go through four years of Y.U.H.S. with most of his classmates not knowing his first name. Nevertheless, he was one of the most popular boys in the class. This is shown by his election to the Student Council twice and to the Freshman and Sophomore Councils. Yogi always enjoyed a good game of chess or checkers. This enjoyment led him on to many victories in both intramural and inter-scholastic chess and checker meets. His love for Yeshiva life and learning will be augmented as he continues his studies at Yeshiva University.

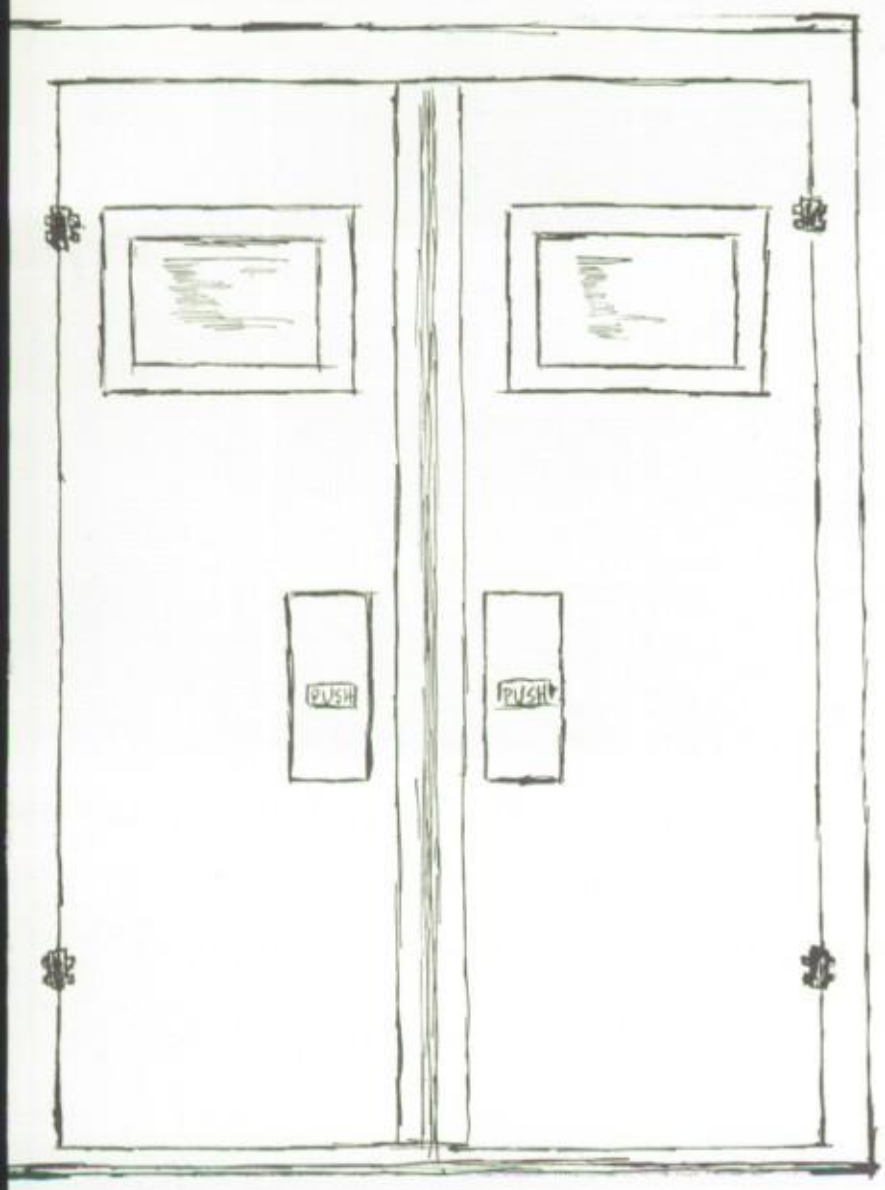
רודף צדקה וחסד ימצא חיים צדקה וכבוד (משלי כ"א).

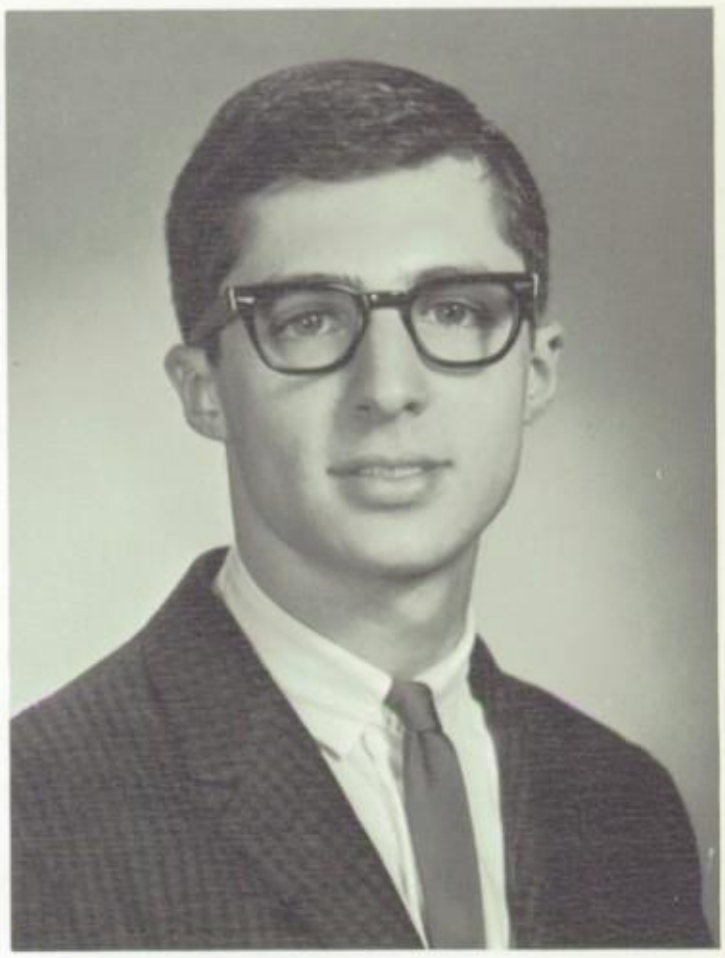
BARRY EISENBERG

Coming to us from the wilds of Hudson County, New Jersey, Barry has certainly left his mark in Y.U.H.S. His constant bouts with the "Great Rabbi" have provided many pleasing interludes from the monotony of English. Barry's amiable personality made him one of the best liked presidents of the Class of '64. He was one of the most domineering forces behind the "Let's get out and 'bottle'" committee of the dorm. He was the "powerhouse" of our basketball team and much of our team's success was due to Barry's strong playing. In the publication field, Barry has distinguished himself as Copy Editor of the Elchanite, News Editor of the Academy News and as a driving force behind the Dorm News. Barry will continue his harrassment of rabbis as well as his studies at Yeshiva College.

ברוך אתה בבואך וברוך אתה בצאתך (דברים).



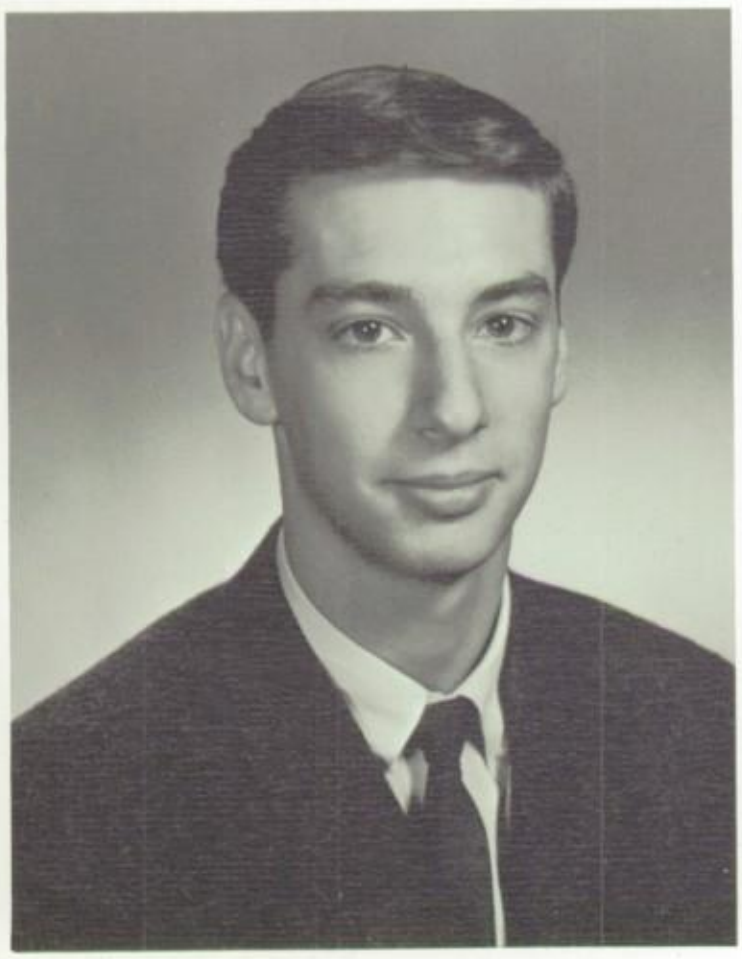




IRWIN EPSTEIN

Irwin has Y.U.H.S. down to a science; that is, of all he has accomplished while here, his most outstanding accomplishments have been in the realm of science. Aside from being Science Editor of the Compact and excelling in his science courses, including college biology, Irwin has also done a great deal of biological research on his own and has had various articles published in scientific journals. He also has a good sense of humor which led to his appointment as Feature Editor of the Elchanite and the Bulletin. However, Irwin has decided that science will take him farther than humor, and so he looks forward to a premedical course of study at Buffalo University.

כי מי יודע מה טוב לאדם בחיים : אשר מי יגיד לאדם מה יהיה אחריו תחת השמש (קהלת ו').



MICHAEL FABER

A survivor of one of the most publicized incidents of our four-year tenure, Mike has pulled out of that to become a normal, hard-working Yeshiva boy. He finally achieved a life-long dream when he gained a berth on the Varsity basketball team in his senior year. Mike proved to be a fine ballplayer. As intramural basketball chairman, Mike made sure all intramural meets were held at the proper time. To his credit is the fact that few meets were postponed because of "no-show" teams. Mike will pursue a career in biochemistry at the college of his choice.

בית יעקב לכו ונלכה (ישעיה ב').

JACK FASTEN

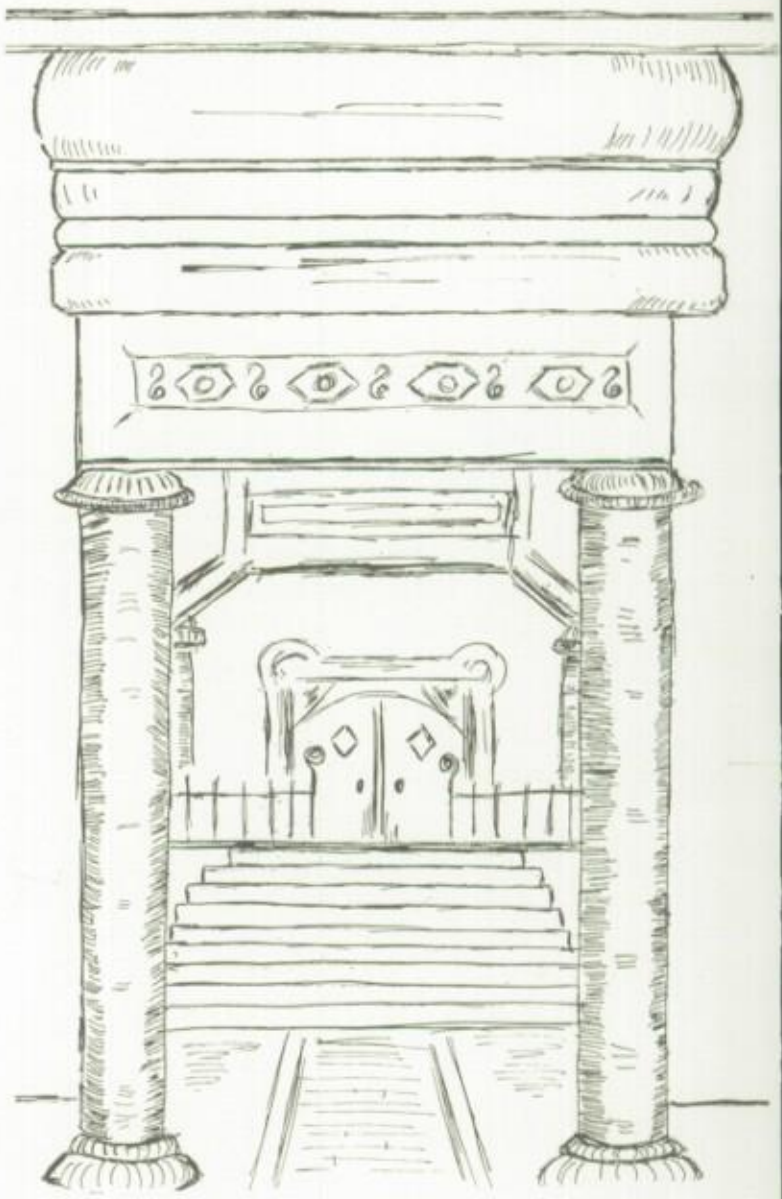
Jack has gone through four years of T.I. with a "fasten' ating" amount of energy. His experience with our morning "rebbes" as well as our afternoon "teachers" will long be remembered by both. Jack's popularity with his classmates placed him on both the Sophomore and Junior Councils. His interest in sports found him playing basketball or softball at usual study hours. Full of school spirit, Jack joined the Cheering Squad from its inception. Although not as gigantic as most members of other cheering squads, he was an asset to this bunch of "crazy seniors." His interest in math fostered by our fine math department led him to choose it as his major while he pursues his studies.

ויעקב איש תם (בראשית כ"ה־כ"ז).

MARK FEFFER

One of the school's most prolific writers, Mark has distinguished himself on almost all the school publications. He was a typical T.I. supremist. Mark, never fearing to voice his views, managed to "shecht" more sacred cows than anybody else in publication history. Unabashed and hard hitting, his style of writing endeared him to all his fellow students, while alienating himself to certain members of the "Big Bad Office," as he called it. His keen wit shone especially well when applied to Judaica. His literary preoccupation with his Hebrew studies probably evolved from his proficiency in them. Oozing with controversy from every pore, Mark managed to have most of his views printed as Feature Editor of the Academy News, Class of '64 and Elchanite. Mark will further his education at the college of his choice, where he will study with the aim of entering either the field of dentistry or advertising.

לב שמח ייטב פנים (משלי ט"ו).



ELIHU FELDMAN

Jovial Elihu is one of the most talented members of our class. Often at assemblies he has dazzled the rest of us with his rich tenor voice. He is also the only member of the Class of '64 to attend the Cantorial Training Institute at Yeshiva University. Despite the burden of this double program and that of his long hours of traveling each day to Jamaica, Queens, Elihu still finds time to pursue actively his other interests: opera, liturgy, and biochemistry. It is perhaps this last interest which has influenced his decision to pursue a medical career at Yeshiva University.

השמיעני את קולך כי קולך ערב ומראיך נאוה
(שיר השירים ב').

HARVEY FELDSCHREIBER

Seemingly showing very little interest in marks, Harvey managed to compile a fine average while attending Y.U.H.S. During his years here, he has run the gamut of different types of teachers, from smart to not-so-smart, from hard-hearted to old-softies, from stubborn to cajoleable. Although usually playing a "man behind the scene" role, Harvey has been a frontrunner in such activities as our class councils, General Organization, and various class newspapers. Harvey has also slapped his way to a berth on our Handball Team. Harvey will continue his subtle cajoling at City College, where he will study engineering.

קנות בינה נבחר מכסף (משלי ט"ז).

MARTIN FIALKOFF

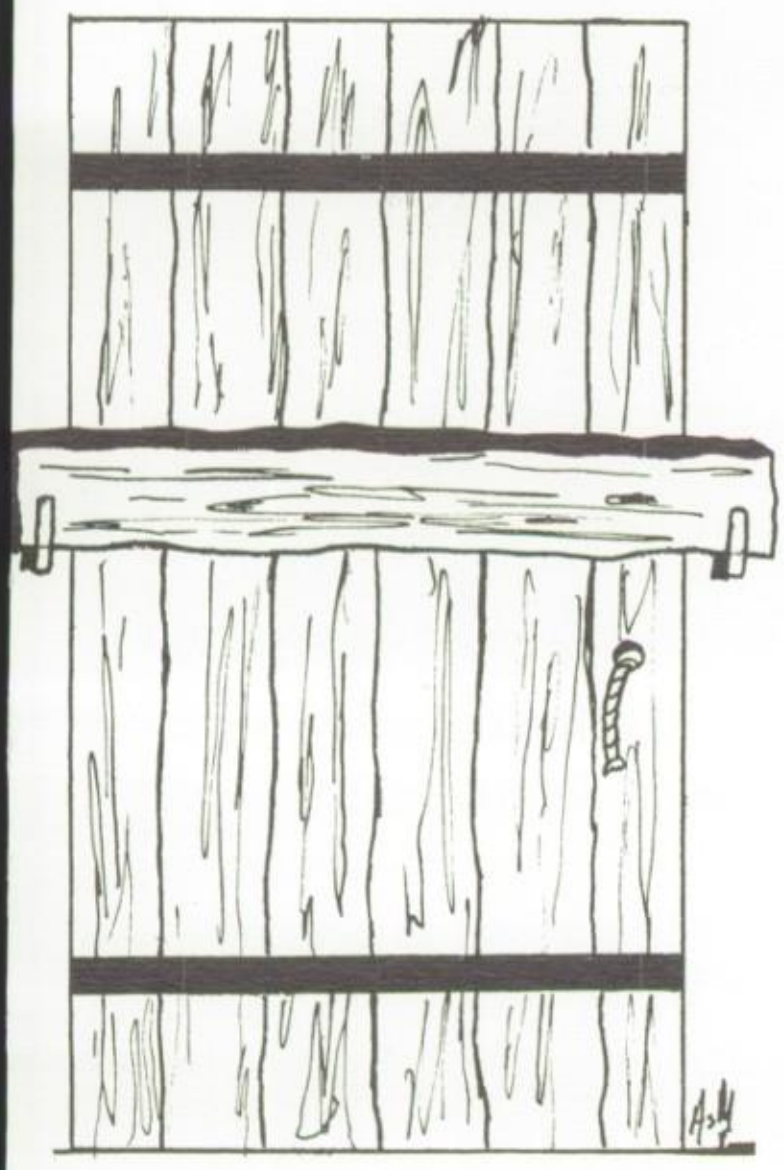
Since Martin came to us as a sophomore from Providence Hebrew Day School, he has been active in such S.O.Y. committees as the Chavrusa and Shatnes Committees. His unbounded yearning for Talmud has made him pursue for himself an advanced Torah study, in which he completed Tractate Megillah last year. His scrutinizing mind has made him a star pupil in Rabbi Feldblum's and Rabbi Parnes' class. He is an active worker for Agudas Israel and has attended Camp Agudah. Martin will enter Brooklyn Night College and will continue his Talmudical studies by day at Torah Vodaath Talmudical College. He expects to be a Talmud teacher and a Rabbi—an excellent one, we are sure.

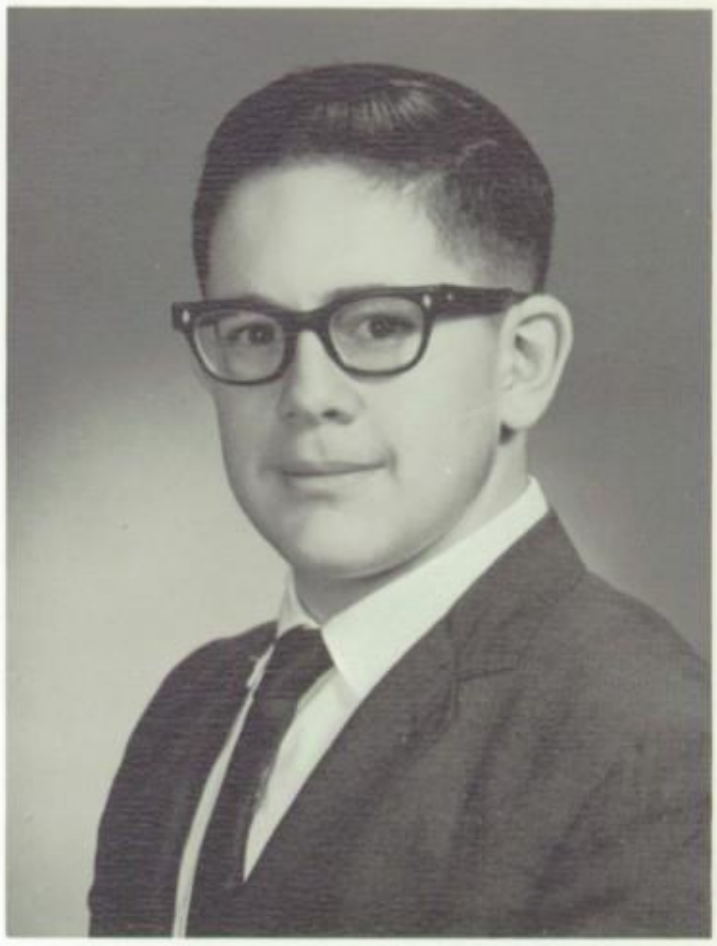
מאיר לעולם כולו בכבודו.

BENNETT FINER

Bennett is one of the unusual breed of students known as 'Ramazites.' Coming from this rival 'Yeshiva,' Ben has found a truly personal spot in the heart of our school's much-beloved principal. An adept 'bottler,' Bennett has often been discovered meandering around the basketball court downstairs, where he has achieved recognition as a very fine ball handler. One of his most enriching experiences is his frequent trip to Brooklyn where he is spiritually uplifted.

היום קצר והמלאכה מרובה . . . והשכר הרבה (אבות ב׳).

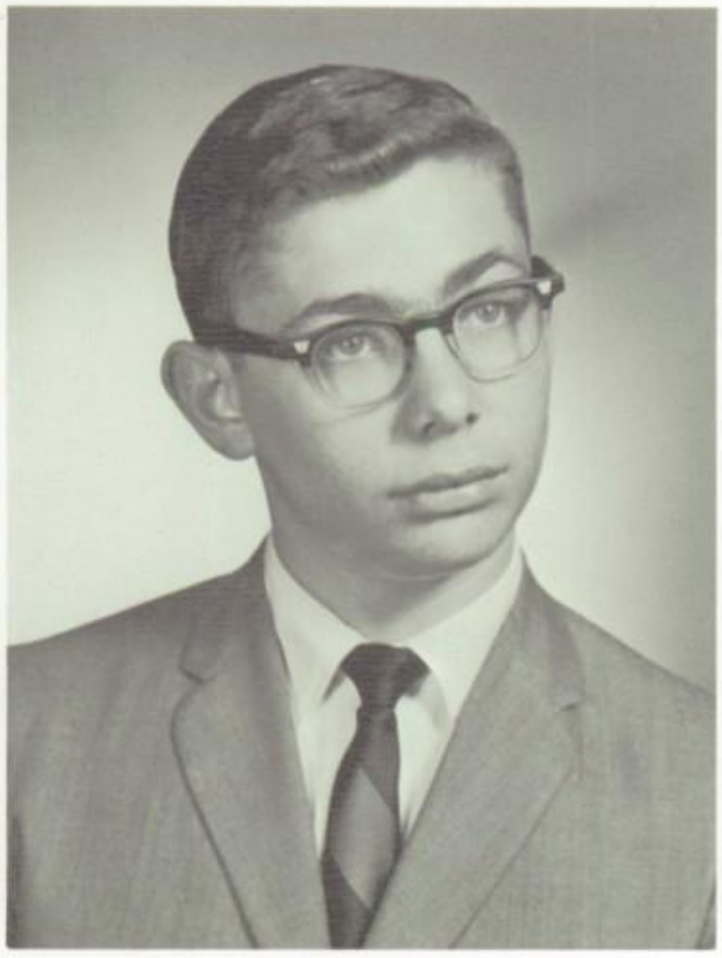




MERVYN FRANKEL

Mervyn, one of the most respected students in his class, is possessed of one of the finest intellects in the school. His main interests are directed toward mathematics, reading and gemara. His unquenchable thirst for Torah has kept him high on the list of the best learners in the class. Mervyn also has managed to find time to participate in interscholastic checkers, be a member of the Elchy photography staff, and serve as Copy Editor of the Hatchiya. He already has a foothold in Yeshiva College, as he is in a college shiur, and plans to pursue his major in mathematics there. His fine disposition and consideration for others, make us wish him success in his future studies, and in Torah learning.

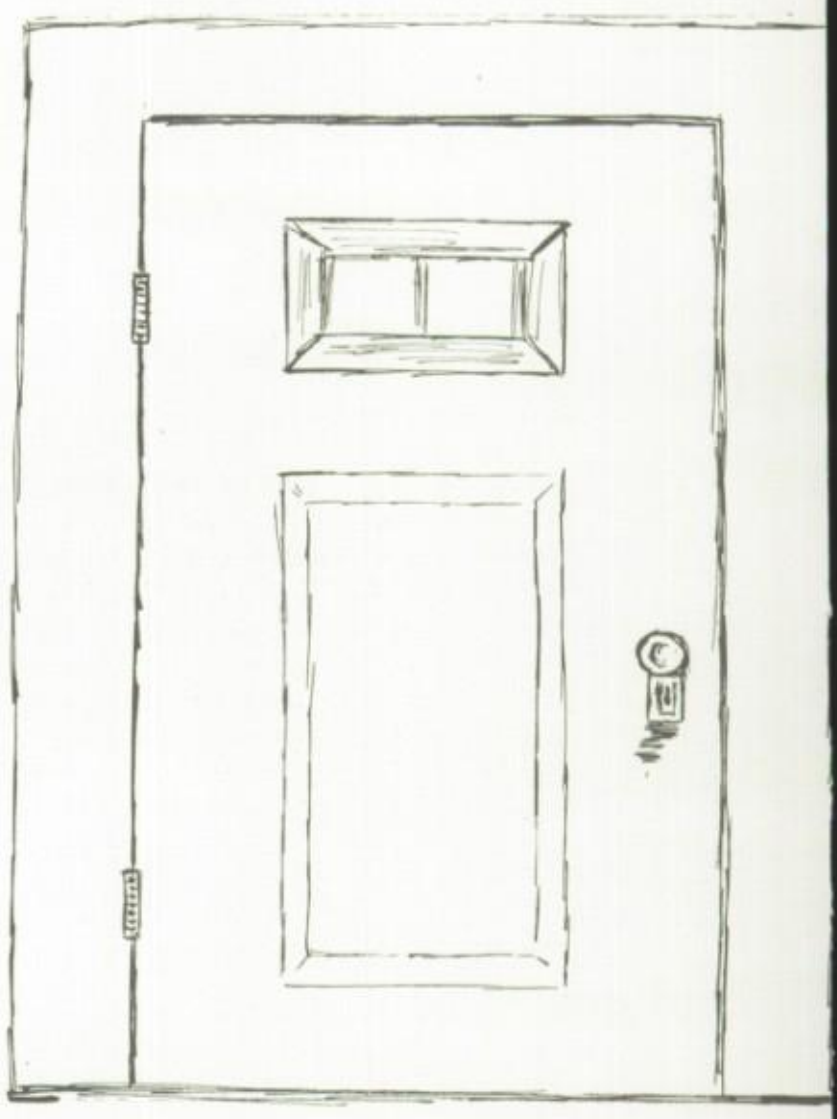
מתהלך בתמו צדיק (משלי כ׳).



MICHAEL FRANKEL

Michael "Mechy" Frankel, a Washington Heigths boy, has retained the admiration of his fellow students throughout his four-year stay at our school. Whatever he has attempted he has succeeded in doing well. A former member of the J.V. Basketball Team, Mechy can be seen playing his favorite sport at any free moment. An excellent math student, he was one of the few chosen for the Yeshiva's first college math class. His activities are very diverse, some of them being Business Manager of the Academy News, Assistant Editor of the "Class of '64" and captain of the Handball Team. We are sure Mechy will excel as he attends Y.U., where he hopes to major in Math.

ענוה גדולה מכולן (ע״ז כ׳).



ALLEN FRIEDLAND

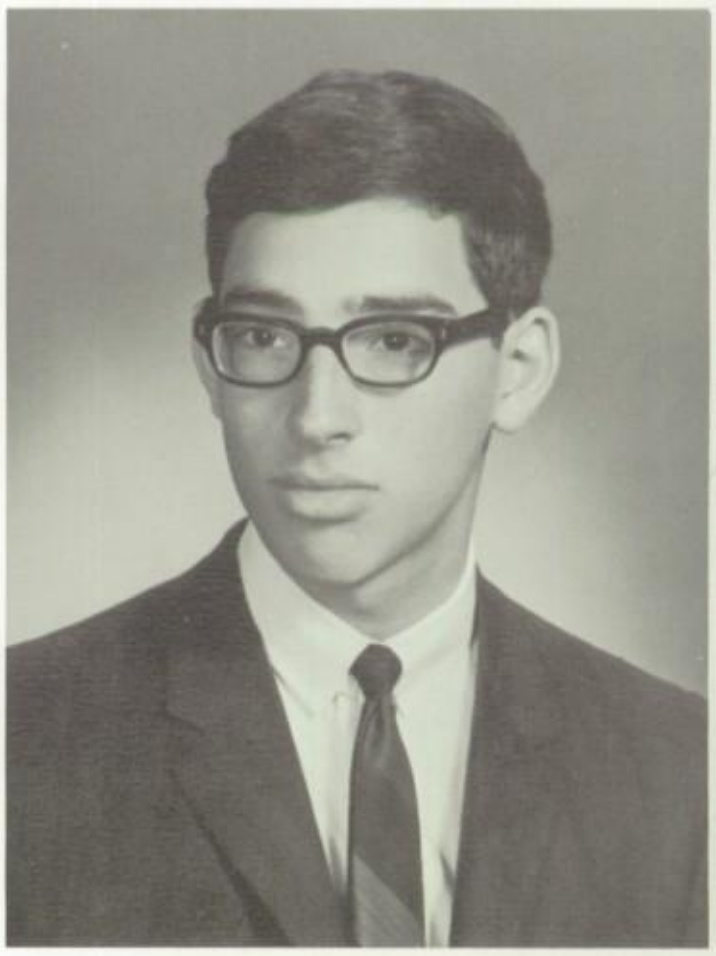
Allen is a student who divides his time equally between loyalty to Yeshiva and to Israel. Allen came to our hallowed halls in his junior year from Rabbi Jacob Joseph High School. He soon found his place among the students of our Talmud Department. Allen's great creativity and interest in writing made him a logical choice as Literary Editor of the Elchanite. His active participation in Mizrachi Hatzair has made him our candidate for the "most likely to settle in Israel" award. His zionistic leanings will begin to see their realization when he attends Yeshivat Beyavneh in Israel prior to his studying for semicha at Y.U.

אם אשכחך ירושלים תשכח ימיני (תהלים ע"ב).

MANNES FRIEDMAN

Mannes combines exceptional intelligence with a wonderfully warm and friendly personality. He holds the respect and affection of all of his acquaintances as shown by his election to the vice-presidency of the Class of '64, to the G.O. and to the Awards Committee. Mannes lit up an extremely dark year for Mr. Magoo with his sagacious compositions. In his Hebrew subjects Mannes has especially excelled. It was rumored for a time that Mannes was the pet of a certain rabbi-teacher-psychologist, but this was later disproved. Dubbed by 'Willy' Wollman, a keen judge of human character, "the athlete," Mannes lived up to this appellation by playing J.V. basketball and participating in many interscholastic teams. We are sure that Mannes will succeed as he prepares for a career in Hebrew at the college of his choice.

כל שרוח הבריות נוחה הימנו רוח המקום נוחה הימנו (אבות ג').



MARTIN FUCHSMAN

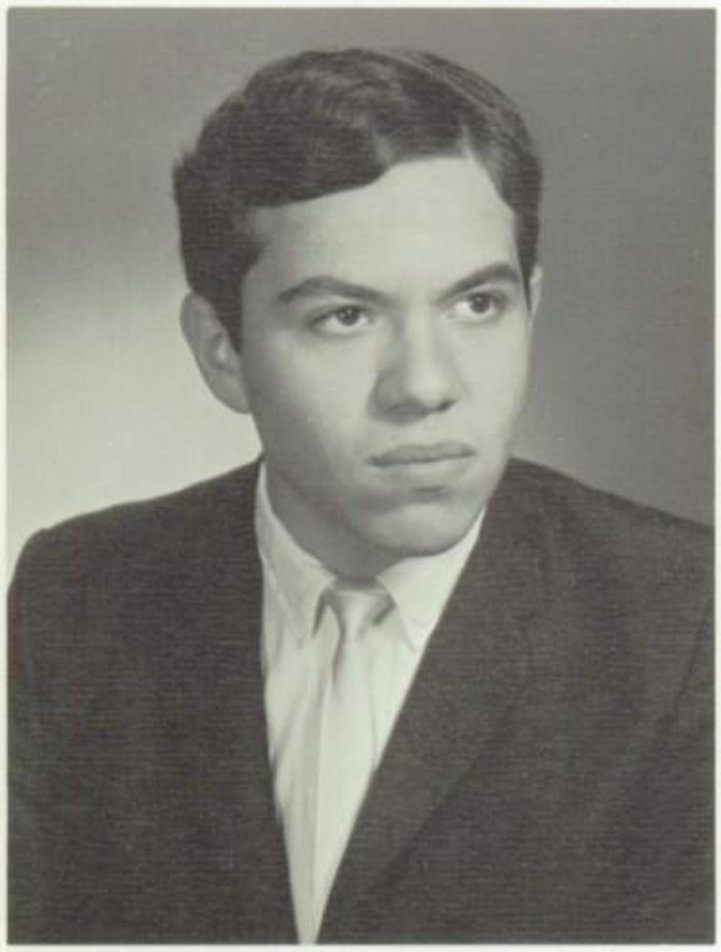
Marty, or Fuchsy as he is called by his friends, is one of the nicest students in the senior class. He is popular with both T.A. and T.I. students. One of Rabbi Suna's favorite pupils, he has never been in trouble with the office during his stay at Yeshiva Univ. High School. A strong sports enthusiast, he enjoys following his favorite teams throughout the year. Marty is usually very quiet in class and many of his Talmud teachers want a little more zeal when he learns. A former student of Salanter, Marty intends to complete his education in Yeshiva University. We are sure he will be a success in any endeavor.

ברוך מרדכי היהודי.

IRA GELERNTER

Possessed of a surname which is accurately descriptive, Ira is notable for his consistently beaming demeanor. He has sailed through high school, smiling as if he enjoyed it. But Ira has done more than just smile. He has done so well in math as to earn himself a place on our varsity Math Team. He has also been a member of the interscholastic Checker and Bowling Teams. Outside of school he has such sundry interests as athletics, numismatics, and tropical fish. Ira now plans to attend Yeshiva University or City College to enter the field of medicine or mathematics. In either case, Ira should come through smiling as usual.

מאיר עינים ישמח לב (משלי ט"ו).



ABRAHAM GELIEBTER

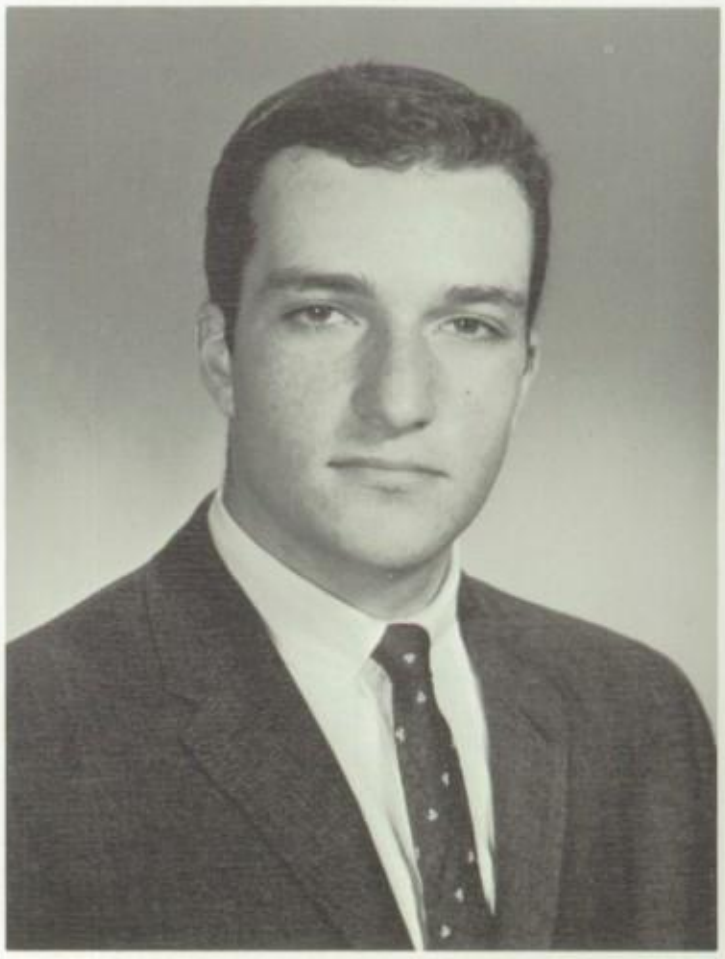
Yeshiva Chasam Sofer's sole representative at M.T.A., Abraham has become a most distinct member of our class. Possessor of an exceptionally keen mind, he is one of few seniors in a college gemara shiur. Despite this he still maintained a 95% scholastic average compiled in his short stay at our school. Abraham's outside interests include reading, playing chess, ping-pong and experimentation. During his stay at Y.U.H.S., Abe particularly enjoyed Mr. Finkelstein's stimulating chemistry course, where he achieved such distinctions as receiving 100's on "impossible" exams. Upon graduating Abe plans to attend City College where he hopes to major in chemistry.

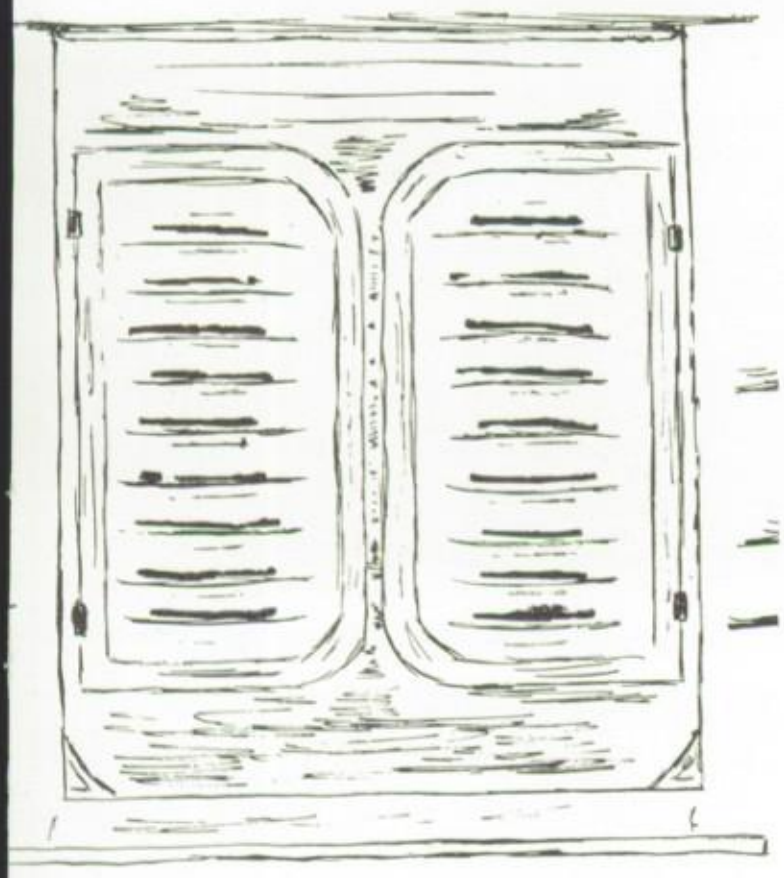
שפתי חכמים יזרו דעת (משלי ט"ו).

DAVID GITLER

Although quiet and reserved usually, David has been a vital and driving force in the Class of '64. His speech in "Sunese" (a strange dialect peculiar to Junior T.I. Gemara teachers) shows his humorous side. David is one of the most well-read members of our class. This quality, coupled with his experience in the field of publications earned him the position of Editor-in-Chief of the Academy News. In this job, fraught with controversies with the administration, David fared quite well. His experience in dissecting our school via the Academy News will stand him in good stead as he studies biology in City College.

ותצלח רוח ה' אל דוד (שמואל א' ט"ז-י"ז).





SIDNEY GLANZ

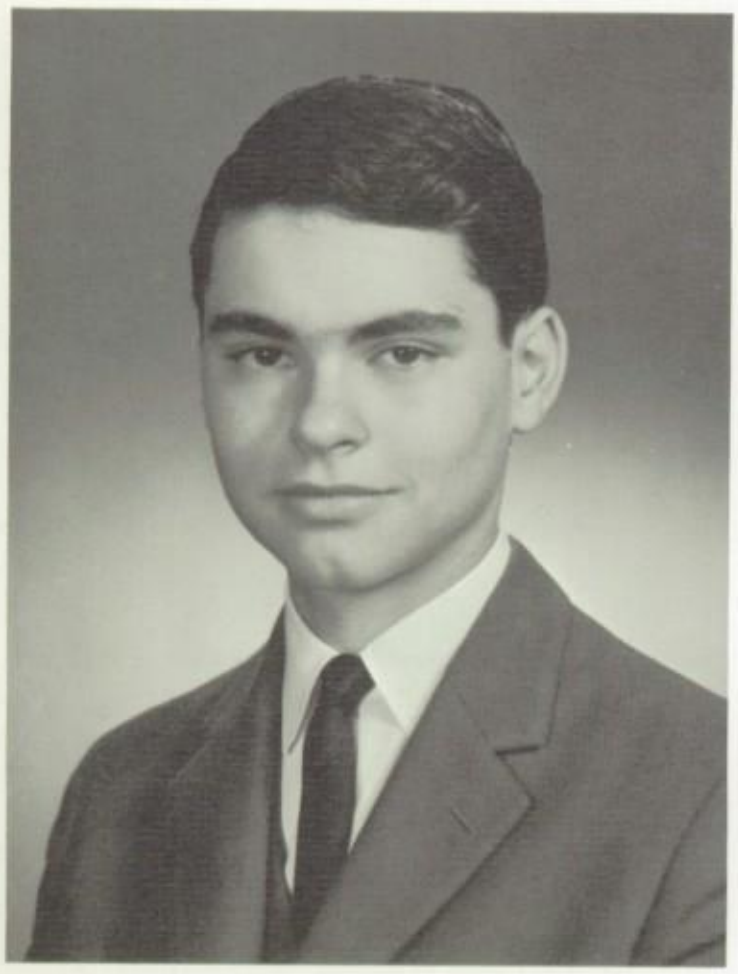
Sidney, usually an introvert, is one of the true "savanti" of the school. Though he is usually reticent, when he does speak, he speaks to the point. His activities are quite diverse, and they really bring out Sid's versatility. He has been, among other things, a member of the Soccer and Debating Teams and Academy News Managing Editor. A failure to participate in Rabbi Feldblum's shiur got him on the bad side of that gentleman. Recognized as a scholar by his classmates, Sid's main stimulus to work and study was his sincere desire to learn more about the world in which he lives. Sidney will attend C.C.N.Y. where he will major in one of the natural sciences.

שמחה לארץ וששון לעירך.

ALLAN GLAZERMAN

Through four years at M.T.A., Allan has shone with the most persuasive light of any member of our class. His teachers and classmates have been forced to believe much of what he says (even if it is not all true). His priceless quips have livened many classes while deadening as many teachers. Allan's Zionistic tendencies plus his love of the Hebrew language caused him to run the course of switching from R.J.J. to our T.A. department to T.I. There he finally found his place among the watchful teachers and gemara-immunized students. Allan will continue his Hebrew studies amid that language's natural habitat at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

כי אין צדיק בארץ אשר יעשה הטוב ולא יחטא (קהלת ז').



EMANUEL GOLDSCHMIDT

Emanuel, a walking polyglot, has amazed all his teachers and classmates with his uncanny ability to master a language. Coming all the way from that "little" city in Argentina, Buenos Aires, Manny has been one of the most cheerful boys in our class. Always optimistic over any test, he entered each exam with such an air of confidence that he even amazed his best friends. He can be seen nightly in the dorm fooling around and causing a commotion. His activities include Photography Staff of Elchy, Typing Editor of the Bulletin, and the Office Squad. His main hobby is traveling, and he already has visited most of the Americas and Europe. He will major in textile engineering at either the Manchester College of Science or an American college.

שלחני ואלך אל ארצי (מלכים א׳-י״א).

SHELDON GOLDSMITH

Abandoning the smoking East Side for the verdent green of Laurel Hill Terace in his freshmen year, Sheldon immediately gained distinction in all his classes. A fine Talmudic student, Shelly was especially effective in Rabbi Yankelewitz's provocative shiurim. In athletics, he has lent his talents to our Handball and Track Teams. His basketball gifts are utilized by his neighborhood YMHA where he is a member. Truly a versatile, ingenious young man, Shelly has discovered new and fascinating ways of entering the gym. After graduation, Shelly will continue his talmudic education at Yeshiva College.

וירא מנחה כי טוב ואת הארץ כי נעמה ויט שכמו לסבול (בראשית מ״ט).

HOWARD GOODMAN

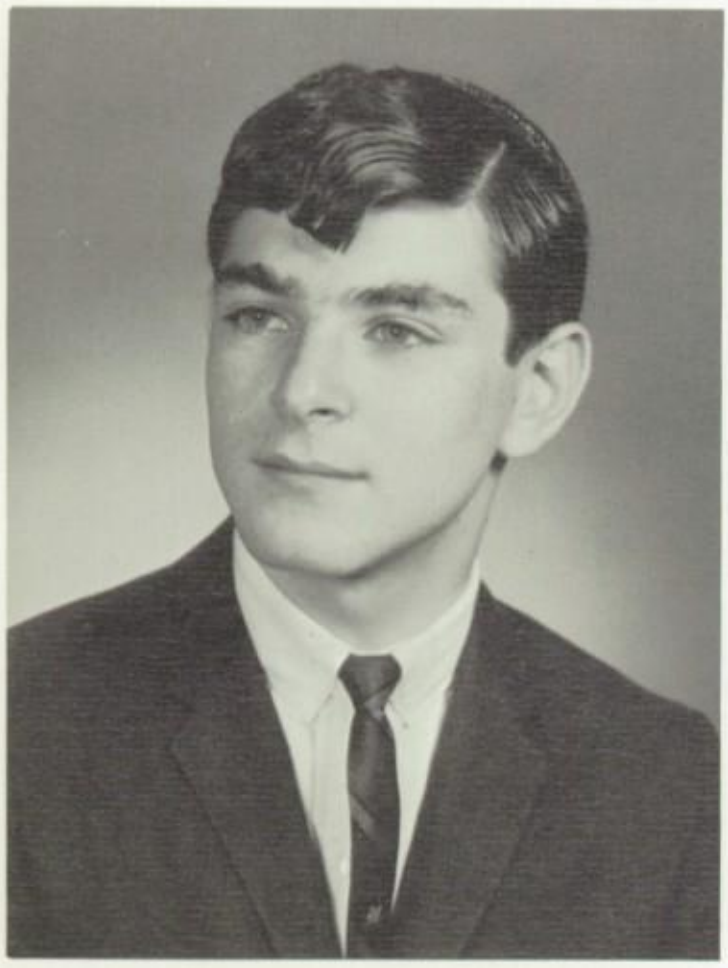
One of the finest members of our class, Howie has gone through Yeshiva with an attitude unfortunately unequaled by many of his classmates. He regarded his four years here as years of learning and enrichment of his life. Being very altruistic, Howie has served faithfully as S.O.Y. representative aiding others not so fortunate as we. His crowning achievement was the chairmanship of the high school's drive for Anti-Shmad. On the secular front, Howie enjoyed and actively participated in intramural debating, the Junior Council and on the Lost and Found Committee. We are sure he will succeed as he continues his studies at Yeshiva University.

.(משלי י"ד) ביראת ה' מבטח עז

YITZCHOK GOODMAN

Yitzchok entered Y.U.H.S.M. in his freshman year from Yeshiva Soloveichik. His unlimited desire to learn Talmud has enabled him to enter Rabbi Lichtenstein's shiur. He is a studious boy who learns steadily in the Beth-Medrash. He has never failed a classmate in trouble, and his sincerity and abundant friendliness to everyone has caused his class to elect him as their representative to the G.O. He has also served on various committees, such as the Appropriations Committee. Yitzchok plans to attend Y.U. and enter the field of education—he is well suited for the career.

.(משלי ח') בצדק כל אמרי פי



MICHAEL GROOB

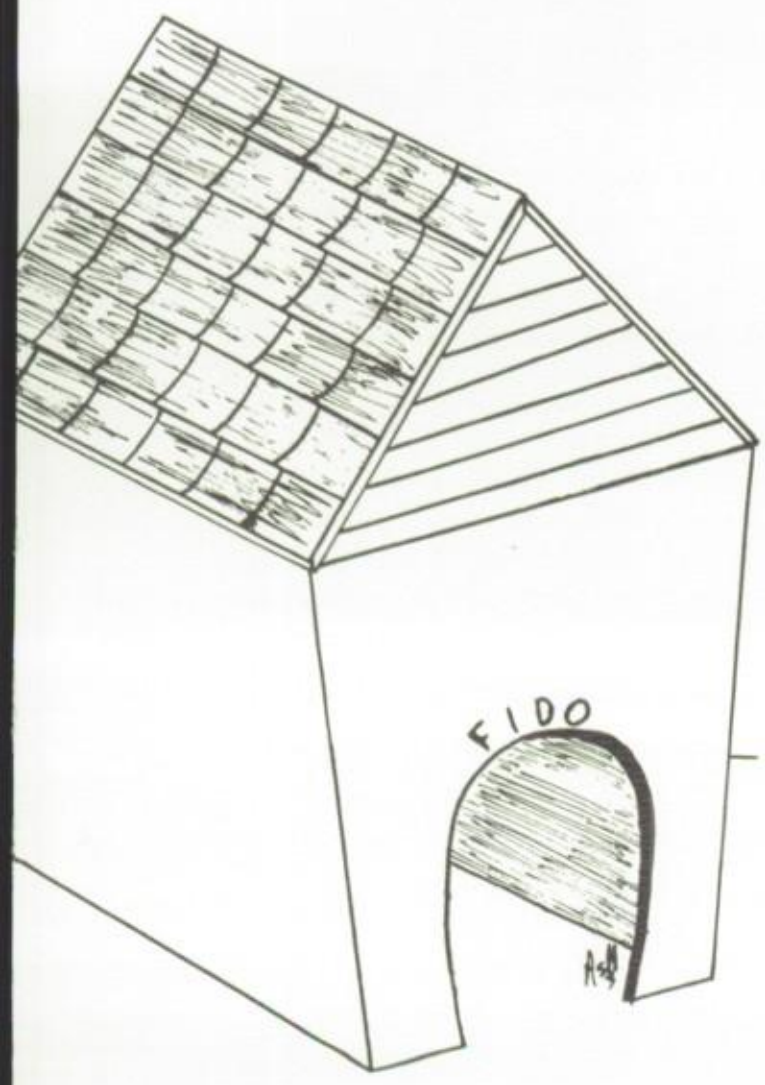
One of the more reserved members of our class, Michael comes to us from a reserved town—New Haven, Connecticut. He has fared well in four years of dorm life and can claim a fairly neuroses-free record, despite the claims of a psychologically-minded dorm supervisor. Whether to attend minyan or not was one of his few inner struggles. Michael is an avid sports enthusiast, and aided our Tennis, Bowling, and Track Teams immensely. His interest in sports extends to the realm of kingly pursuits such as horse races. This disproves the maxim that "yeshiva boys don't go to horse races." A believer in the cult of "I do what I please, when I please, as I please," Mike has done much that pleases him in helping our class on various publications, committees, and councils. With this background he is virtually assured of success as he studies law back home at the University of Connecticut.

כרוב אחד מקצה מזה (שמות ל"ז).

AVRAM GROSSER

Avi's politeness and quiet manner won him many friends among his classmates. Abandoning the smoky East Side for the verdant green of Laurel Hill Terrace in his sophomore year, Avi was greeted by the rigorous courses of Rabbi Dulitz and Dr. Frankel. However, despite these hardships he still managed to attain a high scholastic average. One of Rabbi Feldblum's best students "no doubt," Avi also excelled in his morning studies. On the athletic side, Avi has been a mainstay of our Handball Team. As a starter he boasts of an excellent record in both attendance and performance. Avi will continue his studies at Yeshiva College.

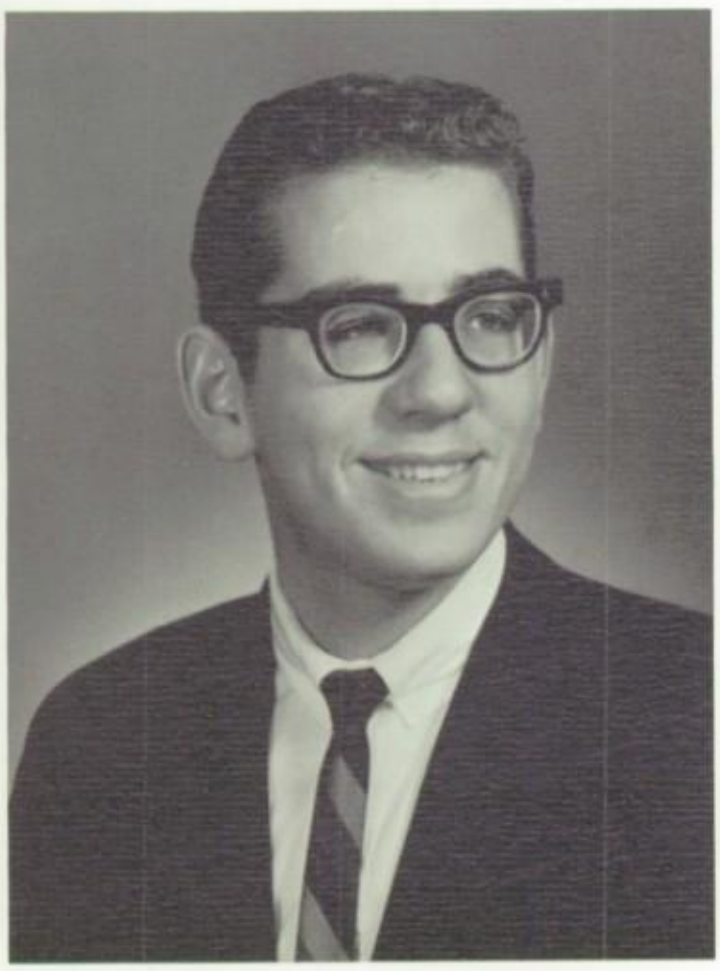
לשון חכמים תטיב דעת (משלי ט"ו).



IRA GURELL

Ira's career in Y.U.H.S. has been marked by certain friendships in a distinct and elite group. With Chuck at his side, Ira has tried to go through the life of a T.A. boy in the true R.J.J. style. His interests in sports and body-building have been aided by Yeshiva's weight-lifting room (open to college students only). On the Service Squad, Ira has held open the door of the second-floor landing through the thick smoke of countless fire-drills. Ira will continue his building program as he studies physical therapy at New York University.

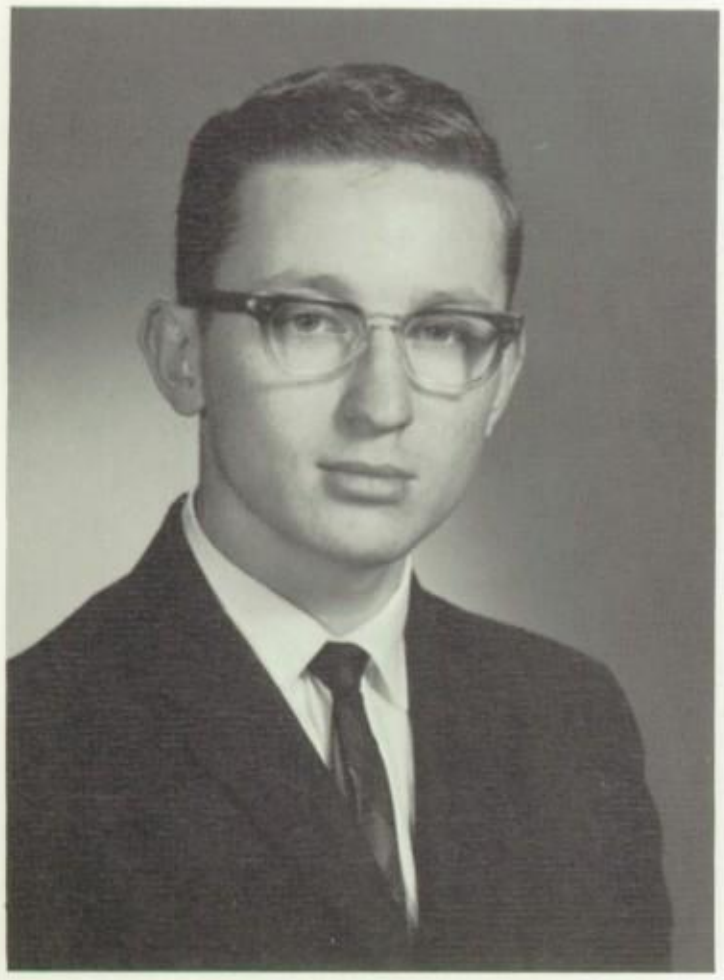
סורו סורו צאו משם טמא אל תגעו (ישעי' נ"ב).



MARTIN HALBFINGER

Marty has been one of the "men behind the scenes" in numerous classroom diversions for four years. His ready humor has been an asset to a class's morale and a detriment to a teacher's composure. His teachers still liked him for the hard work he did at many times throughout his high school career. An athletically inclined individual, Marty's interest in basketball made him an obvious choice for captain of our Bowling Team. By fostering a fond interest for inter-yeshiva competition he became manager of our Swimming Team. He has obviously been influenced by the couch-side manner of some of his T.I. teachers. This is shown by the fact that he will study psychology at City College.

ועל כרחך אתה עתיד לתן דין (אבות ד').



LEON HALPERT

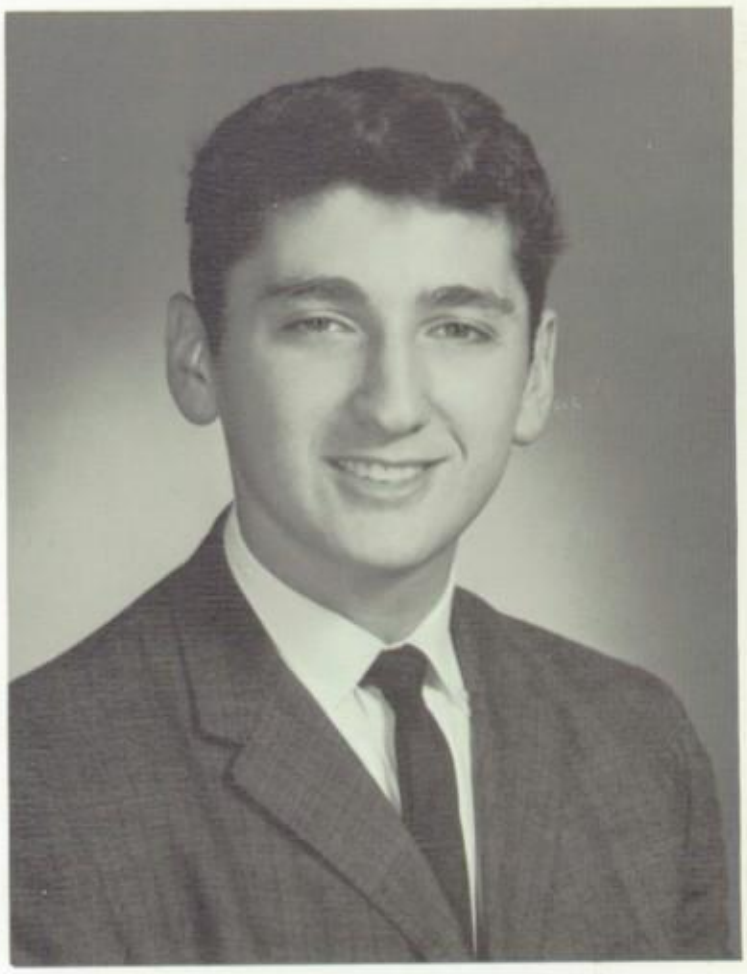
Leo is one of the few all-around sportsmen able to endure the rigors of Yeshiva for four years. He has definitely been strengthened by his tenure at Yeshiva (four years of climbing up our steps would strengthen anyone). Leo served ably as one of the members of the Awards Committee. He was one of the editors of the Class of '64 Sophomore Edition. (Odd that in the sophomore year almost everyone in the Class of '64 was an editor of that publication). Leo has also been a member of our Inter-Scholastic Baseball Team. As a member of our handball and track teams, Leo Found that his free days were spent at practice for one team or another. Besides this, Leo was a member of a basketball team of his shul. Leo will continue his studies (and maybe sports career) at CCNY where he will take up the study of business.

אם ללצים הוא יליץ ולענוים יתן חן (משלי ד' ל"ד).

DAVID HEIMOWITZ

One of the "East Side Boys," Dave managed to shrug off regional influence and achieve all-around success in his curricular and extracurricular activities. A firm believer in fair play, Dave brought this attitude with him as a member of our Awards Committee. Possessed of an insured palm, he was the logical choice for captain of the Handball Team. While most of us complain about the educational system, Dave intends to do something about it, just as soon as he completes his studies in education at Brooklyn College.

הולך את חכמים יחכם (משלי י"ג).



IRA HOBERMAN

Ira is known far and wide for his jolly personality and his overwhelming hospitality to guests, be it in his dorm room or at his home. The "open-door" policy of his Lakewood, N.J. establishment caused some minor trouble for two basketball players, but Ira came out unharmed by the administration's grilling. In his junior year Ira dormed with the already infamous duo of Kriger-Palefski. He was appalled to find out that many times he could not get into his own room because of certain clandestine meetings going on there. The next year Ira's dorm mates were out of the dorm, but he stayed on undaunted. In extracurricular life Ira was an able Sports Editor of the Academy News. We are sure he will succeed as he studies civil engineering at Rutgers.

צחק עשה לי אלקים (בראשית כ"א).

MATT HOCHBERG

Matthew came to our school from the wilds of Millington, New Jersey, dedicated to the proposition that anything which is not wired ought to be. Following this premise, he proceeded to connect all the electrical appliances in his dorm room to a remote control unit and to wire his room for sound. All this was done so he could turn on the lights, the radio and the record player, and listen to what was said in his room the previous day—all while lying in bed. Matthew also put some electricity into the G.O. Store as its manager and was in a great manner responsible for the store's rejuvenation two years ago. He plans to prepare for a career in electronic research at Yeshiva University.

כל ערום יעשה בדעת (משלי י"ג).

THOMAS HOFFMAN

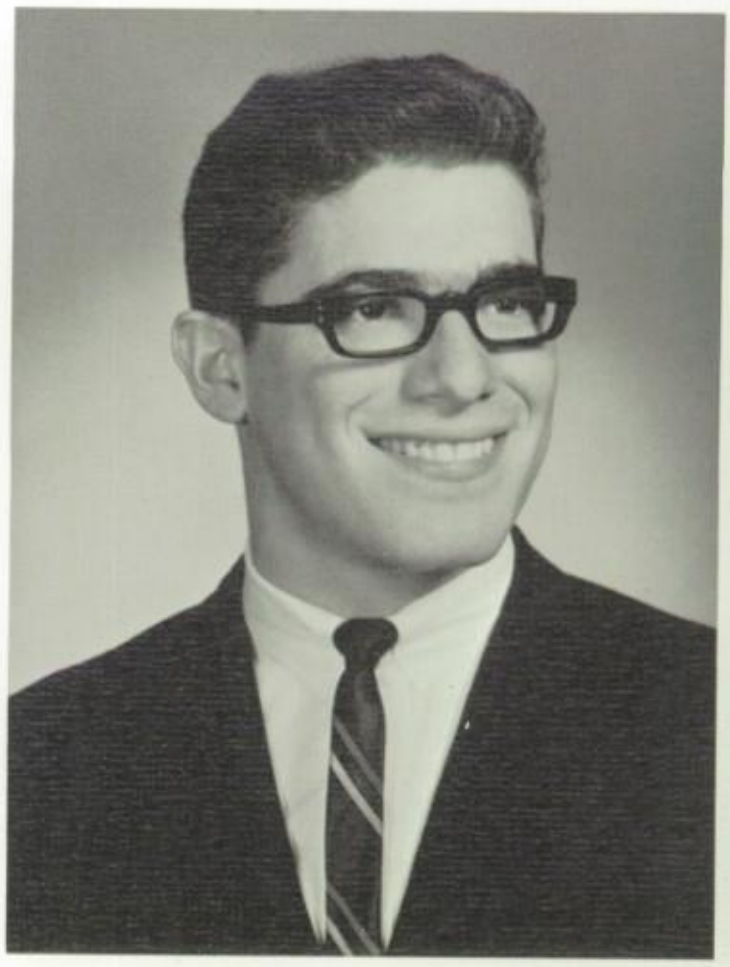
A young man of infinite intelligence and character, Tommy has found a place in the hearts of his classmates, teachers and female acquaintances. 'Cool' in the classroom and 'hot' on the basketball court, Tom has vigorously worked his way up to a starting position on the Varsity team and one of the most impressive records of an Arista member. His scholastic average has never faltered, even during his term of office as secretary of the G.O. and his captaincy of the baseball team. In his sophomore year, under a certain hairless Rabbi's influence, Tommy moved from T.I. to a more advanced Talmud shiur taught by Rabbi Sheinberg. Indeed, T.A.'s gain was T.I.'s loss. We wish Tom only the best in pursuit of a career in medicine at the college of his choice.

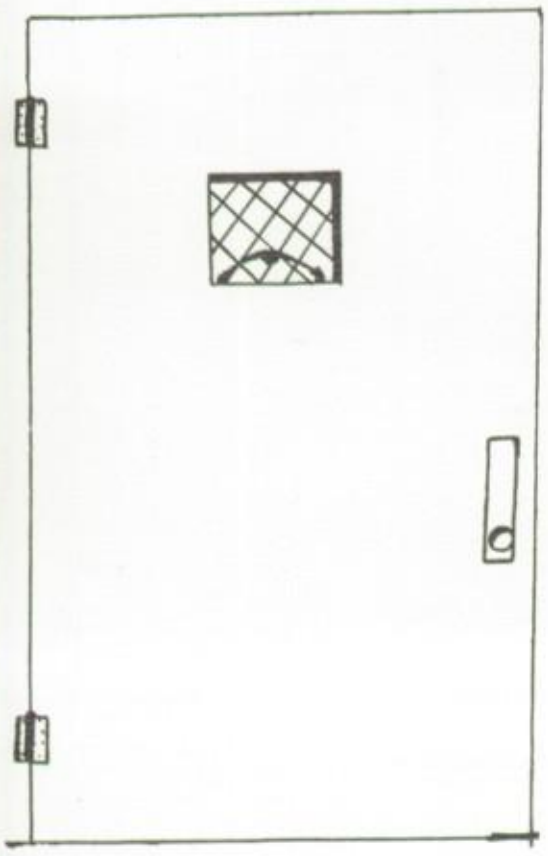
רבות מחשבות בלב איש ועצת ה' היא תקום

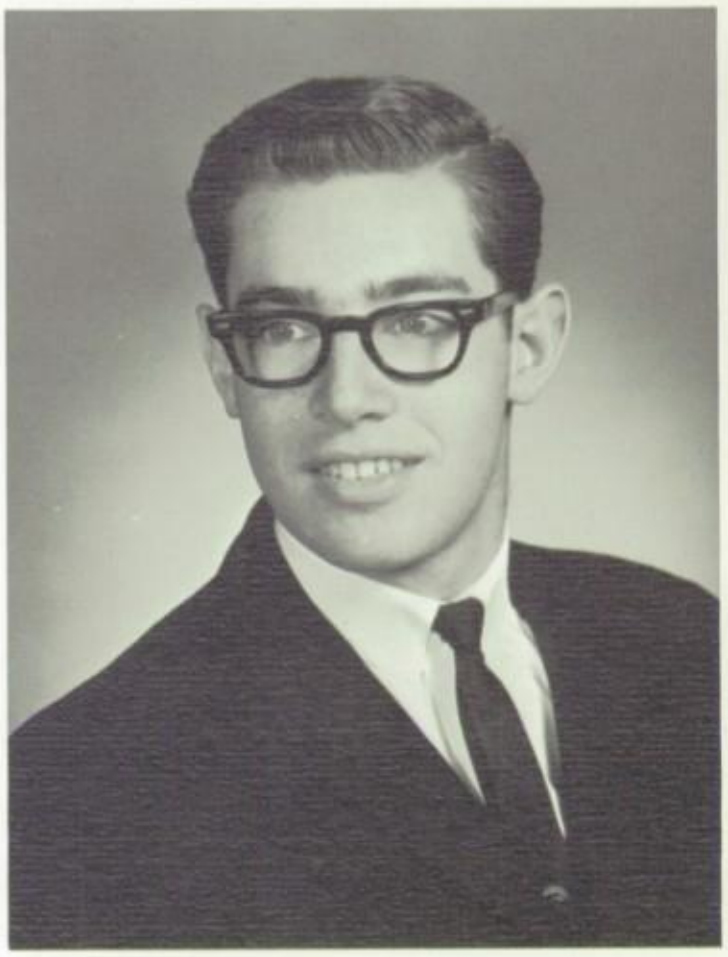
JOSEPH KAPLAN

One of the few students to survive the rigors and the mattresses of our dormitory for four years, Joey has made good use of his time by becoming extremely active in class and school affairs. An avid basketball fan, Joey has been Sports Editor on many of our school publications, including the Elchanite. Joey has been designated one of Rabbi Parnes' official "mussar getters." For this reason, he has been beyond the fringe of Yeshiva's influence. Joey has been active as President of Far Rockaway's Mizrachi Hatzair. His general involvement in Jewish and religious affairs has clearly influenced Joey to choose Y.U. as the place where he will pursue his chosen field of endeavor.

בן פרת יוסף . . . בנות צועדות עלי שור (בראשית מ"ט).



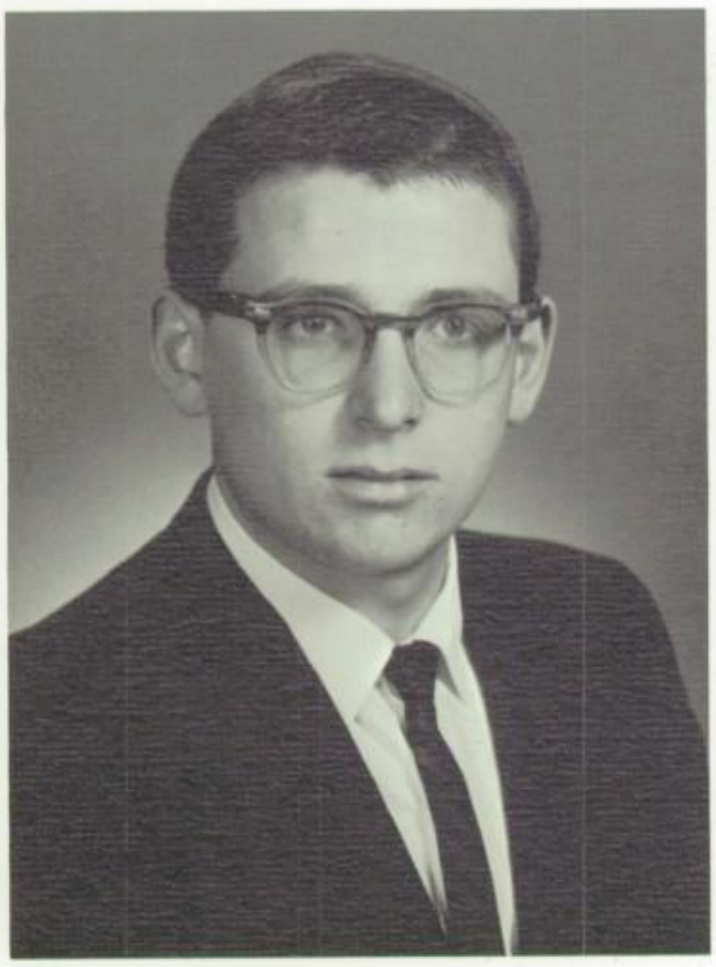




JOSEPH KIRSCHNER

This versatile student of Yeshiva found his place in T.I. society. He is one of the few boys who can claim that his socializing has been increased by his attendance at Y.U.H.S. Joey's love for gemara has kept him as a member in good standing of the Beis class for four years. His experience in this subject was culminated by his groping through the smoke of his senior year. One of the best typists in the class of '64, Joey has been Typing Editor of almost every class newspaper. This led to his appointment as Typing Editor of the final class paper—the Elchanite. He has also served on the Library Squad, G.O. store, started on the inter-scholastic bowling, soccer, baseball and tennis teams, and has been a member of the photo staff of the Elchanite. Joey's experiences in typing and salesmanship should be helpful as he studies at City College's Bernard Baruch School of Business to be a Certified Public Accountant.

ויהי ה' את יוסף ויהי איש מצליח (בראשית).



PHILIP KLEINER

One of the most industrious students of this year's graduating class, Phil is credited with establishing the most efficient and expansive G.O. store in the annals of Y.U.H.S. student government. This work culminated in his election as treasurer of our G.O. He amazed the Class of '64 by taking several foreign langauges during the course of one year. One of Mr. Clements' best French pupils, Phil helped prepare students for the French final by quizzing them with questions which amazingly appeared—coincidentally, of course—on the exam. An avid interest in electronics and in short-wave radios has led Phil to consider engineering as a possible career. He also will cultivate his glibness in several foreign languages as he studies at Yeshiva University.

אמר מעט ועשה הרבה (אבות א').

LARRY KOBILINSKY

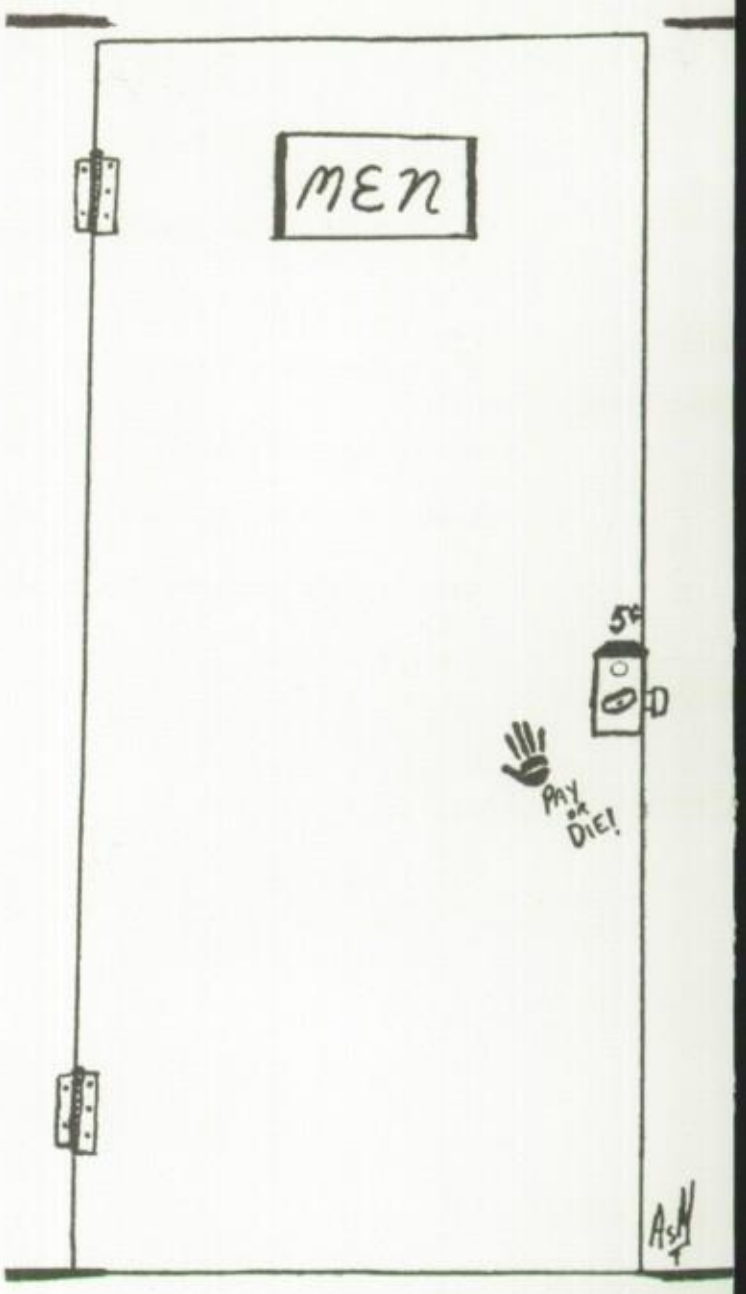
Larry is one of the most diversified students in our class. His interests range from stamp collecting and bowling to Maidlach (girls). Because he always does a favor for a friend, Larry is very poplar among his classmates. One of Mr. Schwartz's best students, Larry is also well-liked by the faculty for his cooperation as well as his perseverance in the classroom. As captain of the Bowling Team, he has instilled a new spirit of competitiveness in one of Yeshiva's "forgotten" sports. He has great abilities, and his desire for success in academic as well as extracurricular activities will tend to pave his pathway in the Derech Hayasher (the correct way). Larry, who is very much interested in mathematics, will further his education at City College, where he will probably major in engineering.

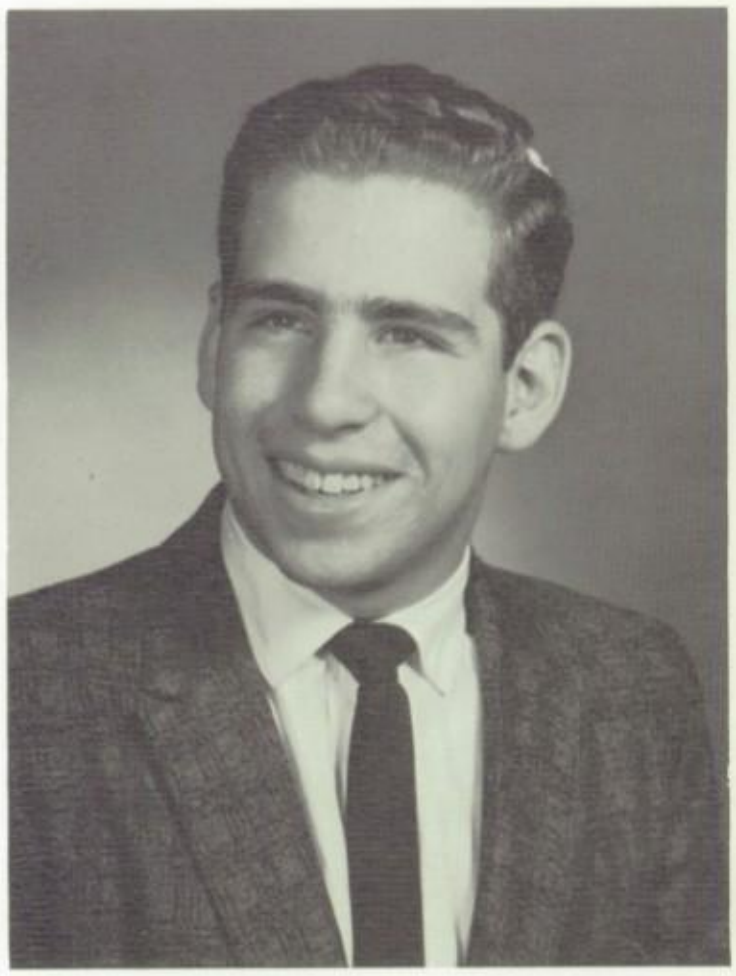
הוי זנב לאריות ואל תהי ראש לשועלים (אבות ד').

SHELDON KOENIG

Shelly is one of the hardest workers in our Senior Class. A very obstinate and conscientious student, Shelly's many arguments with Rabbi Dulitz and his other mentors in the school have endeared him to his classmates. Having had his beloved Rabbi Scheinberg for two years, he amassed a great deal of talmudic knowledge, which will be invaluable to him in his college years. Shelly is an excellent handball player. Because of active participation in attending intramural meets, his class has rarely lost. His main outside interest is science, especially physics. We wish him much luck in his stay at Yeshiva University, where he will major in one of the physical sciences.

לב נבון יבקש דעת (משלי ט"ו).





DREW KOPF

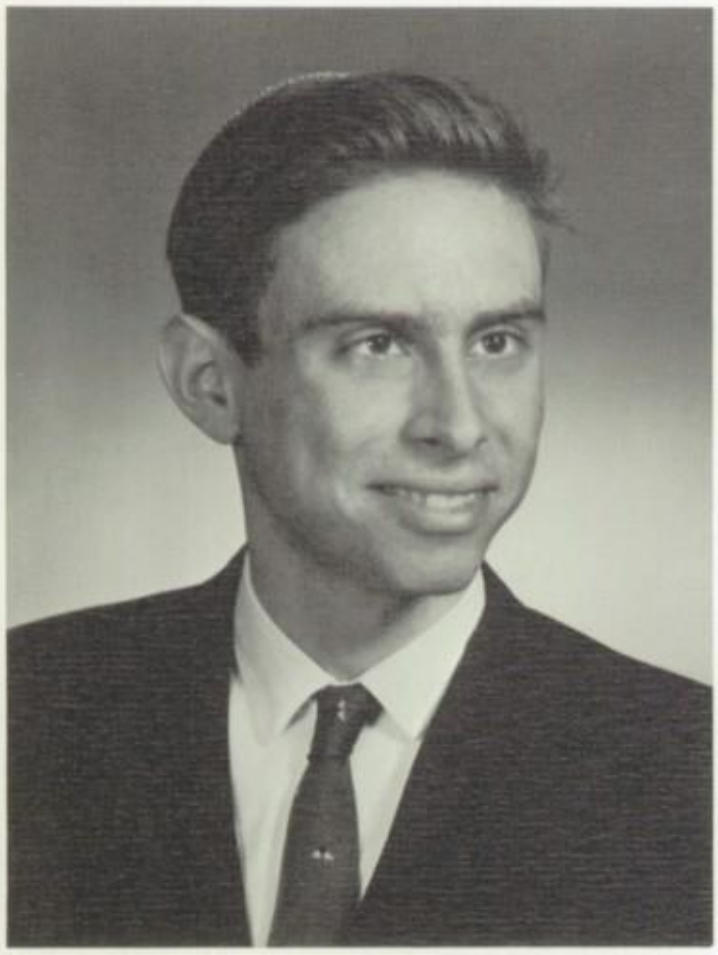
Coming to us in his sophomore year, Drew has collected a tremendous following among his friends in the dormitory and in class. This is best evinced in his election as Vice-president of the G.O. His easy personality and ready wit have caught many off-guard, including a certain plural administrator. Drew has been so active in our school that he has hardly found time to study. He was so looking forward to attending Y.U. that he jumped the gun and was admitted to the college's J.S.P. program while in his senior year of the High School. His printable pieces of literature have graced the pages of the Compact and the Elchanite. Drew will study law when he is admitted to Yeshiva University on a full-time basis. We wish him success and good health as he continues his studies.

וראיתי כי אין טוב מאשר ישמח אדם במעשיו
(קהלת ג' כ"ב).

MENI KOSLOWSKY

Meni is an example of the modern Yeshiva student, well-dressed and debonair. His good nature made him one of the popular members of the class. Possessed of a very sharp mind, Meni is a natural Talmudist. His proficiency in Judaica notwithstanding, Meni has excelled in his secular studies as shown by his election to Arista. Meni was particularly impressed by Mr. Finkelstein's chemistry course which led him to choose chemical engineering as his career. An avid sports fan, Meni is a standout on the athletic field. His interests roam from the Dodgers to the Montreal Canadiens. In the extracurricular field at Y.U.H.S., Meni has served equally well on the Elchy's managing staff and as chairman of intramural checkers. He will continue his studies of chemistry at the college of his choice.

טוב חבר קרוב מאח רחוק (משלי כ"ז-י').



STEPHEN KOSSMAN

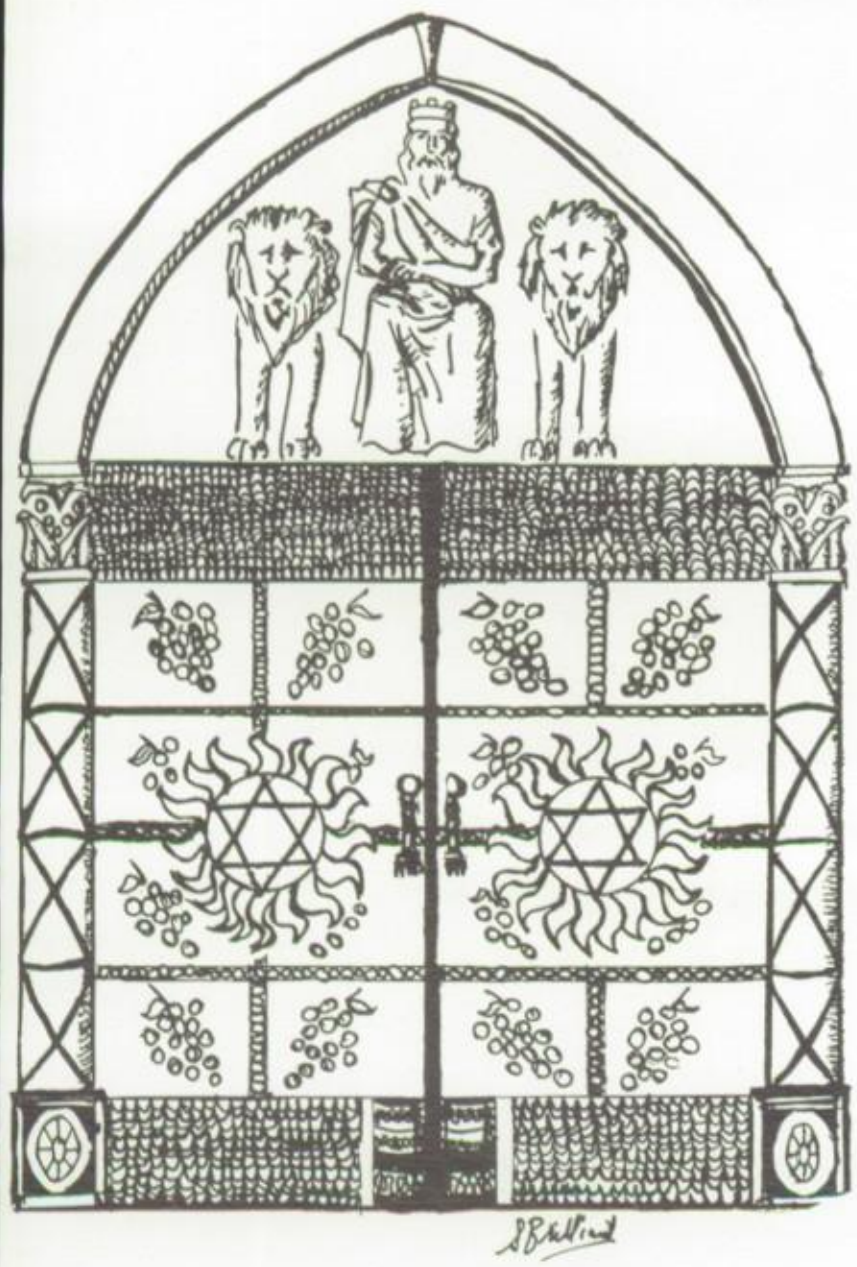
One of our New Jersey entries, Stephen has been the pride and joy of many a teacher. His ceaseless questions have given many a fellow student a breather in class and have stumped many of his mentors. Since Steve commutes daily from Patterson, he has been unable to participate greatly in Yeshiva's varied extra-curricular program. However, despite this serious handicap, he became a mainstay of our Chess Team and Math Team. Still under the influence of one of our freshmen rabbis, Steve has decided to further his religious and mathematics education at Y.U.

לדעת חכמה ומוסר להבין אמרי בינה (משלי א' ב').

ELIE KRAKOWSKY

Coming from France, Elie is one of those students who give our school an international flavor. Though he only began studying at our sacred institution in his junior year, Elie mastered both the language used in our school and the idiosyncrasies of his teachers quite rapidly. Under the tutelage of renowned "rebbes" such as Rabbi Gordon, Elie learned the logic of gemara. Bringing over from France some of that country's culture, he helped illustrate many of our school's newspapers. His interest in painting and drawing will spur him on as he studies architecture at Yeshiva University.

וגלת החל הזה לבני ישראל אשר כנענים עד צרפת (עובדיה א').



MORRIS KRAM

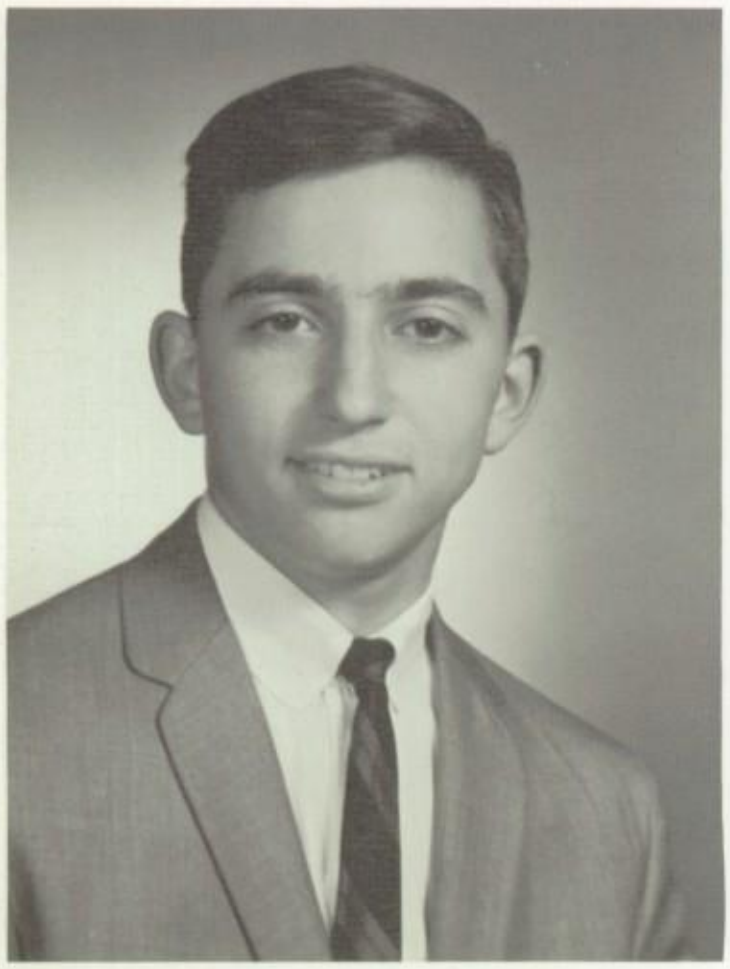
Coming from the outposts of Connecticut and the inspiring neighborhood of Harriet Beecher Stowe, Macy is living proof that hard work and relentless effort can keep a boy at the top of his class, even at Y.U.H.S. Morris' affable and altruistic manner has endeared him to his dormitory friends and has put him on good terms with even a certain dorm supervisor. He has never tolerated quarrels except when neatness was in question. Morris' frequent visits to mid-Manhattan and his admiration for the art of brick-laying has kept him happy for four years. Moshe's close association with the South American members of our class influenced him to continue his studies at Yeshiva University. He will major in medicine so that he may ultimately become "my son the doctor."

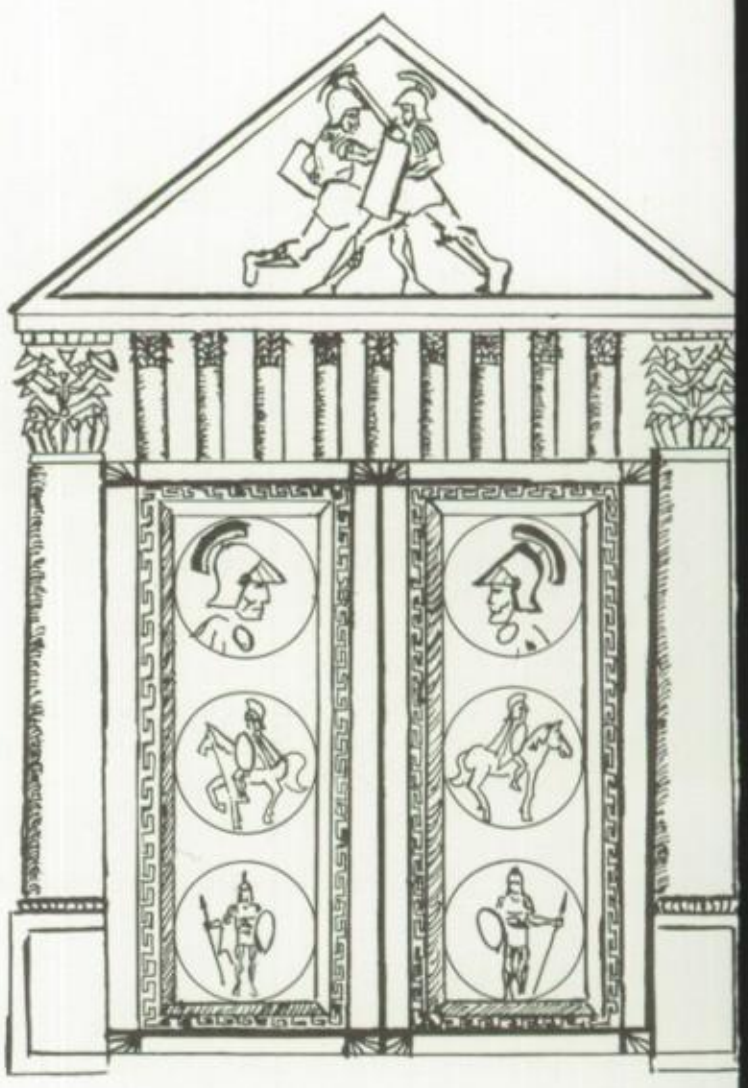
שפתי כהן ישמרו דעת (ישעיה מ').

GERALD KRIGER

Jerry has truly run the gamut of ups and downs at Yeshiva. At times he headed a "let's quit MTA" program, and at times he vigorously defended the name of our institution from any slanderous remarks. A generally serious-minded student, Jerry kept on studying wherever he would be—whether on the train going to or coming from mid-Manhattan. As a dorm boy through his junior year, his room was the scene of many T.I. orgies. Jerry's physical prowess gave him the position of captain of our Baseball Team. After repeated efforts to become Sports Editor of something, Jerry was finally placed on the Academy News—as Managing Editor. Knowing that Jerry likes pretty faces, we are sure that he will make good as he goes on to study dentistry.

אל תבהל ברוחך לכעוס (קהלת ז').

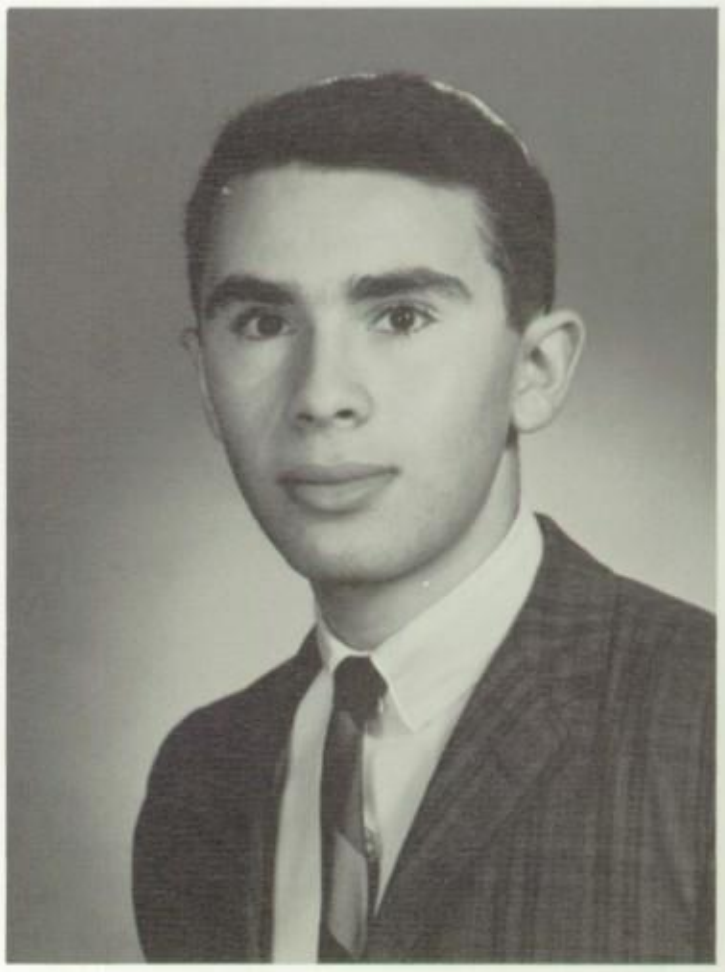




IRWIN KURZ

Irwin, a resident of West New York, New Jersey, is one of the few students in our class who truly mastered the art of the "innocent look." A boy who wasn't afraid to say what he felt, Irwin never let any teacher, rabbi, or any conglomeration thereof daunt him. He was one of the most affable men in the class being an active member of our Tennis, Track, Baseball, Soccer, Checkers, Bowling, and Swimming Teams. All this was accomplished when not delving into the intricacies of the "cow book" (otherwise known as the Talmud). Irwin plans to pursue his education at either Yeshiva College or Rutgers prior to his entrance into the field of dentistry.

מות וחיים ביד הלשון (משלי י"ח).



GEORGE LANDA

Soft-spoken George came to us four years ago after attending the Hebrew Institute of Rockland County in Monsey, N.Y. During his stay at Y.U.H.S., George has maintained a high average and has endeared himself to many of his teachers as well as to Mr. Zaides, librarian of the Pollack Library. This endearment has been helpful since Mr. Zaides drives George to school every morning. In the way of extracurricular activities, George has participated in numerous school activities, including intramural chess and debating and the interscholastic Tennis Team. He has also been a member of the Junior and Senior Councils and has been a salesman for the revitalized G.O. Store. After graduation, George plans to attend Columbia University to prepare for a medical career.

MAX LEBOW

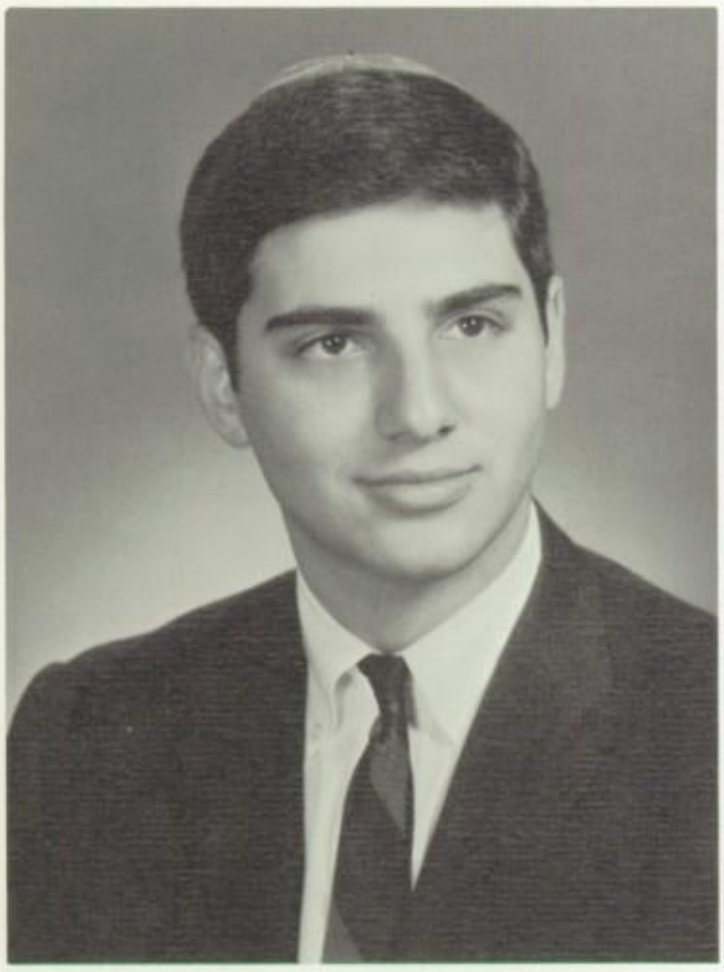
Coming to the sedate halls of Y.U.H.S. in his sophomore year from rootin'-tootin' Wichita, Kansas, Max has made many bullet holes in the formidable structure of our building. His unceasing spirit at basketball games coupled with his outfit of boots and cap-pistol rejuvenated our team. Max took up debating in Yeshiva and soon found that his Kansas accent was no barrier to a berth on our interscholastic Debating Team. His folksinging to the accompaniment of his guitar has been hailed by purists and commercialists alike. Max's interest in student affairs led him to help organize and edit the first Yeshiva Student Handbook. His curricular interest lies in physics and math, and we are sure he will succeed as he pursues those studies at the college of his choice.

מנין שהקב"ה משתבח בבעלי קומה (בכורות סי' ה').

JOHN LEMBERGER

Cheerfulness and a smile are John's outstanding traits. After undergoing the tortures of three years under the steady gaze of the "Great Rabbi" and two years of Macy's logic he was still able to weather the "insurmountable" tasks which faced him as Editor-in-Chief of the Elchanite. John became so courageous that he even led M.T.A.'s (all male?) cheerleaders, earning himself the nickname "Twinkletoes." Rocky Louis was the first to recognize and curb his "senioritis." Though founder of a freshmen newspaper and Editor-in-Chief of many subsequent issues of the Class of '64, Johhny has never floundered scholastically. Among other pursuits, John is a member (along with cousin Uri 'Lem') of the Massad Choral Group and famed M.T.A. folksingers "The Four Winds." We wish him all the best at Queens College where he will prepare for a career in journalism.

שמחנו כימות עניתנו שנות ראינו רעה (תהלים ד').



URIEL LEMBERGER

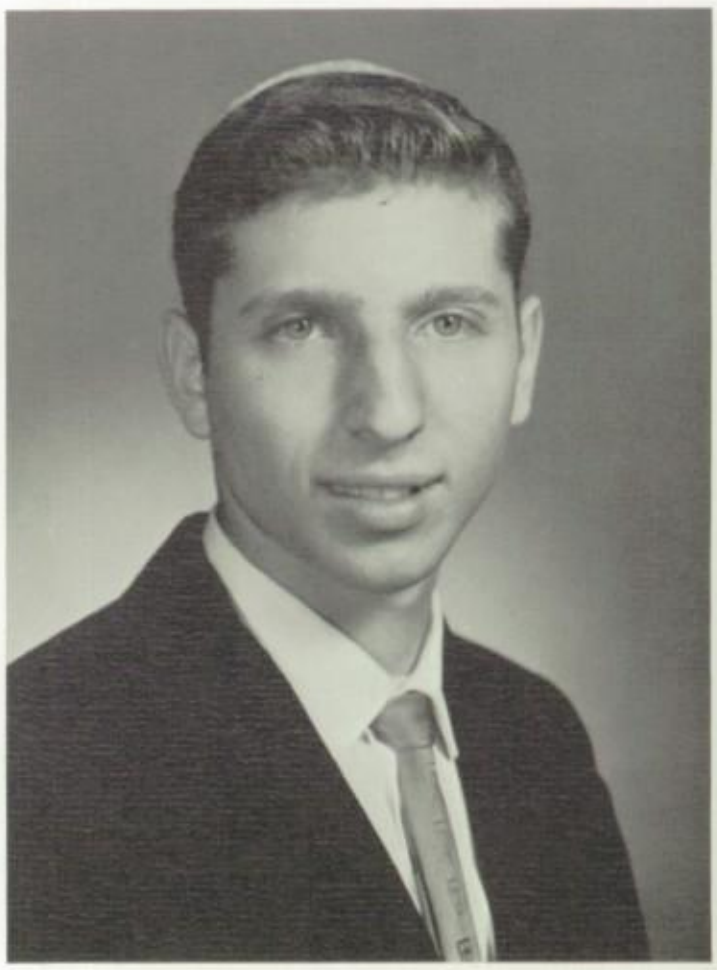
Entering our school close on the heels of his brother, Uri has kept up the Lemberger image in the eyes of our school's pedagogues. Uri's omnipresent smile has led the "Great Rabbi" to give him the nickname of "smiley." His run-in with Dave Radin which cost Uri a broken nose finally brought him to the attention of Coach Wettstein. For this reason, after starting in two games in his senior year, Uri once again resumed his position as bench-warmer. Uri's fine sense of humor as well as his relation to the Editor-in-Chief made him an obvious choice for Feature Editor of the Elchanite. Because of Uri's personality and diligence we are sure he will be successful in City College.

עור עורי שיר דברי (לכה דודי).

DAVID LEVENSON

David has spent four of the finest years of his life at Y.U.H.S. His stay here was marked by the usual rigors of a yeshiva boy's life. He was so oblivious to most extracurricular life as to devote his time to the main part of school-learning. However, he did engage in some extra work. His main interest was in our library. Here, as a draftee to the Library Squad, Dave learned to appreciate the vast store of books in the Y.U.H.S. library. Not one to forget the development of his body in favor of his mind, David gave his needed feet to the cause of our Track Team and our Soccer Team. Having had the "Great Rabbi" to teach him English for two years, David has decided to major in English as he attends either C.C.N.Y. or Y.U.

שומר תורה אשרהו (משלי כ"ט-י"ח).



"A PLEASANT WEEK-END"

MARK LEVIN

Mark, possessing one of the most effervescent personalities in the senior class, has demonstrated much intense scholarship in his four year stay at T.A. His outside interests vary from bowling to reading science novels. His interests in science has led him to such varied work as attending an astronomy course in the Hayden Planetarium. He has also captained our Checker Team to many sterling efforts. He has not only been president of his class and a member of the Senior Council, but has also been a member of the Math Team, Bowling Team, and the Handball Team. Because of his outstanding ability in math, he is taking a calculus course at Yeshiva College. His major will probably be math when he attends Y.U. We wish him much success as he continues his studies.

לב חכם ישכיל פיהו (משלי ט"ז־כ"ג).

ALAN MALTER

A young man of many varied talents, Alan's buoyant attitude has helped him, as well as his classmates, to weather even Porky's cataclysmic exams. As Art Editor of the Elchanite and Hatchiya, Alan has lent these publications rare touches of artistic beauty. His sincere endeavors to aid the Awards Committee and the varsity Debating Team have proved indispensible. We wish him success at New York University where he will prepare for a career in psychiatric medicine.

מעשה ידי אמן (משלי).

SAMUEL MANN

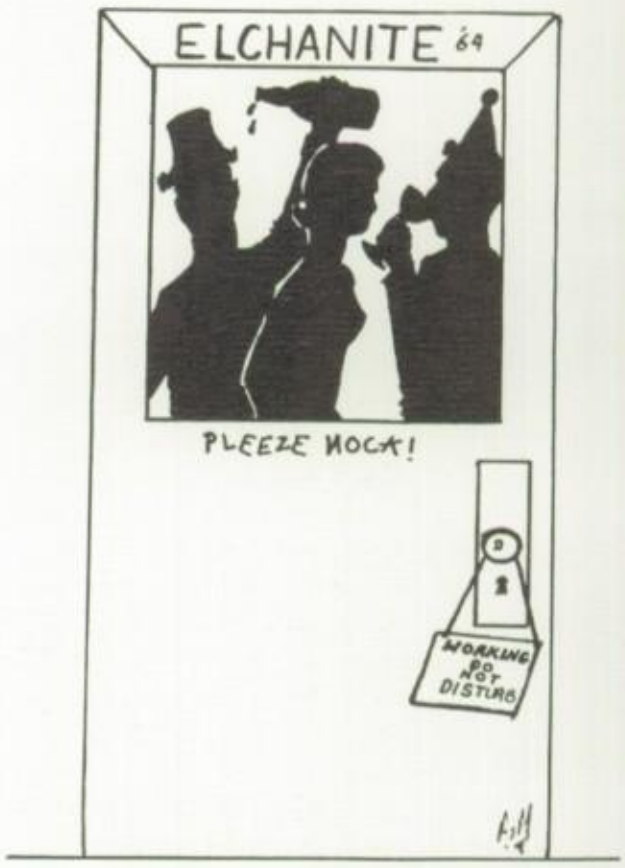
The youngest member of our class (he will graduate before he is 16), Sammy managed to brave the onslaught of the "big boys" intact through four years at M.T.A. A weary commuter from Patterson, N.J., Sammy's naps during gemara were often excused by altruistic "rebbes." His vast knowledge of the Hebrew language made Rabbi Bernstein like him from the start. Sammy's ceaseless question was "What does ..... mean?" He learned more Hebrew words in his senior year than in all his previous schooling combined. An avid tennis fan and fine player, Sammy rose in the ranks of our Tennis Team to become captain in his senior year. Because of Sammy's height he has been loved by both Mr. Abrams who can finally look down on someone and Mr. E. Leibel who loved "the great mind in the small body." Sammy, together with his great mind, will study math at the college of his choice.

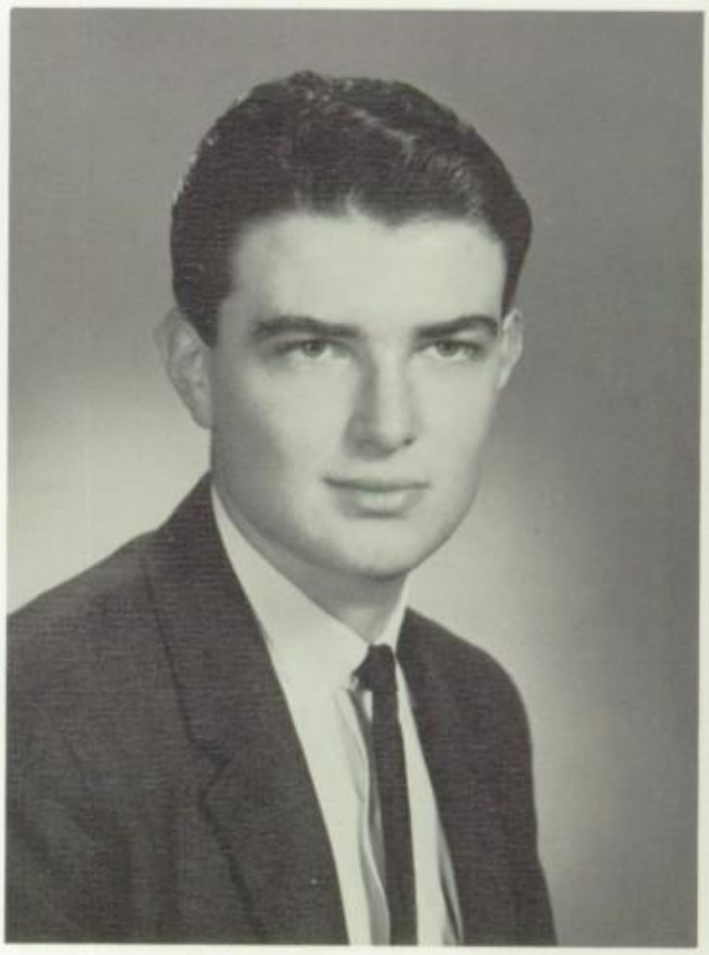
הקטן יהיה לאלף (ישעיה ס').

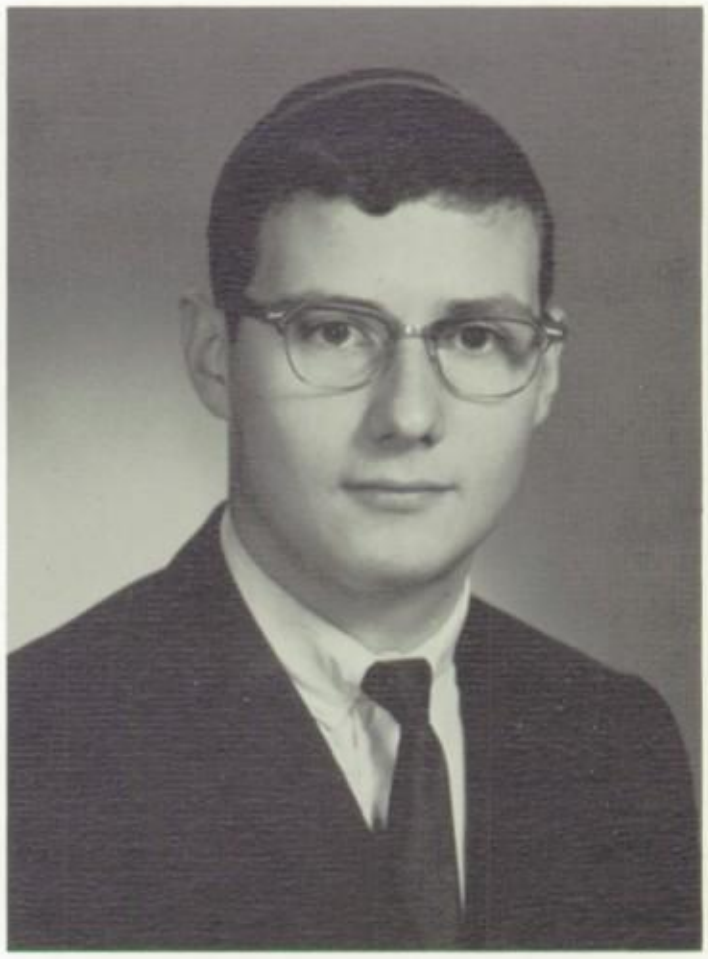
MOSES MARCOVITZ

Coming to us from "south of the border," Moses has managed to keep abreast of the fast pace set at Yeshiva. As an active member of the dormitory he has served on both the Dorm Council and Court. Moshe's boisterous laugh could often be heard resounding through Mr. Reiss' American History class to the torment of that mentor. Moses also managed to distinguish himself as one of Yeshiva's "board enthusiasts." This appellation is given to all those who indulge in the sports of chess and checkers. His fine moves in both games assisted our team in many a rough meet. We are sure that Moses will succeed as he studies engineering at the other end of our country at the University of California at Berkely.

ואתם ידעתם את נפש הגר כי גרים הייתם בארץ מצרים (שמות כ"ג).







JAY MARCUS

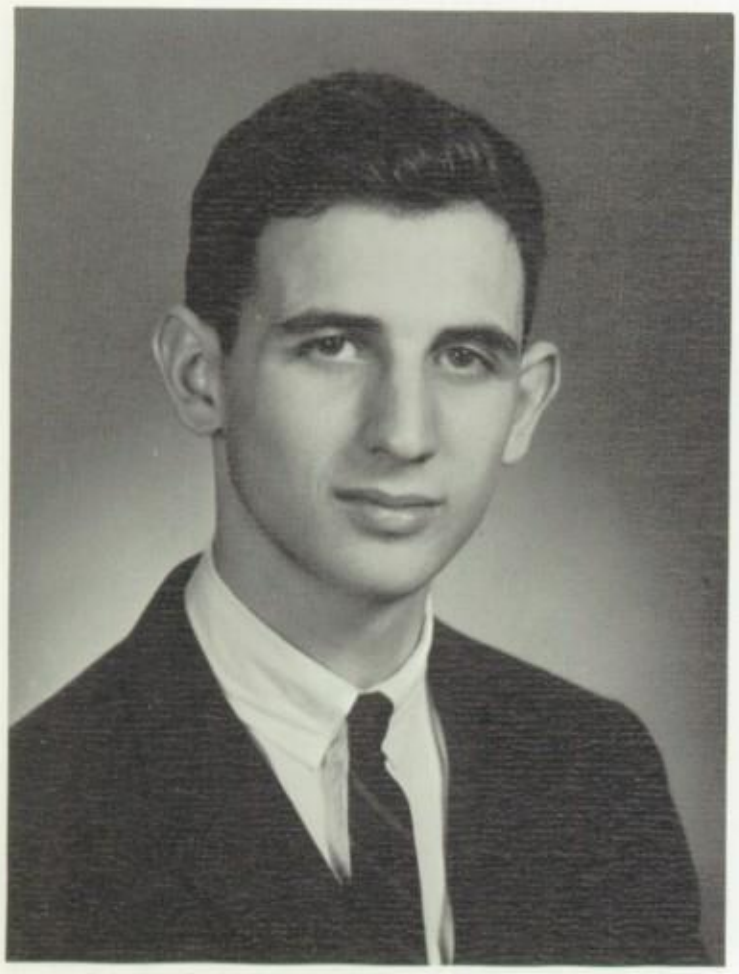
During his high school career, Jay has shown himself to be a politician extraordinaire. Most of his activities have been behind the scene of elections, but one, membership on the Awards Committee, has been out in the open. He has been on this committee for seven terms and many a vice-president has had to curry his favor if he wished to accomplish anything at meetings. As Managing Editor of the Elchanite, Jay played a major role in the development of this yearbook, particularly the Hebrew Section. An excellent Gemorah student, Jay was allowed to enter Rav Aharon Lichtenstein's difficult college shiur in his senior year. He plans to continue his studies at Yeshiva University to prepare for a career in psychology.

כי נר מצוה ותורה אור ודרך חיים תוכחות מוסר (משלי ו').

HILLEL ELI MARKOWITZ

Possessing an astounding faculty for math and science, Hillel is definitely the "genius" of our class—even though he hails from New Haven. His extraordinary marks on all types of exams have placed him in an elite group and probably make him one of the top students ever to graduate from Y.U.H.S. His teachers have graced him such epithets as "sleepy," "somnolent one," and "absent-minded," but he somehow absorbs everything they tell him. His outside interests include chess, bike-riding, and teaching. He is undecided about which college to attend, but whichever he chooses will gain a tremendous mind.

קנה חכמה מה טוב מחרוץ (משלי ט"ז־ט"ז).



PHILIP MAX

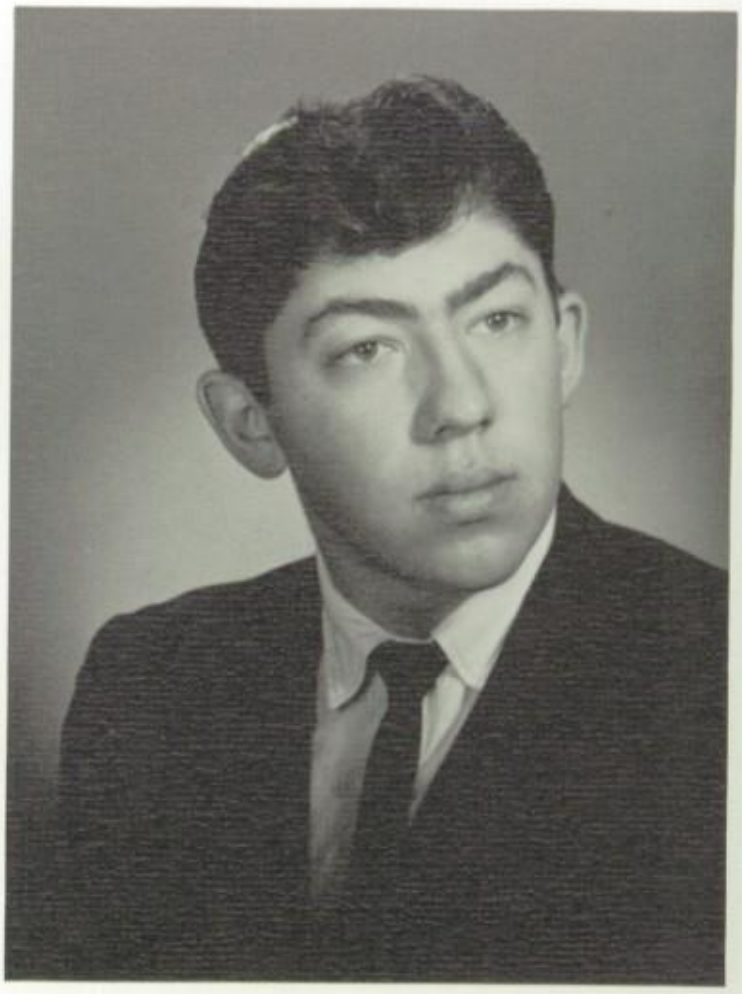
The only Long Island boy who commutes every day, Phil has made good use of his time by studying and doing his homework on the train. He has made equally good use of some of his morning periods by catching up on his sleep. Despite these hardships he has fared fairly well at Y.U.H.S. Somewhere in his hectic commuter-life he found time to be an active member of the Junior Council, the Chess and Checker Teams, and the Hatchiya. His native language, Hebrew, has aided in the rough T.I. training of R.J.U. and R.L.B. Phil is very interested in all forms of paper, especially stocks, stamps, and money. We are sure that this interest will aid him as he studies law at City College.

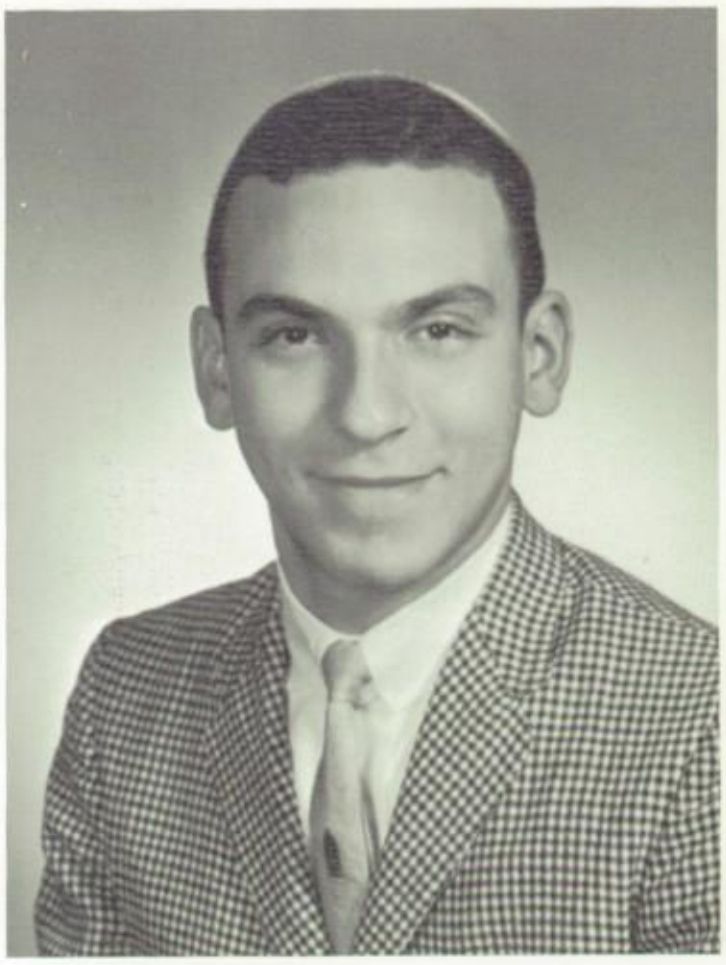
אטם שפתיו נבון (משלי י"ז).

CHARLES MEGERMAN

Charley, or Chuck, introduces into our sacred insituation the atmosphere of epicurianism. A three-year veteran under the great math mentor, Mr. Schwartz, Charlie has gained new insight into math. His interests vary from rock n' roll music to books on psychology. It is to Charlie that Rabbi Wachtfogel immortalized his daily "Chaim get out foon here." Charlie's antics in and out of class have been a great amusement to his many friends and on certain occasions also to the faculty. Chuck hopes to major in pre-med at N.Y.U.

בני תורתי אל תשכח (משלי ג'-א').





STEVEN MEIER

Coming to us in his sophomore year from an unmentionable high school, Levi has developed into a true Yeshiva boy. A trip to Israel after his sophomore year led him to become infused with a love for that holy country. Under the able training of Rabbi Parnes, Steve developed a love for gemara. He participated in interscholastic checkers and was a major factor in the winning ways of our Handball Team. Outside of our halls, he is a collector of pennies and Israeli stamps. He has often been teased by his classmates for the ruggedness which he exhibits to get to school on time; he lives one block away. One of the few boys who took Mr. Schwartz's Twelfth Year Math course seriously, Levi was a bulwark of our Math Team. This love for the subject will be extended as he studies to be an actuary at either Yeshiva or City College.

וללוי אמר תמיך ואוריך לאיש חסידים (דברים ל"ג).

ISRAEL METAL

Aside from compiling one of the highest averages in our class, Israel has found time to compile a long list of extra-curricular activities: president of the Senior Council, member of the Sophomore Council, participant on the interscholastic Math, Checkers and Handball teams, typing editor for the Depth and the Class of '64 and member of the managing staff of the Elchanite. His prowess in mathematics enabled him to take a Calculus course at Yeshiva College. He intends to pursue a career in engineering after attending City College.

Israel has been unsuccessful in attempting to gain a place on the Periodic Chart of the Elements along with the other metals, but successful in everything else.

בלב נבון תנוח חכמה (משלי י"ז).

SOL METZGER

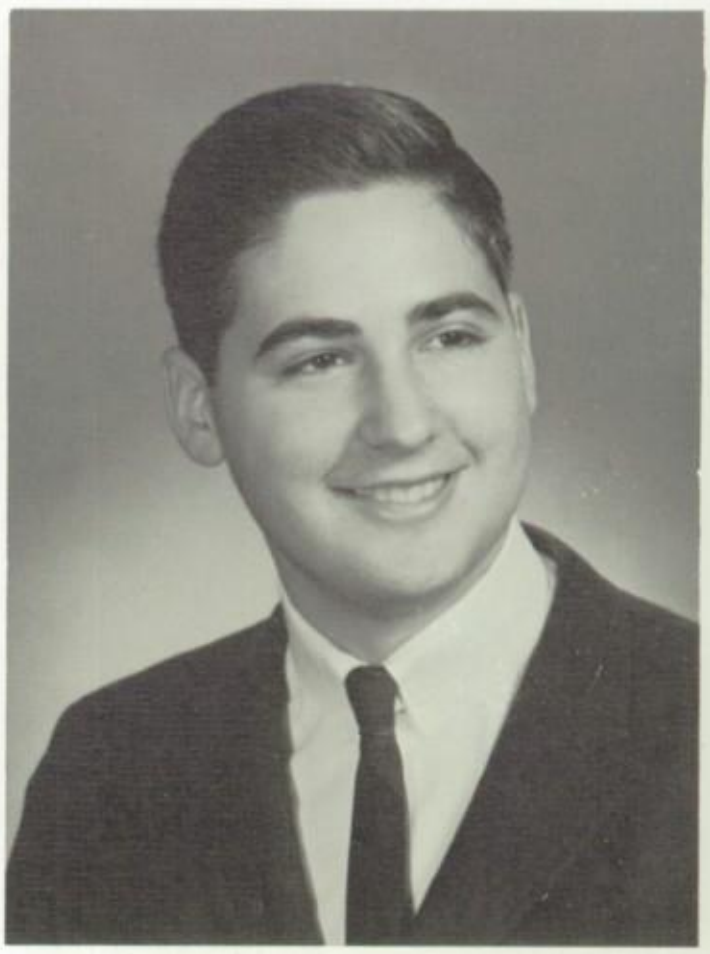
One of the more athletic members of the Bronx contingent, Sol captained the Track Team to unparalleled heights in the annals of Yeshiva history. He is a keen student of talmudic literature. who amazed his teachers with his great knowledge of the science of "gematriah." Sol's hobbies include basketball, writing of songs with unprintable lyrics, and the pursuit of good cheer. A favorite whistler of Mr. Reiss, he succeeded in raising the class' morale while lowering Mr. Reiss's patience quotient. Sol has decided to pursue his studies at the citadel of Jewish studies—Yeshiva University. With his good looks (especially his baby blue eyes) and his fine personality, he is assured of success.

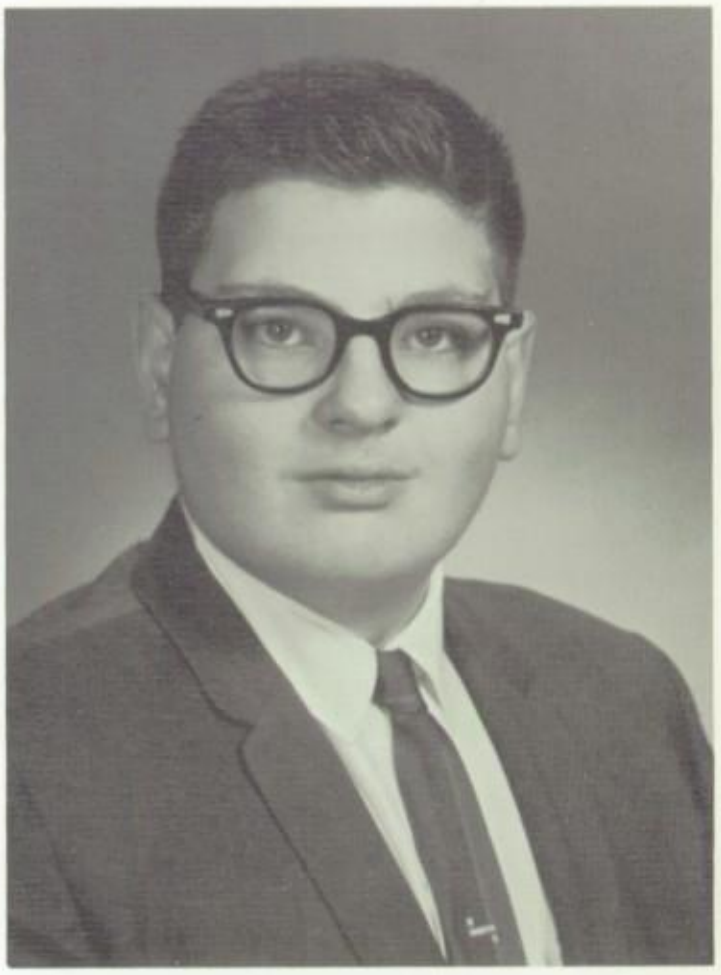
אין טוב באדם שיאכל ושתה והראה את נפשו טוב (קהלת ב׳-כ״ד).

DAVID MEYER

David has distinguished himself not only in class but also in extracurricular activities. Many a teacher has lost his equanimity as a result of David's ceaseless questions. His queries have frequently supplied a needed break from the tedium of talmudic logic. He has managed to amass a varied extracurricular portfolio consisting of interscholastic checkers, intramural sports, and leading positions on many of the school's publications. An omnivorous reader, David has keen perception of world affairs as was shown by his appointment to Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Club. Because of David's diligence in gemara he has all the qualifications to pursue a career in either law or business at City College.

תן לחכם ויחכם עוד (משלי ט׳).





JUDAH MICHLIN

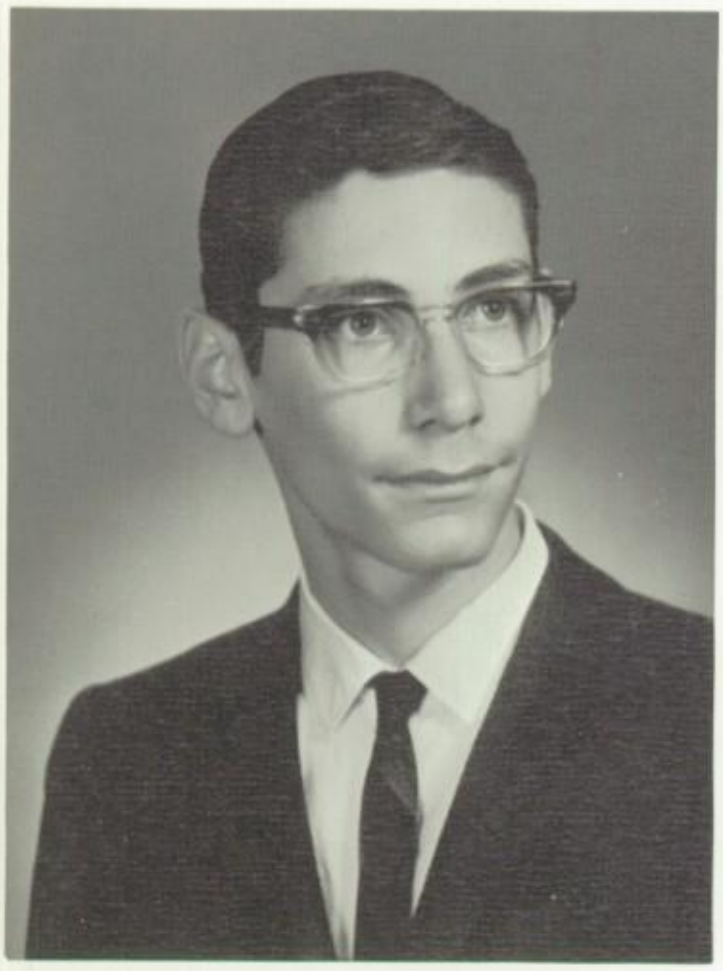
One of an elite group of electronics enthusiasts, Judah has gone through Yeshiva with a maximum amount of electricity. His frequently curt manner has amazed his teachers and classmates alike. Finding the Hebrew teachers in T.I. too rough, Judah decided to switch to the complacent boredom of T.A. His interest in electronics often found him talking about radios rather than "Rashis." His outside interests did not prevent him from being a fine student, and Judah excelled in all of his studies, especially in science. He will take up electronics as an official course of study as he prepares at City College for a career as an electronic engineer.

שמע ה' קול יהודה ואל עמו תביאנו (דברים ל"ג).

DAVID MILLER

During his four years at Y.U.H.S., David has gained the respect and admiration of all his acquaintances. Spending his first two years under the guidance of a certain T.I. rabbi, David gained a true enthusiasm for Torah and learning. After transferring to T.A., David became an excellent Talmud student. Besides excelling in his religious studies, David compiled a very impressive general scholastic average, thus enabling him to be selected for Arista. His early training in Hebrew obtained from his elementary school, Massad and T.I. made him a logical choice for Hebrew Editor of the Elchanite and Literary Editor of the Hatchiya. David will major in science or math at Yeshiva University while continually striving to be a "talmid chochom." We wish him success in all his endeavors.

צדיקים כאור נגה הולך עד נכון היום (משלי י"ד).



MICHAEL MILLER

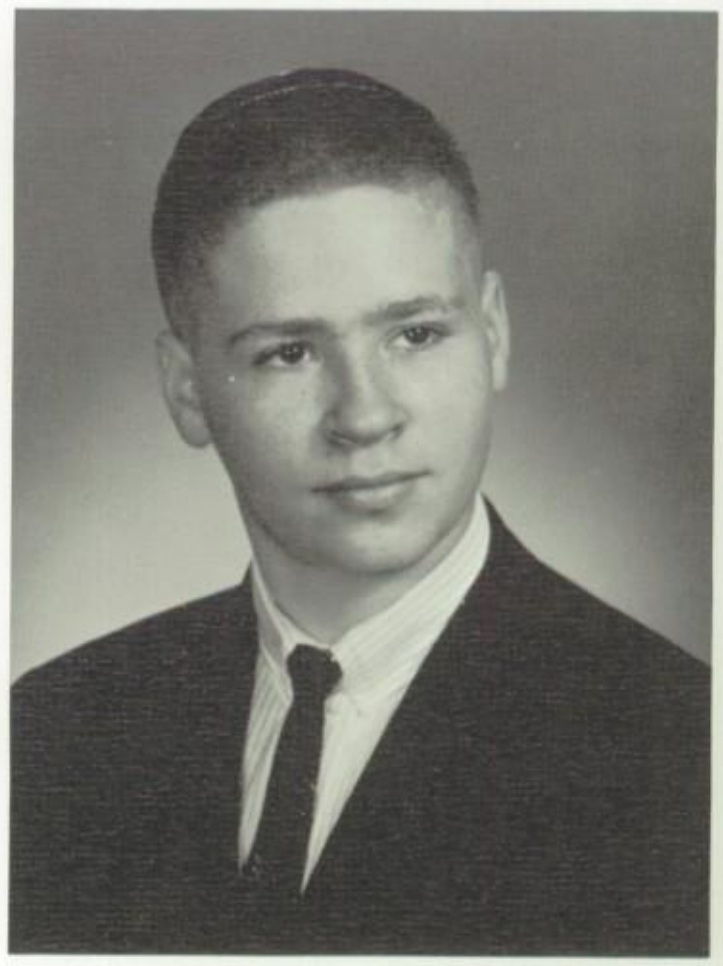
A confirmed individualist, Mike can be counted on to do any job with his own flair. Interested in basketball, he organized a Dorm Basketball Team so that he and other dorm boys not on the varsity would have someone to play with. This individualism reflects itself in his widespread interests, such as chess, sports, folk-singing and listening for long distance stations on the radio. Originally hailing from New York, he now is the lone representative of Springfield, Mass. at Y.U.H.S. Possessed of a highly developed sense of logic and a keen mind, Mike will major in mathematics at Yeshiva University.

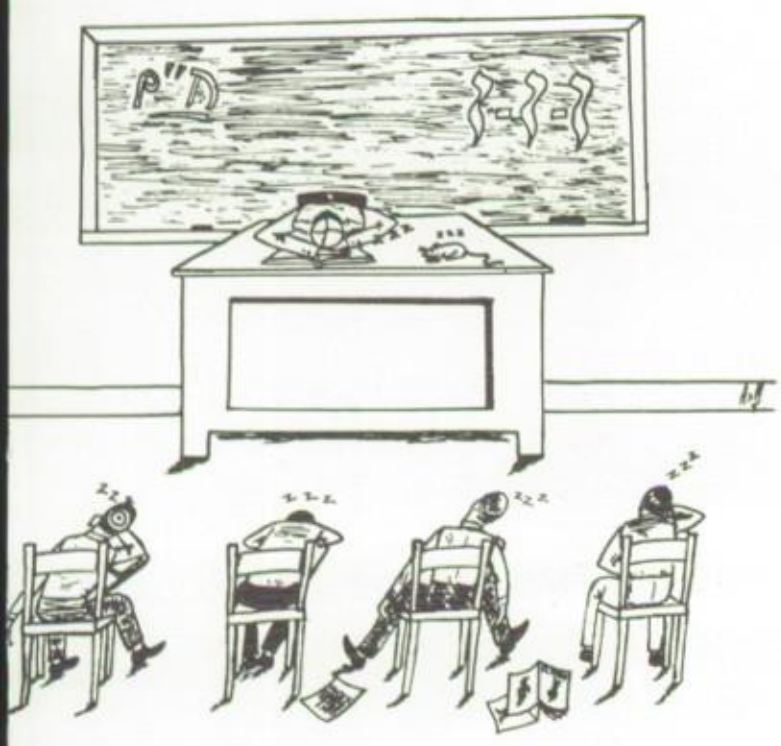
והנה מיכאל . . . בא לעזרני (דניאל י׳).

ROBERT NEWHOUSE

Bobby has seen much action on the extracurricular scene at M.T.A. Since he was intramural chess and checker chairman, he was one of the few people who appeared when meets were scheduled. As captain of our Checker Team, he made sure that M.T.A. was on top of the I.Y. standings. His love of gemara, coupled with a quick tongue, confused as many teachers as it delighted. As one of the few members of the Class of '64 to combine typing abilities with the ownership of a good typewriter, Bobby served faithfully as typist for many of our school's publications. On the Office Squad, Bobby often found time to converse with his friends while the teachers filled out the attendance sheet. We are sure he will succeed as he studies medicine at Yeshiva University.

ארך חיים למעלה למשכיל. (משלי ט״ו).

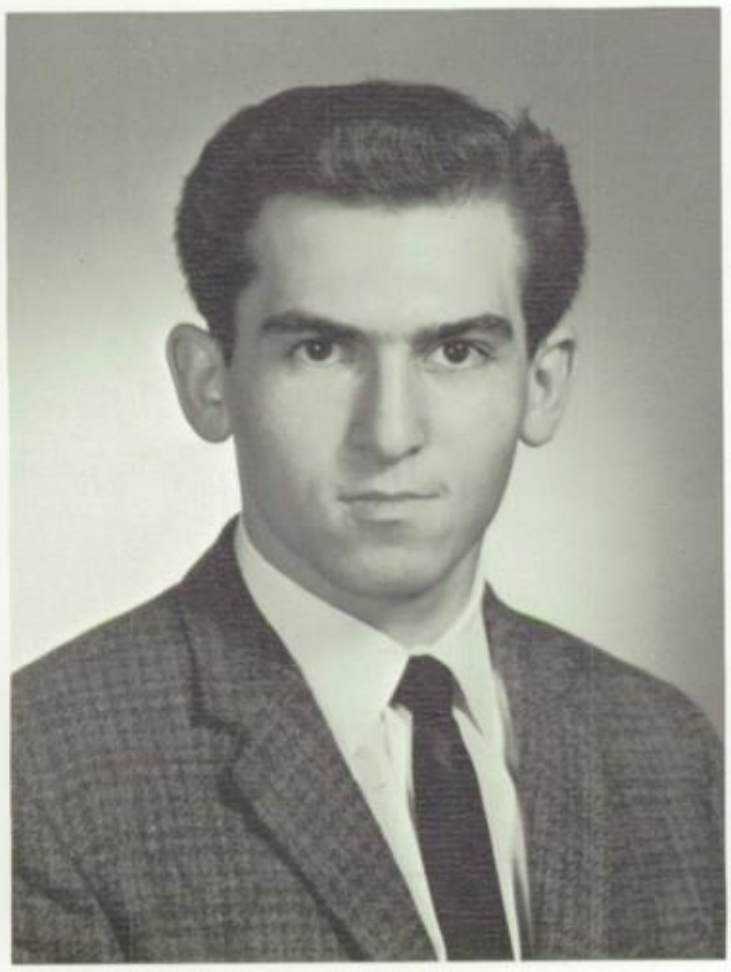




DANIEL NOVICH

For a "little Moose" Danny is an awfully big boy. Danny has scared more freshmen by just walking their way than all other seniors combined. Behind Daniel's burly appearance, there is really a soft, nice guy. As manager of the J.V. basketball team in his sophomore year subsequently manager of the varsity, Danny did an excellent job. The team could count on his spirit when their's was lagging. He was photography editor of the Elchanite, which gave him the right to take pictures his pedagogues will long regret. His love for and proficiency in gemara forced our administration to advance Danny to a college level course, namely J.S.P. We are sure this love will continue as he stays on at Yeshiva to study chemistry.

להודיע לבני אדם גבורתו וכבוד הדר מלכותו
(תהלים קמ"ה).



SAMUEL NUNBERG

Samuel has the distinction of being the only member of our class to live on a chicken farm owned by his father. Rather than be "cooped up" in Vineland, New Jersey, however, he has ventured forth to our school to become one of the foremost members of the dormitory. Always on good terms with his teachers, Sam has done well in school, particularly in mathematics, by reason of which he was allowed to take an Advanced Placement Course in calculus in Yeshiva College. Samuel has also been chairman of the Chavrusa Committee, a G.O. representative, and a member of the S.O.Y. He plans to enter Yeshiva College next fall to pursue the career of his choice.

גבר חכם בעוז (משלי כ"ד־ה').

RONALD NUSSBAUM

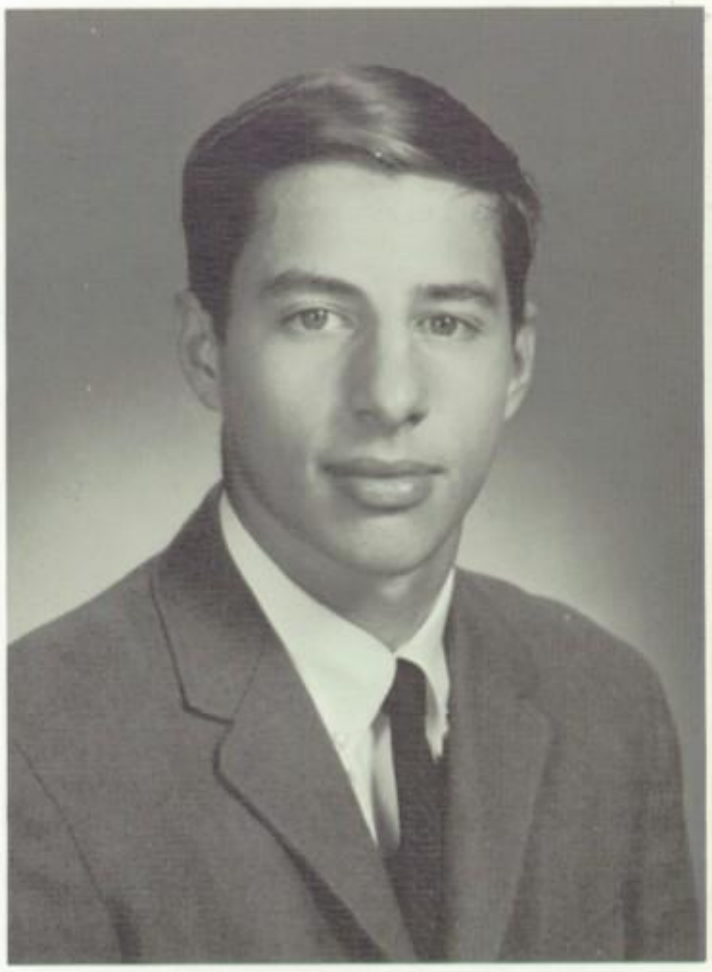
Ronald is the most accomplished editor in our class. He began his editorial career early as Freshman Editor of the Ledger during his first two terms at Y.U.H.S. During his freshman year as well as through his junior year he was co-Editor-in-Chief of the Class of '64. Having completed the first half of his junior year, Ronnie snared the editorship of the Compact and culminated his efforts by becoming a highly devoted and successful editor of the Academy News in his senior year. Despite all this he found time to manage the junior varsity Basketball Team and participated on the Baseball Team. Ronnie will carry his talents to either Columbia University or City College where he will prepare for a career in the brokerage field in which he has had much experience during summer vacations.

טוב שם טוב משמן טוב (קהלת ז').

LEONARD OBERSTEIN

This outstanding citizen of Montgomery, Alabama has had a profound impact on the political opinions prevailing in our school. Long and vociferously has Lenny pleaded the cause of states' rights and bemoaned the evils of government bureaucracy and creeping socialism. While these arguments often raised blood pressure and proved very unsettling in Mr. Minchenberg's otherwise stable class, they also convinced everyone that Lenny would be the logical choice for captain of the Interscholastic Debating Team, a position he proceeded to fill with distinction. Lenny had decided to continue his studies at Yeshiva University and to continue from there to the rabbinate where he should be a great success.

לשוני עט סופר מהיר (תהילים מ"ה).



PAUL PALEFSKI

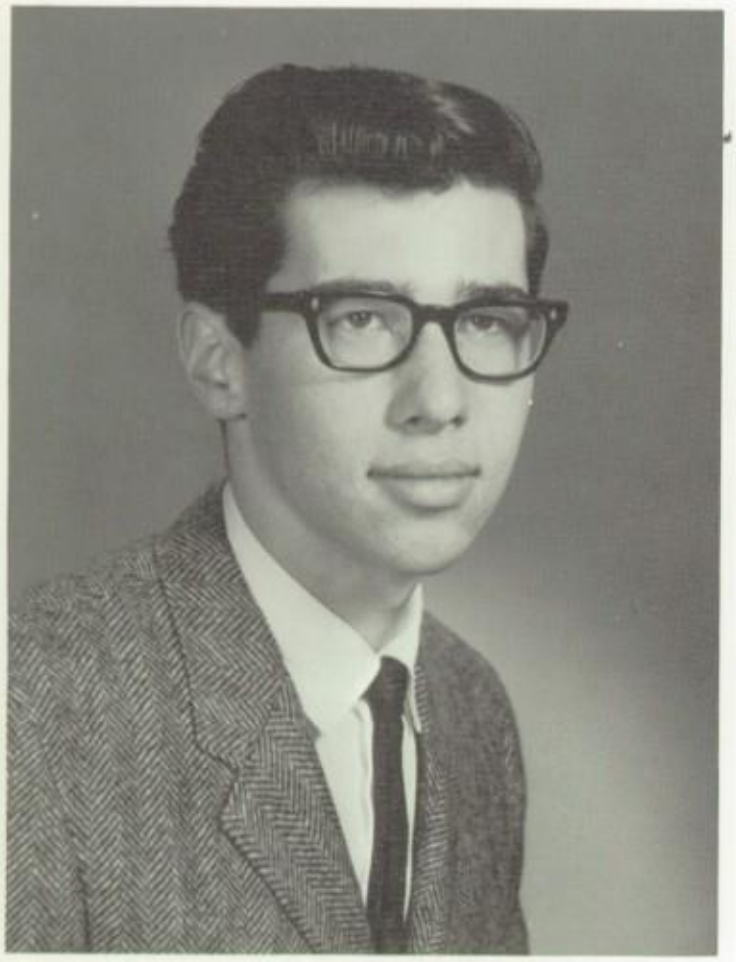
Coming to us from suburbia, Paul left his indelible mark on many phases of our school. After three years of chaos and mayhem in his own dormitory room, Paul had to leave the dorm and cause same in someone else's room. Paul's efforts to stay sane during four years of Y.U.H.S. caused our administration much chagrin. His fate has been left suspended many times. Paul hit Y.U.H.S. just about when Peter, Paul, and Mary did and was in tune with the times, providing his own hootenanys reverberating amid the sounds of Aramaic (to different tunes). Paul became a member of our Varsity Basketball Team as a freshman. He grew from strength to strength until he became captain in his senior year. As Sports Editor of the Elchanite he brought a style of his own to our yearbook. His antics at Y.U. are not over, for Paul will continue his studies at our institution (the college, that is) as he studies medicine.

שלשה כתרים הם...וכתר שם טוב עולה על גביהן (אבות ד').

DANIEL PEARL

Danny has led a very colorful life at Yeshiva while managing to complete his studies here. Although only a minor character in the "BB shooting incident," his role in that affair plus the rigors of MTA almost led Danny beyond our doors. Yet, he stayed on to graduate as one of the finest students in our class. As a much-beloved member of the Queens bloc, Danny was elected president of our freshman class. He has always intrigued his sophomore rebbe and also entertained his admiring classmates by tremendous impersonations of various teachers. Because of an experience at Maimonidies Institute in the summer of his junior year, Danny would like to study psychology and aid in helping retarded children. We wish him success as he pursues this noble ideal at the college of his choice.

מים עמוקים עצה בלב איש ואיש תבונות ידלנה (משלי כ').



MURRAY PERL

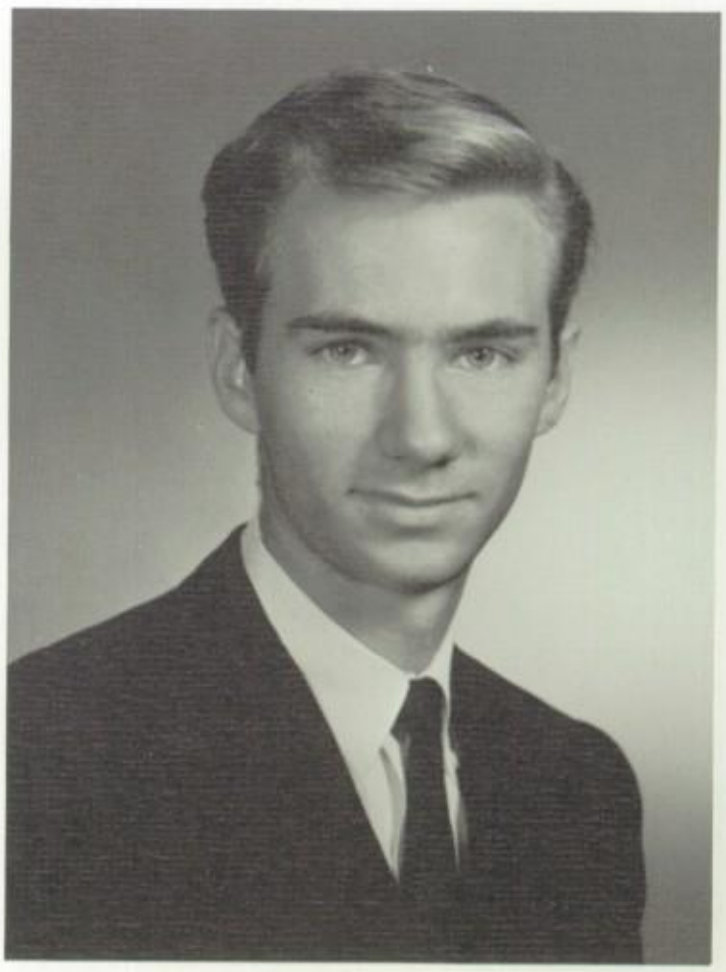
One of the more mechanically minded students of this year's graduating class, Murray's interests center around sport cars, hot rods and dragsters (demolishing them). Murray has been active in many intramural activities. He also was a member of the notorious Passover Provision Committee. Because of his scientific knowledge, he has selected engineering as his major in college. His choice of college, however, is as yet uncertain.

נותן ליעף כח (ישעיה מ׳).

JULES POGROW

In an age of specialization, Yitzie is a rare find—a well-rounded individual. His abilities as a student have enabled him to achieve one of the highest academic rankings in our class. A certain relation on our faculty assured Yitz of always passing French. A fine athlete, Yitzie was a member of our Basketball Team since his freshman year. He also participated actively on our newly-formed Baseball Team. Yitz's mastery of English made him a good choice for editor of both the Ledger and Depth. The fact that these two papers are now defunct has nothing to do with his participation. Yitzie's interest in politics and finance spurred him on to win the election for treasurer of the G.O. He hopes to become a physician after graduating from Yeshiva College.

מה ירמזון עיניך (איוב ט״ו).



ISRAEL POLAK

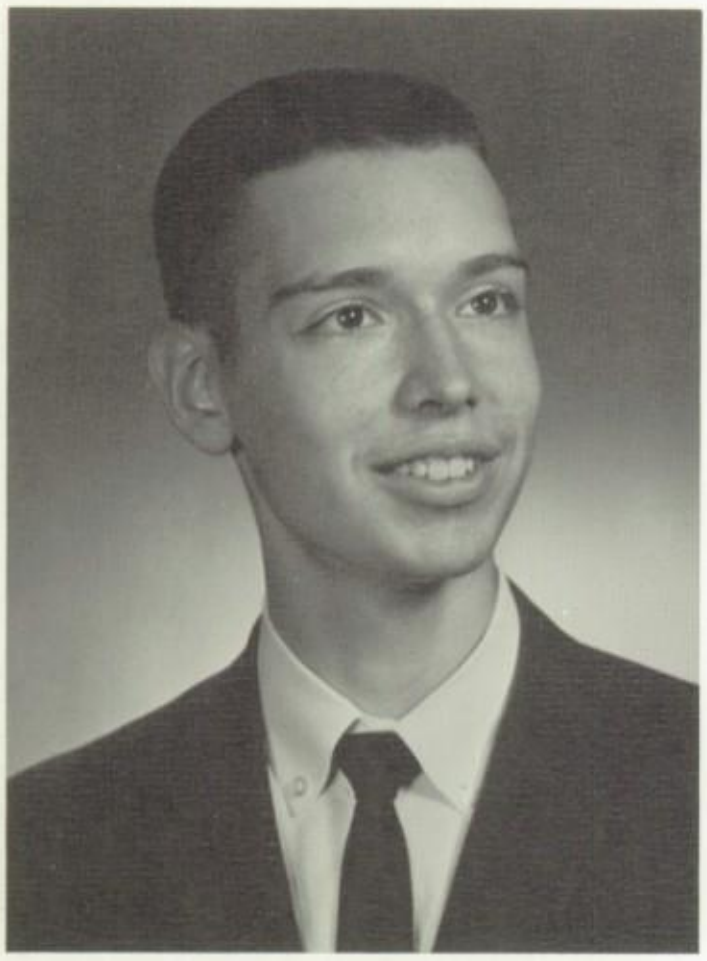
Israel "Tooly" Polak, a member of the Spring Valley contingent, is one of the best-liked students in the graduating class. One of the "Big Rabbi's" chief tormentors, Tooly can be heard defending his San Francisco Giants anytime and anywhere. A diligent worker, his eagerness to comprehend the subject matter has enabled him to achieve good marks in all his courses. He is a person of great dexterity and a good basketball player. His other interests include chess, checkers, bowling and tennis. His strong personality and many gifts will carry him a long way in his studies at Y.U.

ארץ אפים רב תבונה (משלי י״ד).

SIMON POSNER

One of the truly dedicated boys in the senior class, Simon has distinguished himself both in his Hebrew and French studies. Coming to us in the sophomore year from Y.C.Q., he soon established himself as a leading academician. His love of Hebrew has resulted in his appointment as Hebrew Editor of the Elchanite as well as Editor-in-Chief of the Hatchiya. Despite his academic interests he took an active interest in interscholastic activities, starting on both Yeshiva Bowl and debating teams. We are sure he will distinguish himself further as he pursues his education at Yeshiva College.

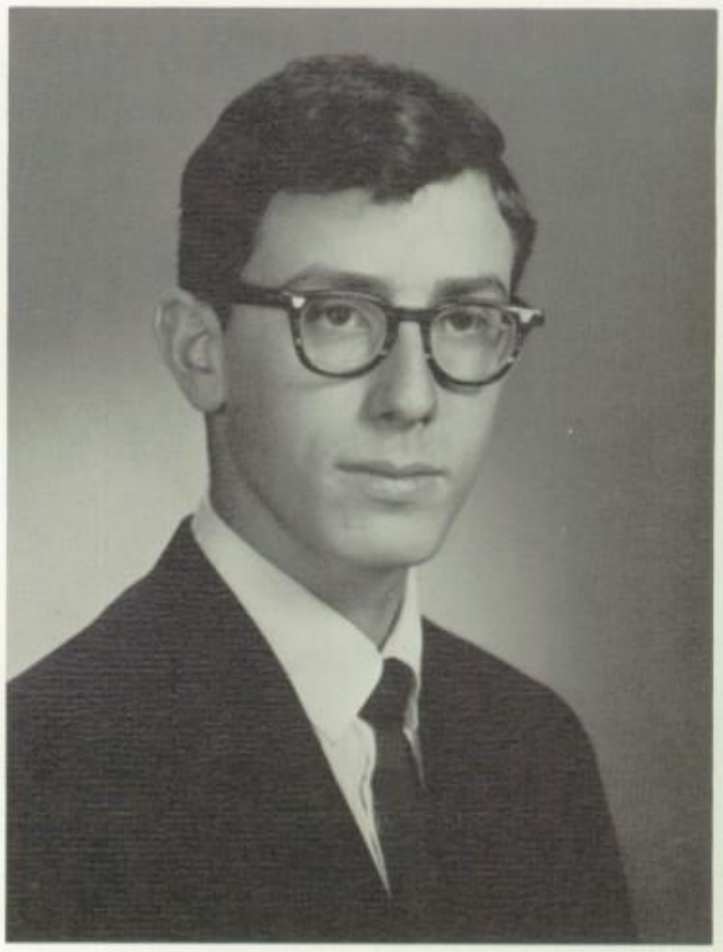
כשושנה בין החוחים כן רעיתי בין הבנות
(שיר השירים ב)׳.



LEONARD PRESBY

Reddish-brown topped Lenny has compiled an impressive record, both scholastic and extracurricular, in four years. On the former score Lenny survived verbal battles with Rabbi Dulitz for three years and was chosen for Arista. On the latter he was captain of this year's triumphant Chess Team, photography Editor of the Elchanite and several times G.O. and Awards Committee representative. Lenny who is in Rabbi Katz's college shiur in his senior year, plans to continue in Yeshiva University majoring in physics or mathematics.

תאוה נהיה תערב לנפש (משלי י״ג).



DAVID RADIN

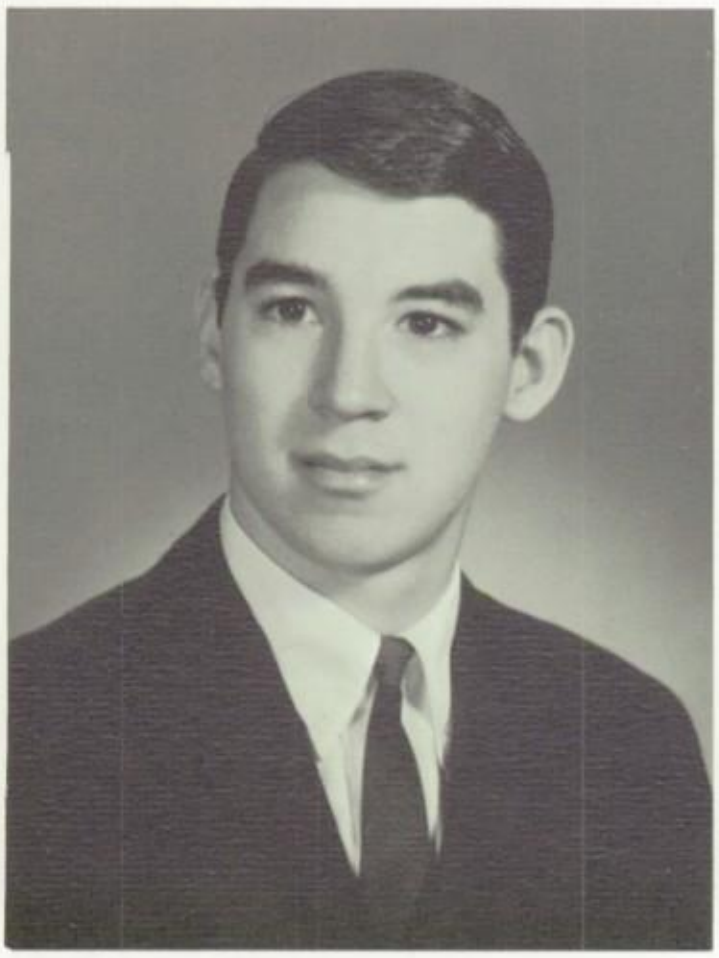
It is impossible to single out one particular outstanding point in David Radin's high school career. This is because he has so many outstanding accomplishments that to mention one in particular would be unfair to the others. David has attained an outstanding scholastic average, has been elected secretary and later president of the G.O., has been a star of our basketball team and has been a member of the varsity Math and Debating Teams. After describing a record of this nature, there is little to add other than that he has won the love and admiration of all his fellow students at Y.U.H.S. We wish Dave only the best, as he aspires toward a career in mathematics which he will prepare for either at Cornell or Harvard.

וילך דוד הלוך וגדול (דברי הימים א׳-י״א).

ARYEH LEIB RALBAG

Aryeh spent his early elementary sechool years in Ramaz and later advanced to the sheltered Beis Medrash of R.J.J. Upon arriving at Yeshiva, Aryeh proceeded to excel in both his secular and talmudical studies. He has maintained unbelievably high averages in both realms of study. His ebullient manner may be traced to his direct descendency from the Baal Shem Tov. He also accounts for his deep Gemorah "sevorahs" on his descending from the Ralbag. Although he takes out time every day for his father's Daf Yomi class, he is a student of one of the highest college Gemorah classes. Aryeh has been very active in school politics, and his rhetoric has served him equally in debates and campaign speeches. His desire to continue his study of Torah on an advanced level has led him to decide to spend a year learning in Israel. Upon his return to the U.S., Aryeh plans to enter Yeshiva where he will major in premed while attaining his semicha.

שומר פיו ולשונו שומר מצרות נפשו (משלי כ"א־כ"ג).



JOSEPH REIMER

Joey's talents as a born leader led him to heretofore unreached heights. In his sophomore year, when he lacked something to lead, he created an organization of which he quickly became president. This illegally organized clique aroused much controversy among the faculty and the student body. For this reason its president saw fit to have it disbanded. Joey's interest in inter-yeshiva affairs gained him the post of leader of the Inter-Yeshiva Council. In this capacity his reign was marked by the first I.Y. Chanukah Chagiga and greater participation in I.Y. activities. Joey was also Editor-in-Chief of the Compact. Because of the influence of certain psychologically-minded teachers and his own soul-searching attitude, Joseph will study psychology at Queens College.

אמר לחכמה אחותי את . . . (משלי ז').

MARTIN REIN

Marty's four years at Y.U.H.S. may best be summed up by "What do I care?" He came here to obtain knowledge and didn't care about marks. His interest in Israel branded him a communist and, what's worse, a zionist by his friends. A very active Bnei Akivanik, Marty leans here toward the ultimate goal of aiding Israel. At M.T.A. he served on our Service Squad, on committees and in various intramural activities. He is a T.I. boy at heart, and a T.A. boy in learning. Marty will attend Yeshiva University where he will major in Hebrew so that he may achieve his ultimate goal of teaching English on a kibbutz (Bnei Akiva, preferably). Prior to this, he hopes to spend a year in Israel to get the feeling of the land. We wish him much success in this noble venture.

עלו ורשו את הארץ אשר נתתי לכם (דברים ט').

IRVING REINSTEIN

Irving, a graduate of Yeshiva Salanter, is one of the friendliest students one will ever meet. Reticent in class but a "ball of fire" outside of school, Irv has lived a happy, many-sided life. He is very interested in social sciences. A member of the Awards Committee and also the Track Team, he has truly amazed his senior rebbe to "no end," and will long be remembered by him. He hopes to attend C.C.N.Y. where he will major in political science. His Y.U.H.S. education has given him a strong foundation for this endeavor.

טוב ארץ אפים מגבור (משלי ט"ז).

ALAN ROCKOFF

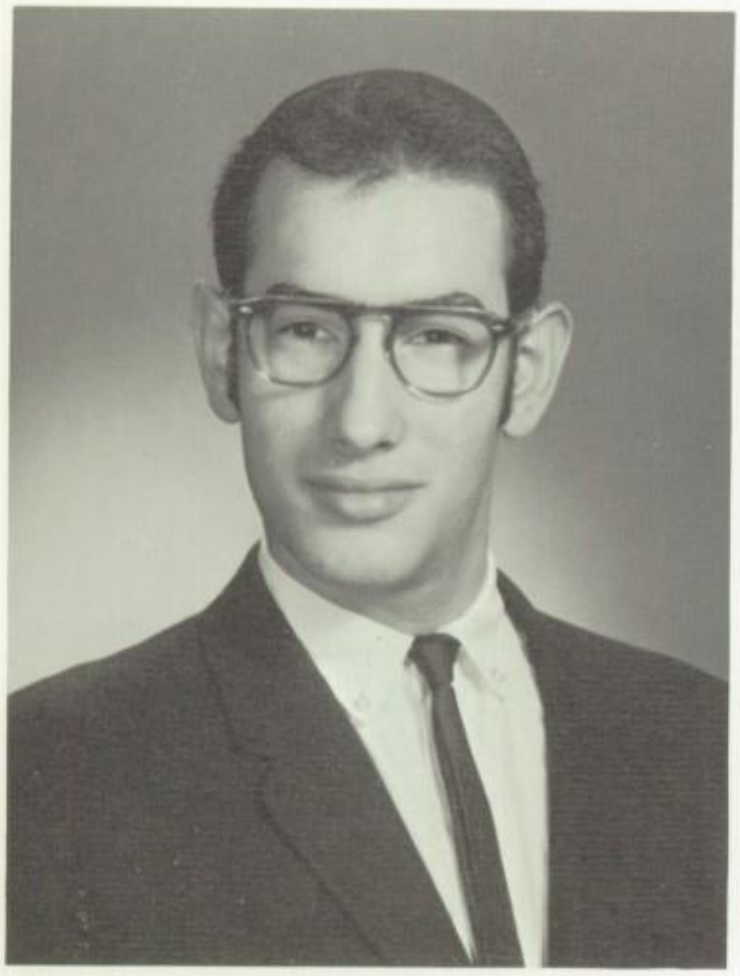
Alan, or Avi as he is known, is the quintessence of all that is good in a yeshiva student. His modest personality made him a favorite with teachers and students. His qualities as a student earned him one of the highest academic rankings in his class. He also displays an exceptional capacity for learning. His attendance in a college gemara shiur attests to this fact. Because of his broad knowledge Avi is a starter on our College Bowl team. He also starts on the Math and Debating teams. His command of the language and his creative ability made him an excellent choice for Editor-in-Chief of the Elchanite. We are confident his many fine attributes will insure his success in math at Yeshiva University.

וה' ברך את אברהם בכל (בראשית כ"ד).

ELIHU ROMANOFF

Starting off with the rigorous T.I. program, Elihu soon found that his interest in religious studies were not developing as he had hoped. For this reason, after his sophomore year he transferred to T.A. There he really became a fine gemara student. Elihu's strength has often amazed his classmates. His jaunts to our weightlifting room were always followed by tales of super-human feats of strength. Elihu participated actively in all manners of intramurals in his four year stay at Yeshiva. His interest in biology has kept him busy after school hours. This interest will aid him as he studies medicine at the college of his choice.

והצלתיך מיד רעים ופדתיך מכף עריצים (ירמיהו ט"ו).



HOWARD ROSENBERG

Since his freshman year Hezzy has participated actively in many school activities. His active participation on the Chavrusa and Shamos Committees greatly assisted the noble works of these groups. He is also quite a bowler, a member of our interscholastic Bowling Team. Besides his high secular scholastic average, his diligent study habits in talmud and his great desire to learn has enabled him to skip a grade and enter one of the best college shiurim—Rabbi Lichtenstein's. His outside interests include the learning of extra tractates in talmud. We are sure he will succeed as he continues his studies at Yeshiva University.

סוף דבר הכל נשמע את האלקים ירא ואת מצותיו שמור (קהלת י"ב).

PAUL ROSENSTOCK

Paul has led an exciting life at Y.U.H.S., much of his four years here may be characterized by a dollar sign. Paul started as a G.O. Store salesman, worked his way up to manager of the store and then to treasurer of our G.O. As treasurer, he stocked the G.O. Store with items the school had never seen and would never sell. As a member of the Executive Council of the G.O., his leading of the Star Spangled Banner at an assembly will long be remembered. After his rendition of our national anthem, the student body wanted to sing My Country 'tis of Thee for the remainder of the term. Besides running our school financially, Paul has been on various intramural teams and has written articles for various publications. He will study medicine or engineering at Yeshiva College.

בכל עצב יהיה מותר (משלי י"ד).

MORRIS ROSENSWEIG

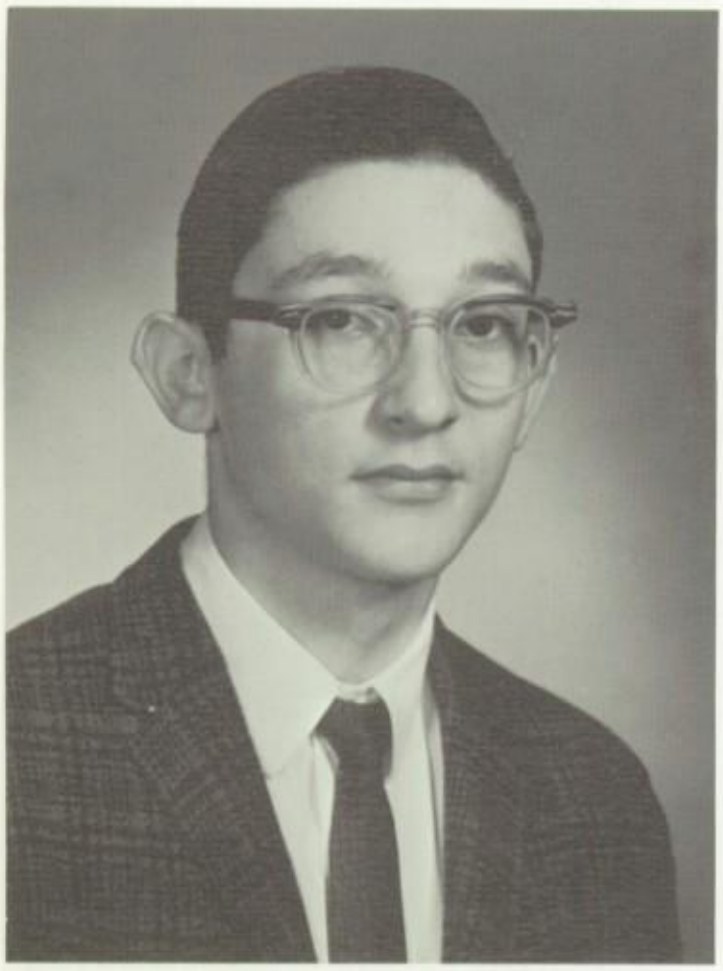
Morris "Schviger" Rosensweig is one of the real "nice guys" in our senior class. Moish, who is always ready to do a friend a favor, has endeared himself to his fellow classmates. He is very reticent during the school day, but can be heard from afar when the final bell rings. Instilled with a tremendous love for talmud, Morris is one of the best students in Rabbi Yankelewitz's shiur. Also called "Kid Rock," was one of Senor Schoffel's best pupils. He hopes to major in accounting; we are sure that in whatever road in life he will travel he will be successful.

והאיש משה ענו מכל אדם (במדבר י"ב).

JOSEPH RUBENSTEIN

Jose is the Class of '64's only Colombian. His affable manner has endeared him to all his classmates. One of the few well-rounded members of our class, he has left his mark in all aspects of our school. His services in organizing dormitory activities have been invaluable to the "roving guidance counselor." His outside interests include a strong liking for Latin American music as befits one who comes from "south of the border." A fine personality and altruistic character will ensure Jose of success as he embarks on a career in medicine.

חסד ורחמים עשו איש אל אחיו (זכריה ז').



JESSE SALB

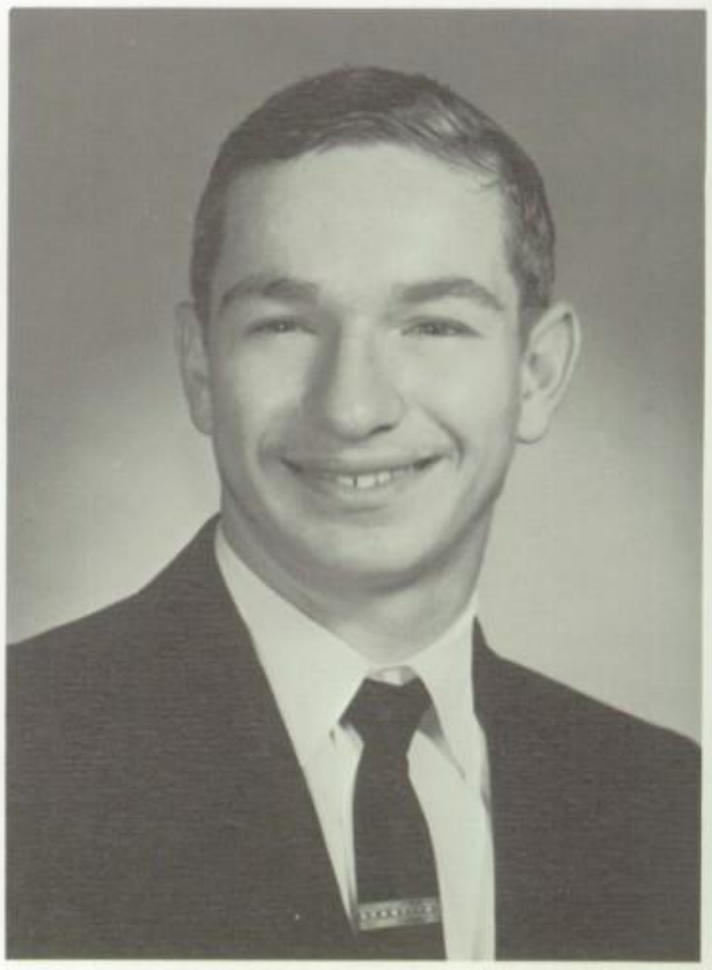
Aside from being a starting member of this year's interscholastic Chess Team, Jesse has led a comparatively quiet life at Y.U.H.S. Most of his time has been spent in a remarkably advanced activity in the field of science: research in virology. Jesse is currently working at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine endeavoring to discover a link between a virus and cancer. In leisure time Jesse likes to listen to classical music and has built up a considerable record collection. He plans to attend either Columbia University or City College and to make research in virology his life's work.

תקופות וגמטריאות פרפראות לחכמה (אבות ג').

MELVIN SALTZMAN

Although basically a great individual, Mel has endeared himself to the class for his constant willingness to aid his fellow students. Since he comes in every day from Rockland County, Mel has not had time to be active in extracurricular affairs; but he still managed to maintain his interest in baseball, football, track and field. An omnivorous reader, he has been among the most studious members of our Class. Being one of the few who exhibited an active interest in Jewish Studies he was a mainstay in his talmud Studies. We wish him success as he pursues a career in science at City College.

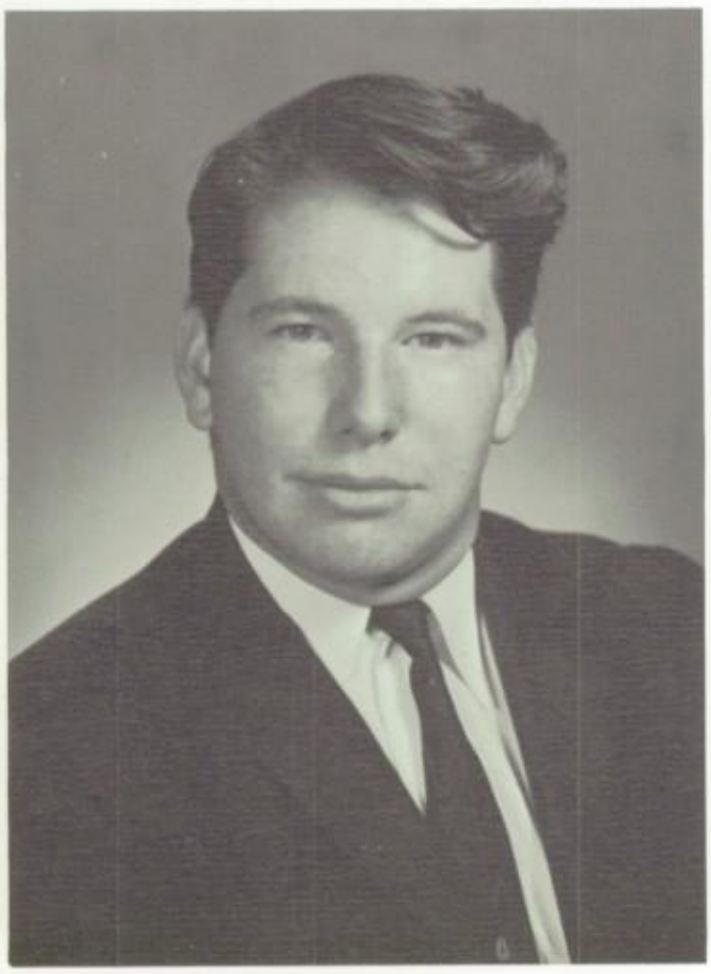
שלום רב לאהבי תורתך ואין עמו מכשול (תהלים קי"ט).



SALOMON SAMSON

Shlomo came to us as a freshman from Yeshiva R. M. Soloveitchik. He has participated actively on many S.O.Y. committees and been an ardent worker for the Beis Medrash. Besides his high scholastic average in his secular studies, his outstanding brilliance in talmud has enabled Solomon to skip into one of the best shiurim in the Beth Medrash—Rav Lichtenstein's. He was one of Rabbi Parnes' outstanding pupils. Last year, for extracurricular activities, he completed two tractates by himself. This year he expects to complete tractate Nedarim. One can see Shlomo spending most of his spare time in the Beis Medrash learning. We wish him the best of luck as he studies to become a rabbi.

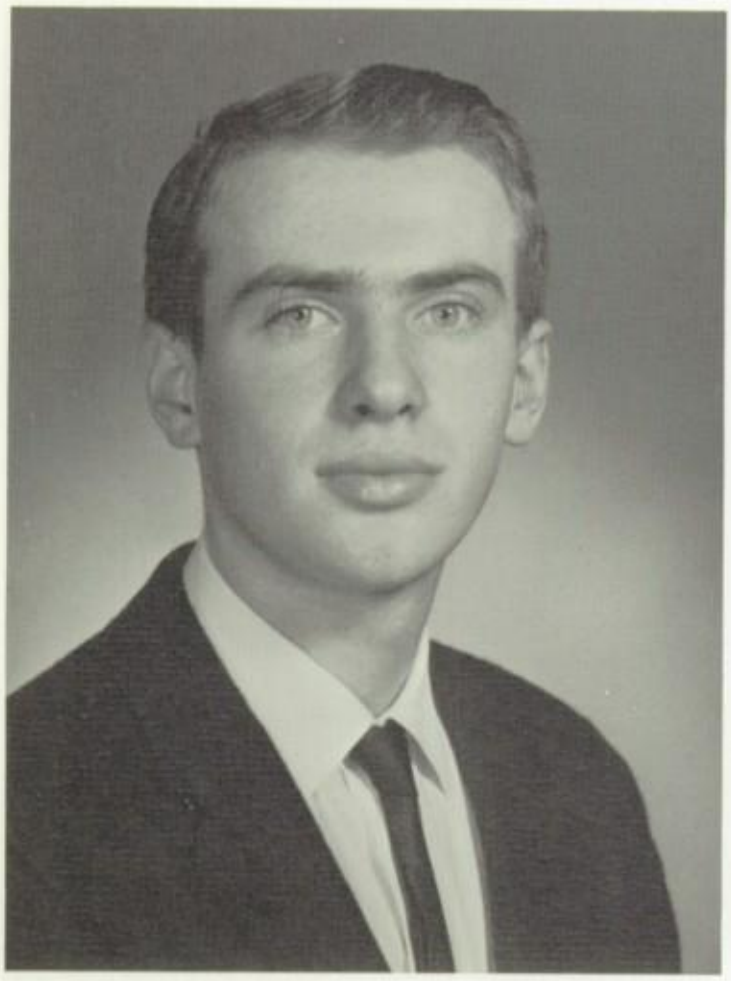
יראת ה' מקור חיים (משלי י"ד).



ARNOLD SAPERMAN

Arnold, commonly called Arnie, is about as quiet a boy as you'd ever hope to meet, but—with his hands—he is probably the best artist in the senior clan, one of the art editors of the Elchanite. He can be seen drawing "all sorts" of pictures during his first four hours of the day. Arnold, whose scholastic average hovers around the "90" mark, is astute and well-liked by all his teachers. Arnie, who came from Yeshiva Torah V'Emunah, is also deeply interested in music, both popular and classical. He will probably major in medicine when he goes to C.C.N.Y., and we are sure of his continued success.

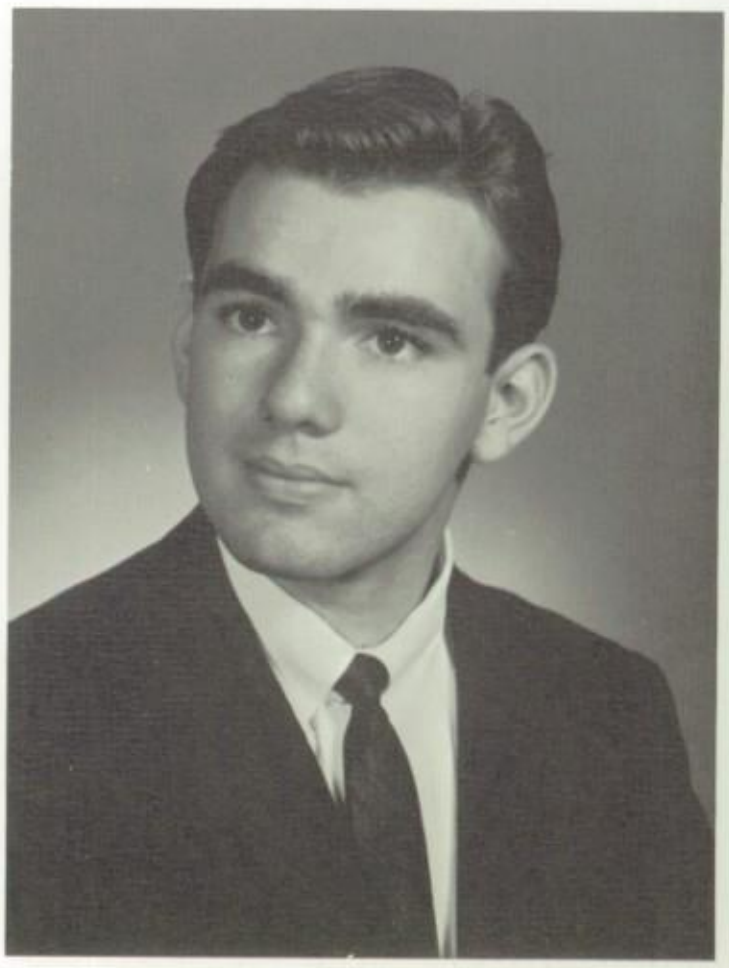
שירו לה' שיר חדש שירו לה' כל הארץ (תהלים צ"ו).



MILAN SCHIFF

Coming to our school from a famous Forest Hills yeshiva, Milan has successfully gone through four years at a more famous Manhattan one. Being a member of our Office Squad, he has often assisted Naomi and SS in their tedious chores. Milan has been an excellent addition to our Chess and Checker Teams. He is an enthusiastic reader of good literature and heartily endulges in most sports. Milan will study to be an electrical engineer at either New York University or Queens College.

דרך אמונה בחרתי, משפטיך שויתי (תהלים קי"ט).



SAMUEL SCHOENWETTER

One of the most boisterous members of our class, Sam has gone through four years at Y.U.H.S. taking an active part in all phases of extracurricular activities. Nevertheless, Sam never faltered in his studies as evinced by his election to Arista. One of the finest bench-warmers ever to make our basketball team, "Shot" proved invaluable in bolstering our team's spirit in its darkest hours. As captain of the Service Squad, Sam and his SS men managed to evacuate our school in less time than any other previous squad. We wish Sam much success as he pursues his studies at the college of his choice.

שמוני נוטרה את הכרמים . . . (שיר השירים).

DAVID SCHMUCKLER

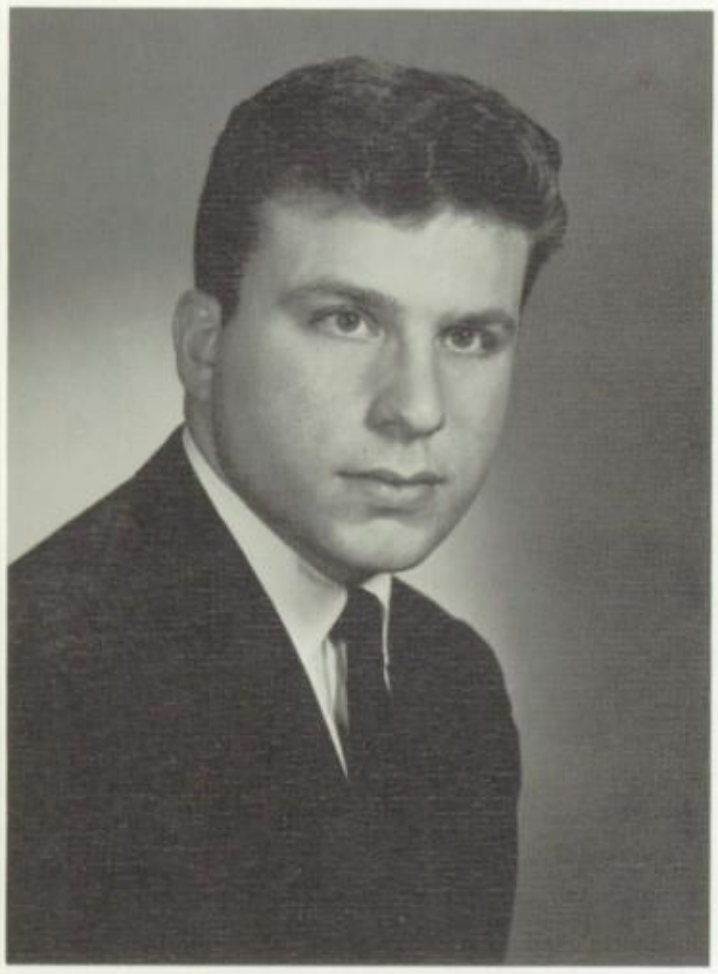
David has gone through four years of "yeshiva living with a maximum of accomplishments. His activities in and out of class were undertaken with a wholehearted attitude which gratified all who worked with him. David aided in producing our Compact, in unraveling some of our committees and in voting on major issues in our G.O. As a member of our Chess Team, he compiled quite a substantial record. David enjoys participating in all sports, especially skating. He could be found skating on the infrequent occasions when we were let out by our wardens. David will continue his studies at Yeshiva University where he will study mathematics.

כבוד חכמים ינחלו (משלי ג').

ALLAN SCHRANZ

Allan is one of the most amazing students in our senior class. Having had Rabbi Dulitz for three years has had a remarkable effect on him. It is rumored he can recite any given scene in Merchant of Venice, Julius Caesar, Macbeth, etc. He has even amazed the "Great Rabbi" with his powers of recall. This wonderful asset has made Allan an excellent language student, and he will probably major in languages when he attends college. His interests vary from checkers to reading great novels. He is a member of Yeshiva's interscholastic Checker Team. Allan also works at his morning studies diligently and boasts a fine Talmud average. A graduate of Yeshiva Salanter, Al will probably attend Y.U. We wish him much success.

שומר מצוה לא ידע דבר רע (קהלת ח').



KENNETH SCHULMAN

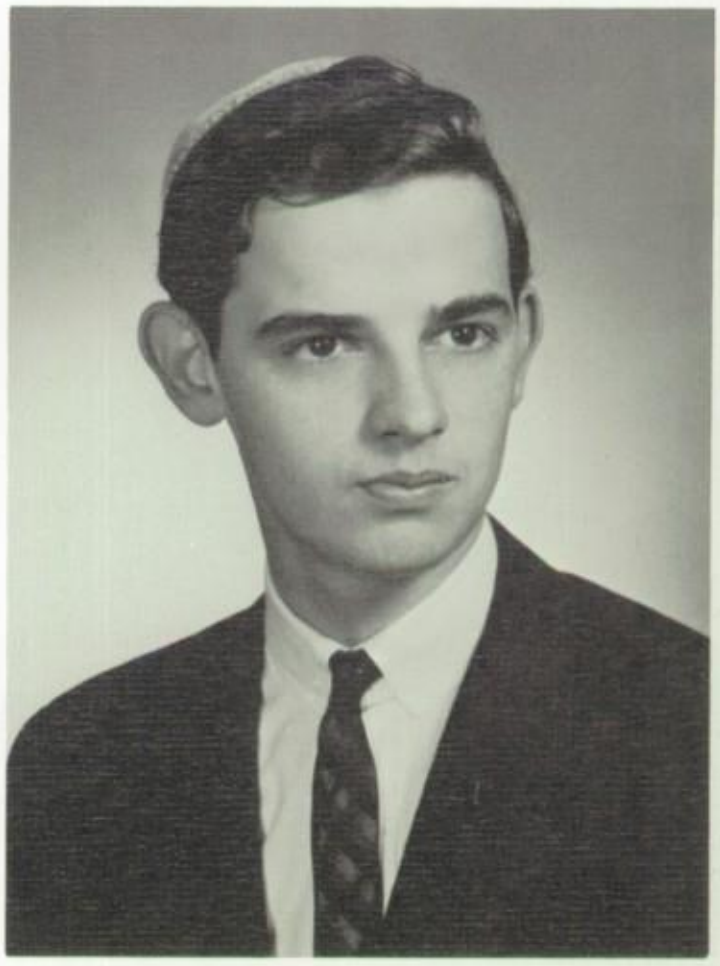
Kenny is one of the most conscientious students in the class of '64. He is constantly aware of what is required of him and always strives to accomplish it. He came to our school in his sophomore year from Yeshiva of Central Queens. Kenny has been kept busy by the many dormitory activities designed by its supervisor to keep the "inmates" happy. In the dorm, Kenny has achieved the position of Chief Justice of the Dormitory Court. His concern for human suffering has prodded him to enter Yeshiva College to begin studying for a career in medicine. Although many years of hard work lie ahead, we are sure Kenny will cope with them and come forth successfully.

חזית איש מהיר במלאכתו לפני מלכים יתיצב (משלי כ"ב).

ROBERT SHAFRAN

Coming to our hallowed halls from Yeshiva Soloveichik, Bobby is one of the most appreciated among the seniors. Because of his uncanny knack for taking down every word any of his teachers say, he is the official (and only) note-taker among the seniors in their cooperative venture to pass tests. Through untiring effort, Bob has climbed the ladder of success in the G.O. Store, becoming Assistant Manager in his senior year. Aside from indulging in sports, Bobby spends much time playing the piano and chasing butterflies. Bobby also has the distinction of having been one of Rabbi Dulitz's three year sufferers. His plans for the future include majoring in law at City College.

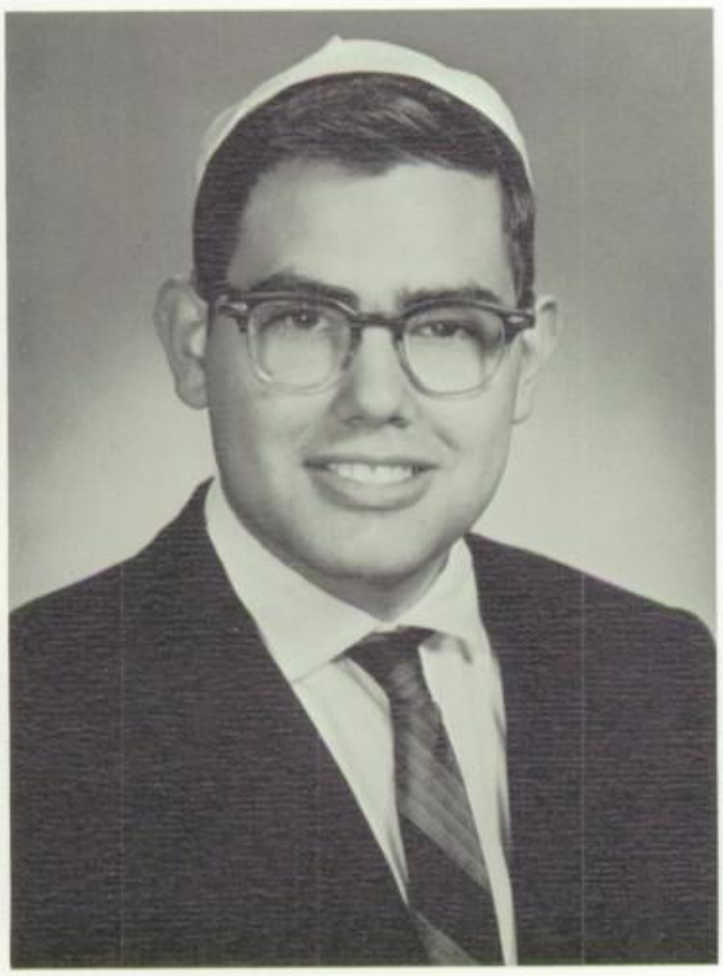
די לי לא אירא מה יעשה לי אדם (תהלים קי"ח).



ALLEN SILBERMAN

Allen in four years at Yeshiva has endeared himself to teachers and classmates alike by his soft manner. "Weasel" has somehow managed to survive all the journeys on the Weinbach-mobile to school. Many times his smiling face greeted students of Y.U.H.S. as he brought around the attendance sheet. We are sure that his trips to school with a certain administrator had nothing to do with his job on the Office Squad. "Vantz" (as he is affectionately called by Louis) has also served faithfully on the library squad. He has been an asset to our checker team as well as to our track team. "Weasel" will probably have to get used to being called Allen as he pursues a career as an accountant at Hunter College.

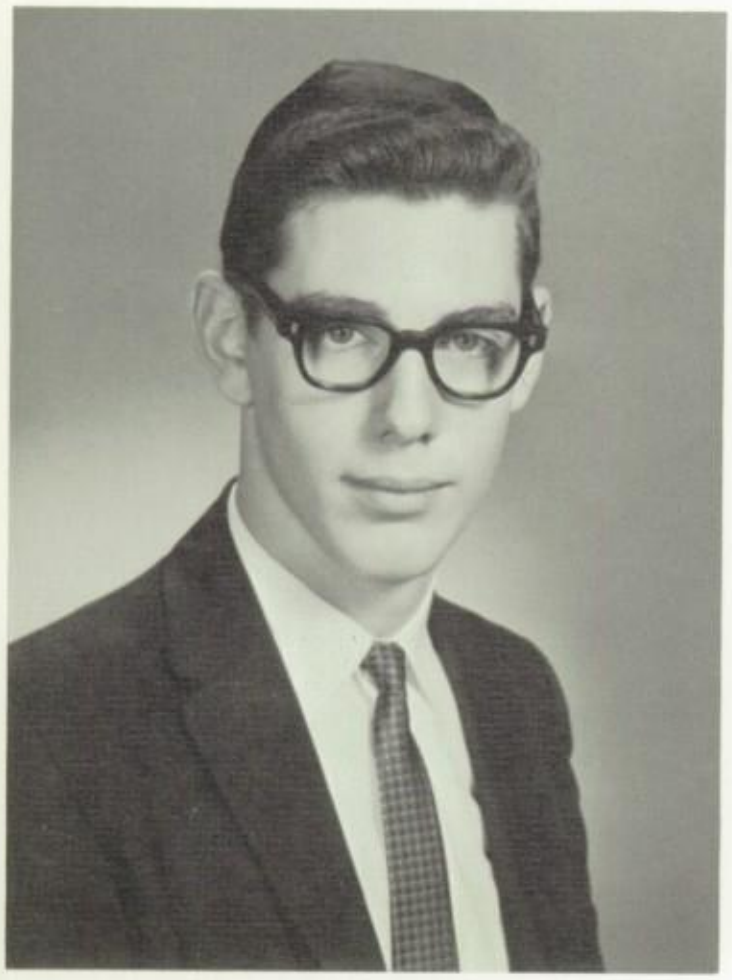
ועודנו מחזיק בתמתו (איוב ב: ג').



JEFFREY SILVER

Jeffrey is one of our most advanced seniors. Aside from being in a college shiur, he will be ready to take graduate school math when he enters college next year. Although having close ties with a school administrator he has been at the forefront of many rebellious movements in the school. But all work and no play make Jack a dull boy, so he was one of the founders and Editors-in-Chief of the Depth, the school humor magazine. His other activities include captain of the Math Team, Yeshiva Bowl Team and Student Council. Jeffrey will enter Y.U. next year with hopes of becoming a rabbi.

כי לאדם שטוב לפניו נתן חכמה ודעת (קהלת ב').



MARTIN SINGER

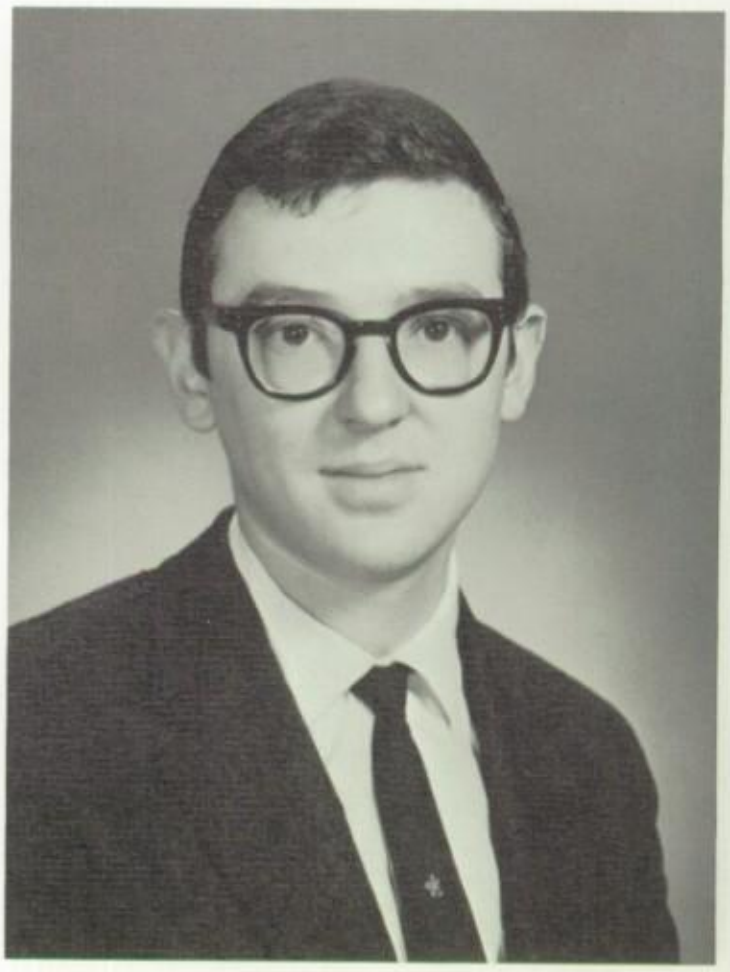
Martin is fortunate to be endowed with one of the finest literary capabilities in the school. Even though he is a fine all-around student, his successes have been most brilliant in English literature and composition classes. His extra-curricular activities have also been directed towards English. After having worked his way up from Managing and Literary Editors, Martin, as Editor-in-Chief, has presented the school with the finest Compact in years. He has also found time to lend his talents to the Academy News as a member of the news staff. Martin is hopeful of majoring in English Literature in Hunter or N.Y.U., with the aim of becoming a college professor and author. His proven ability assure him much success in his chosen occupation.

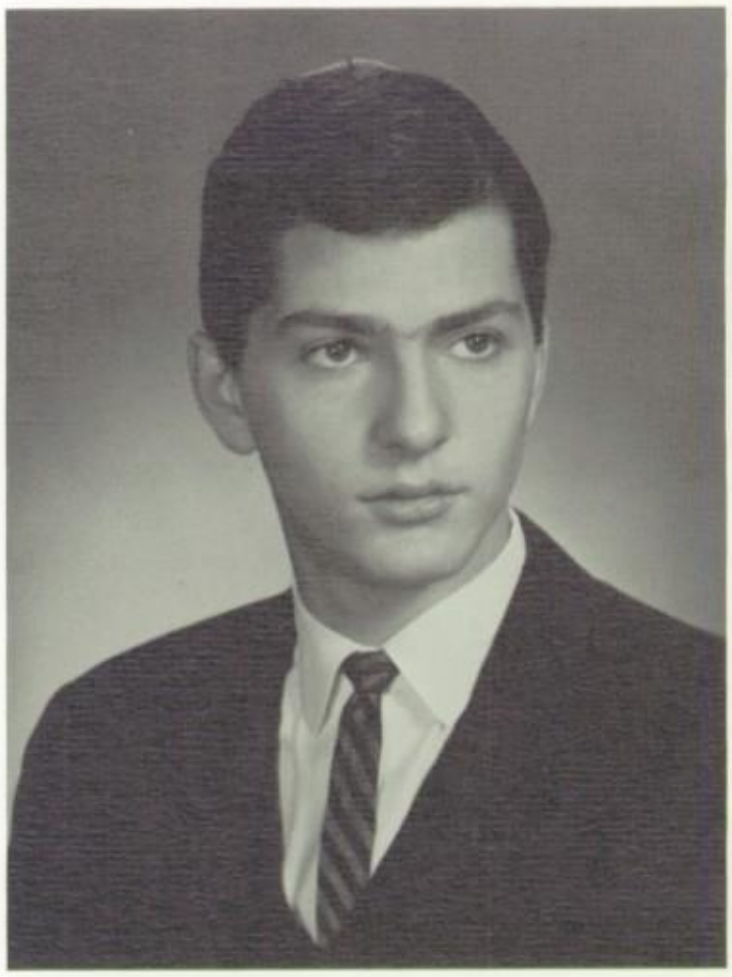
אז ישיר משה (בשלח שמות).

HAROLD SKOVRONSKY

Entering in his junior year, Chezkel quickly gecame the most outstanding student in Rabbi Isbee's shiur. His love for learning showed itself in his excelling in Hebrew and tanach as well as talmud. Though most of his major interests lie in the field of Judaic learning, Chezkel has maintained a high average in his secular studies. Manifesting a deep love for humanity as well as Judaism he has become an unofficial Chavrusa to many of the boys in his shiur and in the dorm, helped organize a Tanya shiur in the dorm as well as working in his home town of Bridgeport, Conn. for the spread of Torah and Judaism. Chezkel will continue to manifest his love for humanity and Judaism in Yeshiva University by majoring in medicine and studying towards "semicha."

בקשתם אותי . . . ונמצאתי לכם (ירמיה כ"ט).





JOSEPH SLATER

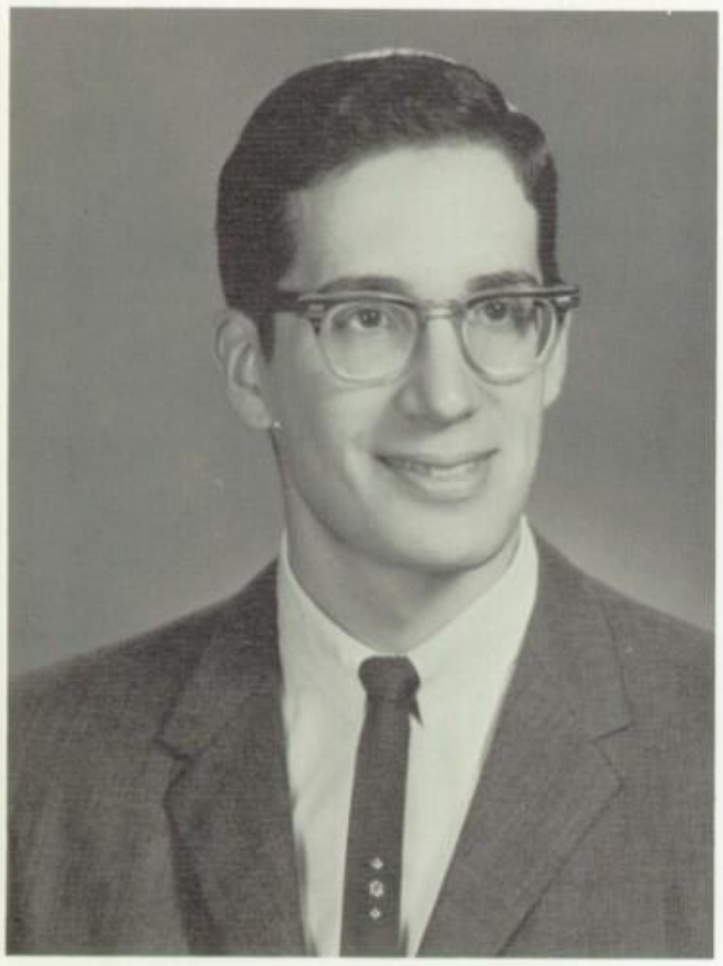
Coming to Y.U.H.S. in his sophomore year from the halls of R.J.J., Joe adjusted quite rapidly to the more conservative atmosphere at Yeshiva. The only evidence to the contrary is Joe's shock of hair, which has endured as a symbol of his years on the East Side. He has spent much time at our school making up excuses to certain inquisitive rabbis as to why he hasn't taken a haircut. Joe is also known for his attentiveness in history in general and in Mr. Reiss's class in particular. He went through three years of drudgery cataloguing Yeshiva's century-old, out-of-date, out-of-print, out-of-importance books as a member of the Library Squad. Joe's preoccupation with an experiment entitled "The Best Use for a Borrowed Water Gun" led a certain study hall supervisor to squelch his experimental inclinations. Joe will probably find out why people "experiment" with water guns as he studies psychology at Yeshiva College.

משכמו ומעלה גבוה מכל העם (שמואל א׳־ט׳).

KALMAN STEIN

Kalman, who came to us from R.J.J., has had a high school career notable for its ups and downs. The ups have come fairly often—at each report card, to be exact. The one major down came during Kalman's junior year when he became Editor-in-Chief of Depth, the Y.U.H.S. humor magazine. It took quite a sense of humor to hold a publication like that together. But Kalman and Jeffrey Silver, though continually quarreling, kept it up for two terms. Having risen from the depths of the junior year, Kalman plans to prepare for a career in law at either Yeshiva University or City College.

כן דעה חכמה לנפשך אם מצאת ויש אחרית
(משלי כ״ד־י״ד).



MICHAEL STEIN

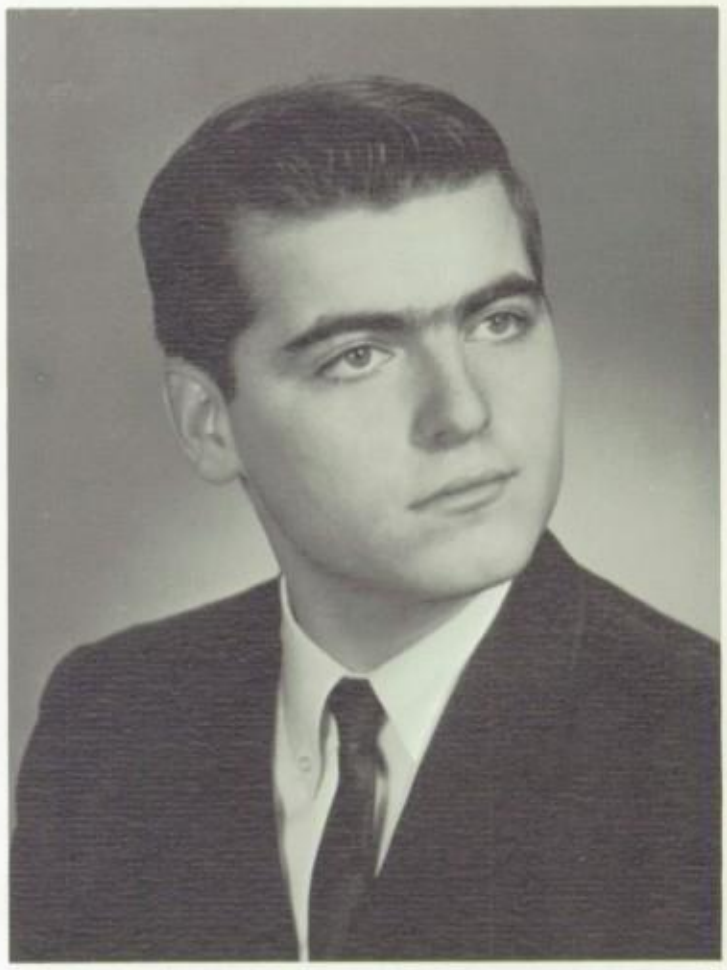
Mike is one of the dorm boys who has become an integral member of our class despite the rigors of dormitory life. His main interest has been as a booter on our Soccer Team. This spirit is carried over to our Chess Team, where Mike's enjoyment of the game made him a qualified competitor. His association with a certain "way out" camp caused much controversy among our more "traditional" faculty. Yet Mike weathered that storm by remaining a "good yeshiva boy." His interest in economics was further cultivated and fertilized by Mr. Cobert. This has inspired Mike to continue studying economics at New York University.

קול ברמה נשמע (ירמיהו ל"א).

GARY STERN

Gary William Stern brings dogmatic beliefs to our school. An avid and diehard supporter of the Knicks, Jets, and Rangers, one can hear Gary praising his teams almost anytime during the day. A scholar in both religious and secular studies, Gary has been the favorite of many teachers, among them the "Good Rabbi." His outside activities range from Meidlach (girls) to reading a good book. A good-natured and thoughtful student, Gary has been captain of the Chess Team and Circulation Editor of the Bulletin. He hopes to go to Y.U. from where he will become a dentist and—we are confident—a good one.

שומר מצוה שומר נפשו (משלי י"ט).



PETER STERN

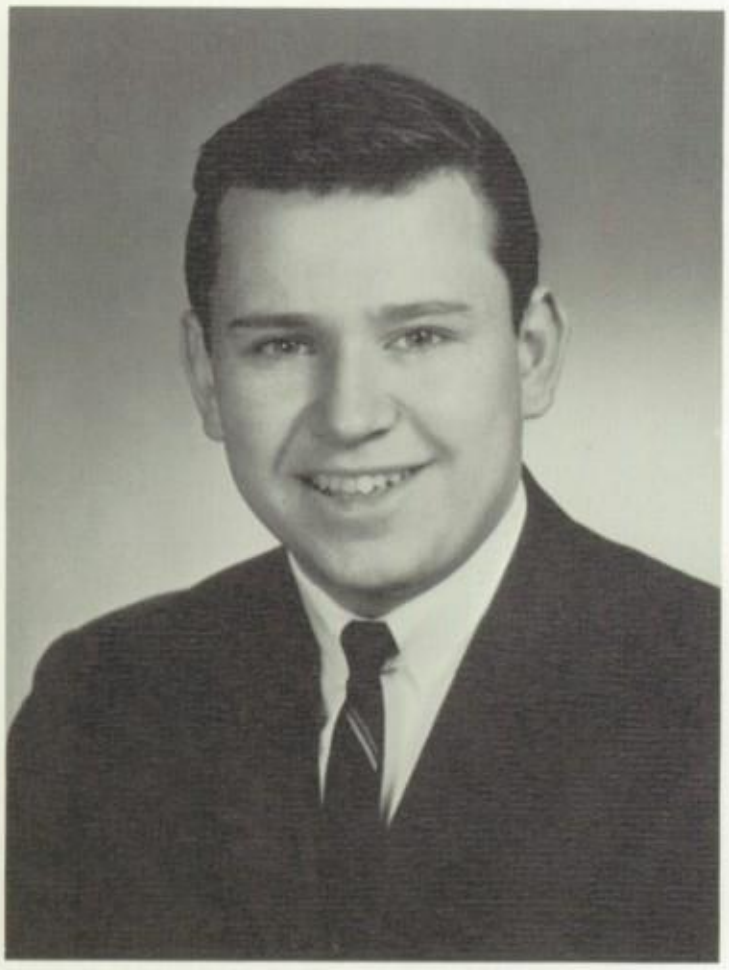
Pete typifies the sophisticated, suave, T.I. senior. His shiny personality and truly humorous wit have left many a shiur rollicking and certain rebbes mumbling. One of the few students coming formerly from both Dov Revel and Y.C.Q., Pete has proved to be a great asset in the exhibition of his classmates' happy-go-lucky spirit; he has also shown much inqenuity, however, while industriously fulfilling his tasks as Photography Editor of the Elchanite. We are certain that Pete's winning personality will aid him when he enters the business world after studying at City College.

שקר החן והבל היופי אשה יראת ה' היא תתהלל
(משלי ל"א).

RONALD SUMMER

Ronnie has excelled in all phases of extracurricular life at Y.U.H.S. His participation in interscholastic teams has bolstered the teams' spirit and strength. His popularity among his classmates has placed him on the G.O. four times and made him president of the sophomore class. As captain of this year's swimming team, Ronnie brought this heretofore dead activity to a level of active participation. In curricular activities (i.e. gemara, history) his mentors have marveled at this ability to sleep with his eyes open. Backed up by his strength, Ronnie may often be found defending the cause of Judaism at street corners and at subway stops. He will pursue a career of his choice at the college of his choice.

תפארת בחורים כוחם (משלי כ'-כ"ט).



MARVIN SUSSMAN

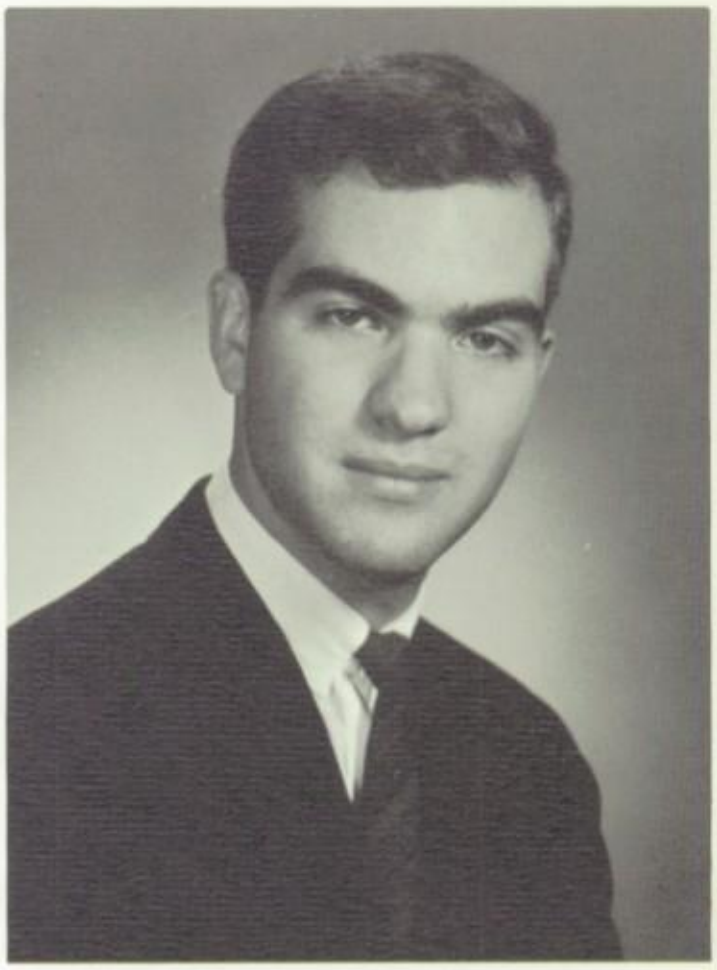
Marvin is one of the few students who managed to become an integral part of every major extracurricular activity. Ever since his initiation into the field of finance, thanks to the efficiency of Brinks, Inc., he has been the obvious choice as Business Manager of the Elchanite. As manager of the Varsity Basketball Team, Marvin has amassed more points than our entire starting five. Marvin abounds with class spirit which made him President of the Sophomore Class and also a four-term G.O. Representative. All of his extracurricular spirit does not make Marvin less diligent in his curricular work. However, the spirit which he evinces outside of class is sometimes carried into our sacred halls of learning—to his teachers' dismay. Marvin intends to continue his spirited activities at Yeshiva University.

ולהג הרבה יגיעת בשר (קהלת י"ב).

IRVING TESSER

Irv, a quiet and diligent boy, has been an ideal student throughout his stay at Yeshiva. His annual initiative and interest helped him to compile a very impressive academic record. His patient and understanding manner has enabled him to remain on the good side of everyone—friends and teachers alike. One of the "New Jersey boys", he has done a masterful job on the photography staff of the Elchanite. His other activities include Editor of Class of '64 and numerous intramurals. He hopes to attend Y.U. where he will major in either math or science. Whichever field he chooses for himself, we are sure he will be a great success.

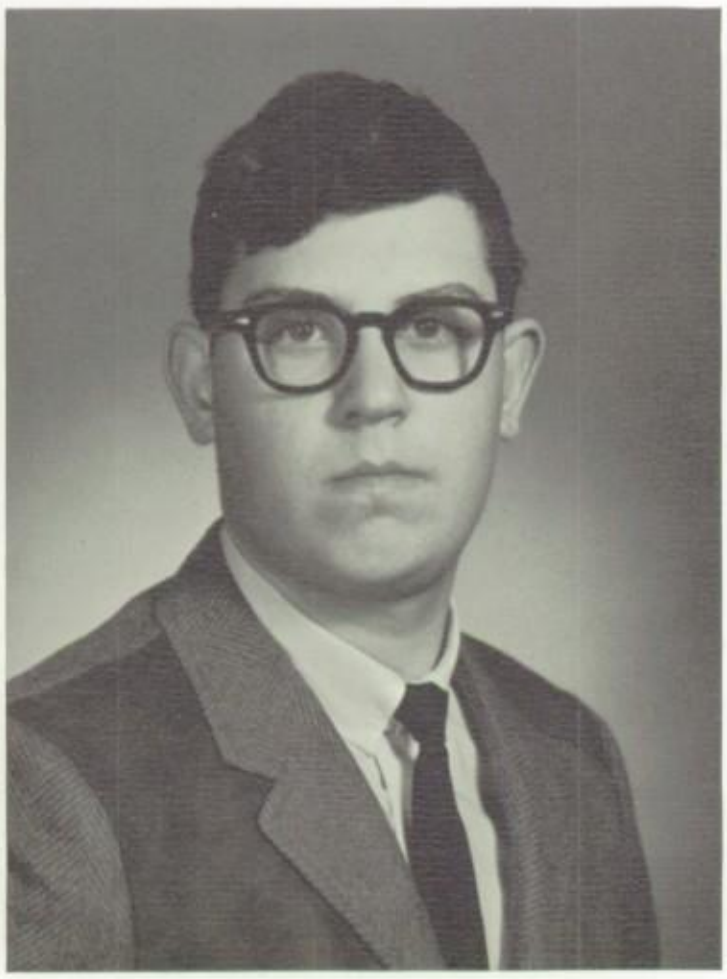
כבוד לאיש שבת מריב ((משלי כ').



ALAN JOEL TUCHMAN

Known for his modesty and love of fellow-man, Alan has distinguished himself in the Class of '64 as a man of varied talents. His "man of the people" image has gained him many friends. His radical, yet logical, ideas about Judaism has raised the eyebrows of his friends and teachers alike. In four years at Y.U.H.S. he has gained high advancement and excellent merit. This, coupled with a fine aptitude, made him captain of the first M.T.A. College Bowl Team. Tuchy was a fine chairman of our Constitution Committee, calling a record number of meetings. On the Elchanite as Managing Editor, he almost managed our yearbook to oblivion. With all his get-up-and-go we are sure Alan will be quite successful as he majors in physics at the college of his choice.

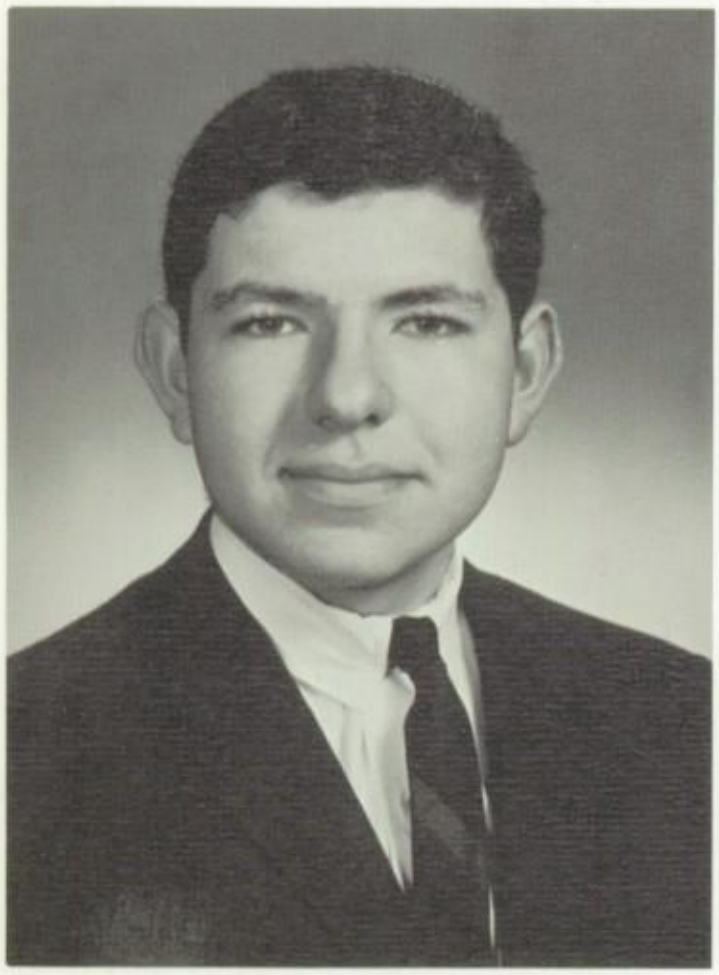
כחי ועוצם ידי עשה לי את החיל הזה (דברים ח').



BURT USDAN

One of the few truly funny class jesters, Burt has practically laughed his way through four years of Y.U.H.S. He was one of the few T.I. boys who really laughed at Rabbi Fulda's "semicha" exam. Burt is a resident of Monsey, N.Y., from where he travels each day. As such, just a flake of snow was excuse enough to stay home. However, Burt is also a very hard-working, serious minded student, as can be witnessed by his acceptance, along with three other gifted Talmidim, to the newly instituted Daled-Gimmel shiur. He is an avid philatelist and loves to observe and collect cars (models, that is). He is also an enthusiastic photographer and has often narrowly missed fine shots of his teachers at work. He will continue his studies at Yeshiva University.

רבת צררוני מנעורי גם לא יכלו לי (תהלים קכ"ט).



HARRY WAJSMAN

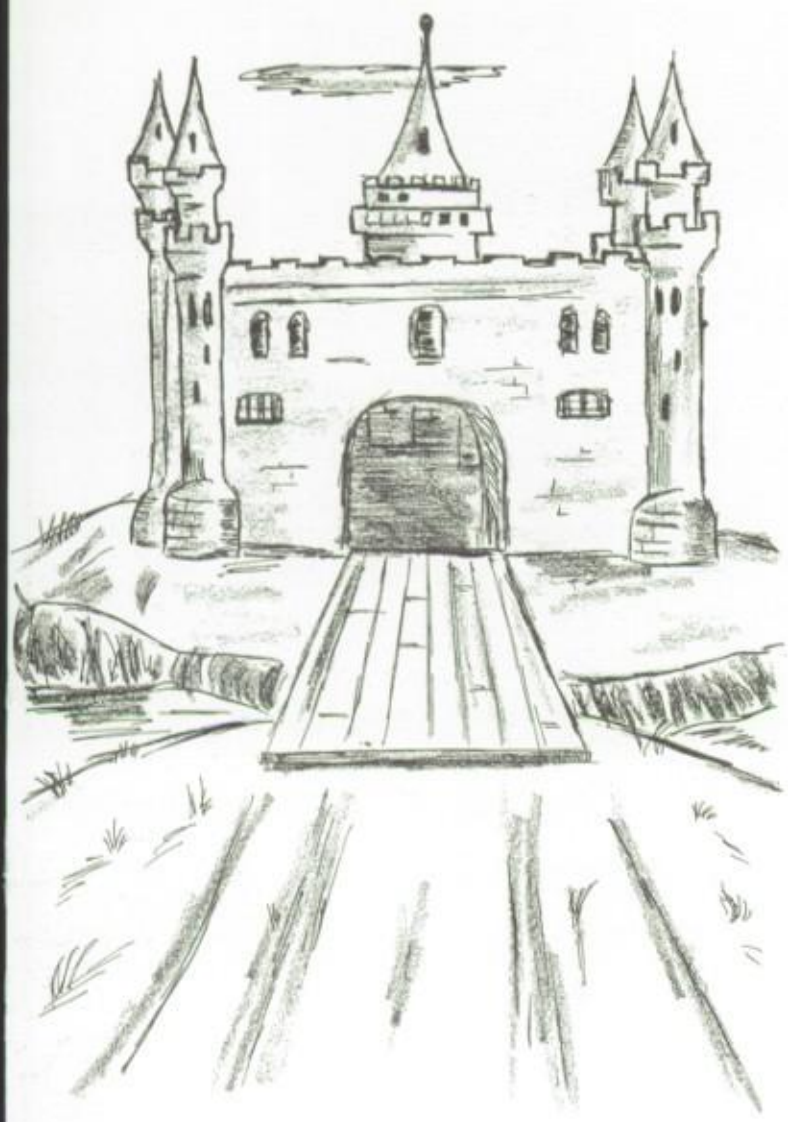
One of the more studious members of the senior class, Harry has distinguished himself not only in the regular high school curriculum but also in Yeshiva University where he is taking a course in calculus. A diligent and conscientious worker, Harry was an excellent choice for Typing Editor of the Elchanite. One of the dorm boys, Harry's participation in almost all phases of extra-curricular affairs earned him the position of News Editor of the Academy News. We know these qualities will stand him in good stead as he pursues a career of medicine at the college of his choice.

תורת חכם מקור חיים (משלי י"ז).

STUART MARK WEILGUS

Simmy's politeness and quiet manner have won him many friends among his classmates. This is evidenced by his election to class councils. Forsaking R.J.J., Simmy entered Yeshiva in his sophomore year. Welcomed by Dr. Frankel's graduate school biology course and Mr. Shapiro's sadism, Simmy nevertheless managed to survive and, in fact, did creditably as a student. Simmy was active in many intramural activities. He also was a member of the interscholastic Handball and Baseball Teams. Simmy will attempt to alleviate mankind's physical woes in the capacity of a doctor. He will continue his education, majoring in pre-med at Yeshiva.

אשרי כל ירא ה' ההולך בדרכיו (תהלים קכ"ח).



BERYL WEISBORD

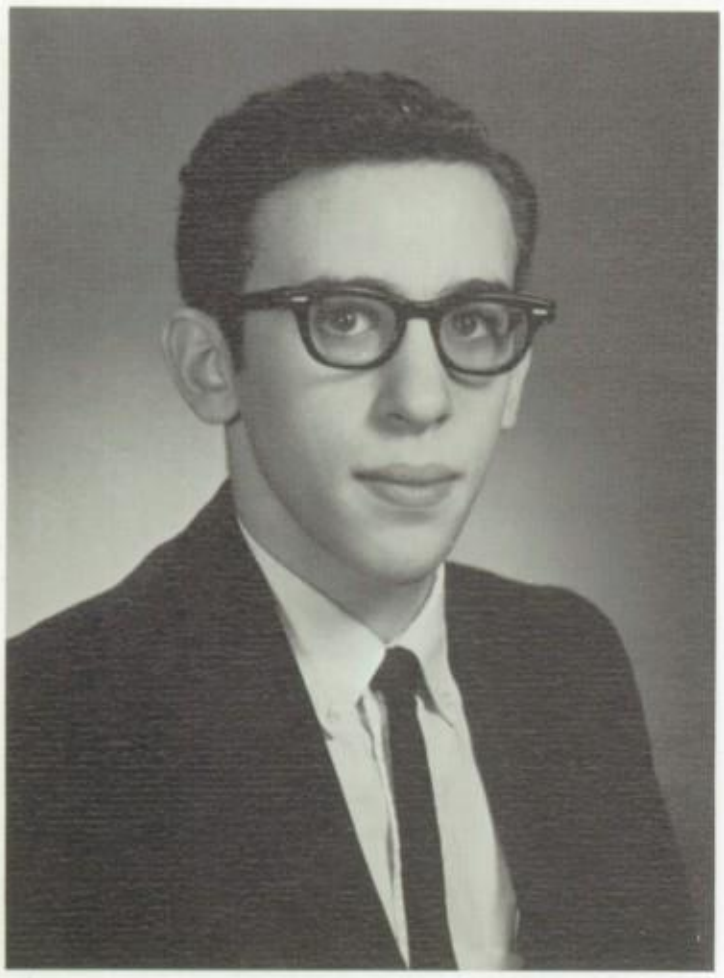
Beryl is certainly one of our class's most diligent masmidim, spending a great deal of his spare time in the Beis Medrash working over a piece of gemara. He is in the unique position of living within blocks of and being on familiar terms with every Rebbe in Yeshiva University, as well as with many in the high school. Also unique about Beryl is his personality and outlook in life. He can often be heard expressing some rather startling sentiments about life, death and the general state of humanity. With his deep experience in "khullishe" work, Beryl plans to go for semicha at Y.U., where he will also major in mathematics.

חושך אמריו יודע דעת (משלי י"ז).

SHOLOM WEISS

Although Sholom generally gives his teachers the impression of being a quiet, serious-minded student, those who know him better soon realize that his manner is anything but reserved. Many petty distractions in gemara can easily be traced to Sholom's attache case. Ably groomed under the tutelage of the incomparable Doc Shapiro, Sholom rapidly rose to a foremost position among the ranks of Yeshiva's librarians. His interest in television constantly enlivens many otherwise dull shiurim. Although continually extolling the comparative merits of religious learning, Sholom reluctantly chose to pursue an engineering career in City College.

ד' יברך את עמו בשלום (תהלים כ"ט).



STEPHEN WENDER

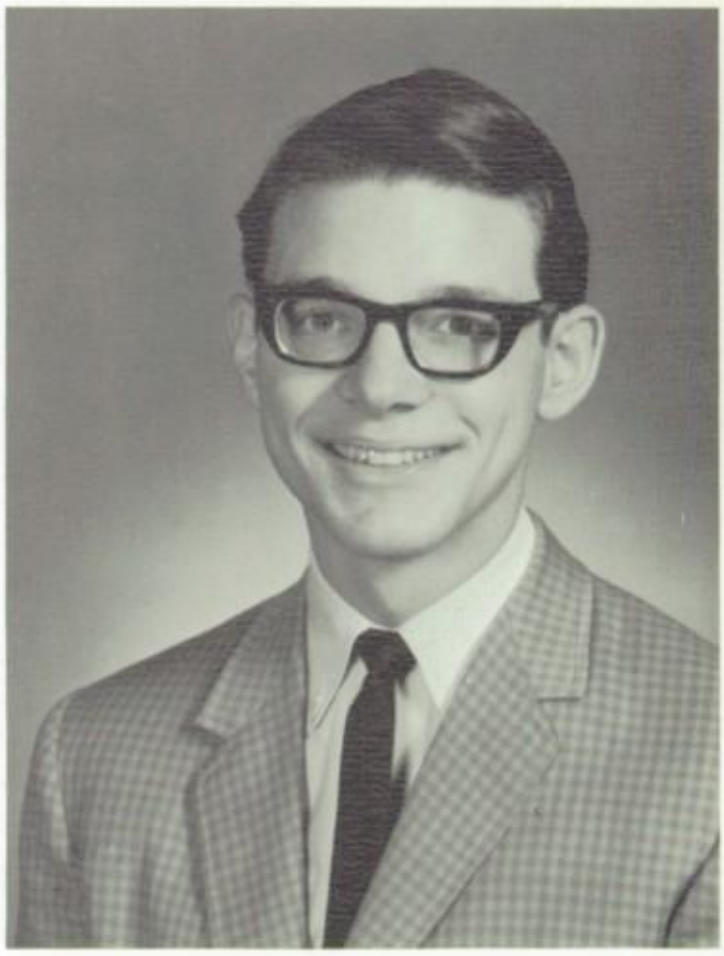
Steve, known to his intimate friends as WAZSJH, excels in a field little explored by Yeshiva students, "ham" radio. He has one of the best record collections in our high school. These bents have not interfered with his academic love nor with his interest in Torah Judaism, a field in which he has presented many new ideals to his classmates. He has demonstrated his leadership abilities as Chairman of the Electronics Club, in charge of building the College Bowl buzzer system. Steve plans to attend the college of his choice to pursue a career in electrical engineering.

הבל הבלים אמר קהלת (קהלת א').

HARVEY WERBLOWSKY

Harvey is certainly one of the most spirited of our class. Although he lives in North Bergen, N.J., from which he commutes each day, Harvey has hardly missed a basketball game in four years. In addition to the varsity games, he also attended many J.V. games when he was manager. Harvey has also been a member of our interscholastic Checker Team, to which he has been an invaluable asset. Yeshiva University is Harvey's next immediate destination, where he will prepare for a law career. As anyone who has argued with him will testify, Harvey should make a fine attorney.

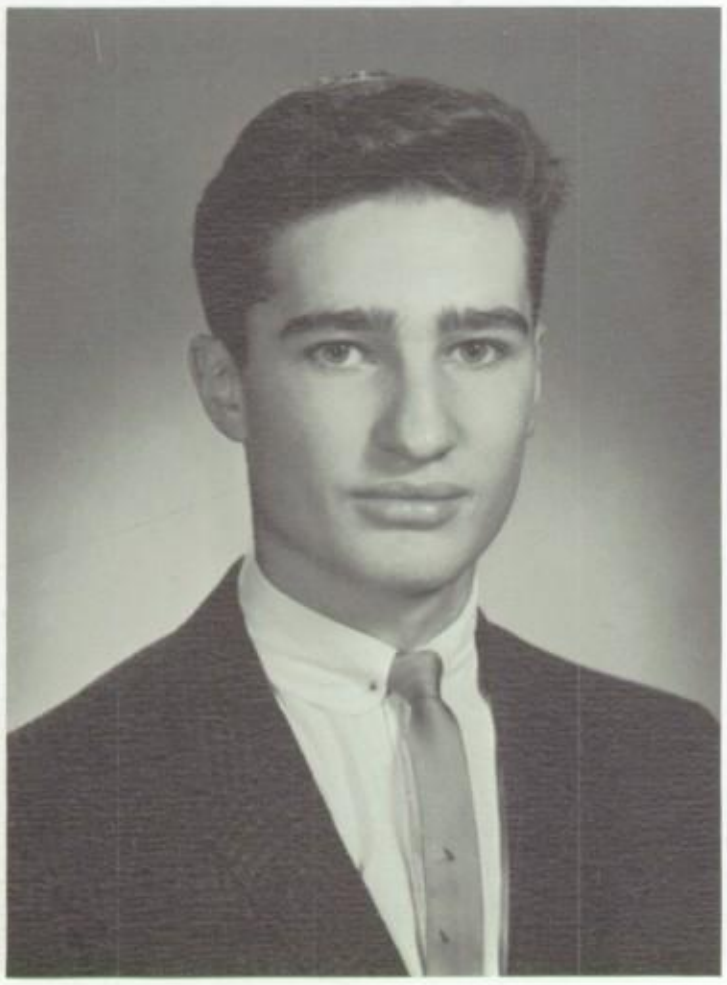
תמימים ינחלו טוב (משלי כ"ח).



ALAN WIENER

A sauve, debonair student, Alan is probably the only resident of Allentown, Pennsylvania who looks as though he came straight from Madison Avenue. His clothes have often provoked whistles from some of our inhibited "yeshiva boys." As a promoter of free speech, Al was one of our finest debaters. His midget camera has caught many teachers at "the art of being themselves"—much to their chagrin. He was able to resist repeated attempts by one of his junior T.I. teachers (also known as dorm supervisor) to psychoanalyze him. The reason for this may lie in the fact that Al is an amateur psychologist himself. He will continue to study psychology at Yeshiva University.

הוו מתונים בדין . . . (משלי י״ד).



BURTON ZAITSCHEK

The best place to find Burton outside of school is over a chess-board somewhere. For the past three years he has been a starter on our successful Varsity Chess Team. Between meets, Burton supervises others' playing as chess intramural chairman; the position awarded him because of his vigorous participation in intramurals since his freshmen year. Chess however, is not Burton's sole activity. Varsity track, bowling and heavy outside reading, in addition to maintaining a fine academic record, take up most of his time. Quiet and modest, Burton is one of the best-liked and popular students in the class. We all wish him much success in City College, where he plans to major in sociology.

Yeshiva University High School, in its roll as a Yeshiva, offers two separate programs of Jewish learning: the Talmud Department or T.A., and the Hebrew Department or T.I. The former generally follows the pattern of the old European academies, laying greatest stress on the study of the Talmud and leaving to each rabbi's discretion how much time should be spent on Bible, Laws, etc. T.A. students take a course in the

NOT SHOWN:
DR. D. GAINSBURG

The English teachers of Yeshiva are afforded a comparatively large amount of leeway in enriching their curricula. To assure high standards, there are certain minimum requirements. But let not "minimum" be misleading. These requirements include intensive study of English grammar and vocabulary throughout all four years as well as Homer's Odyssey and Greek mythology in the first year, two of Shakespeare's plays and several other great English literary works in the second, a thorough survey of American literature and preparation for the college Boards in the third and more Shakespeare and other greats of English letters, with a review for the regents, in the fourth year. But Yeshiva's dedicated English faculty have not been content with the requirements. They have therefore undertaken to add a great deal of reading, from Sinclair to Sophocles, to their study programs. And it is their combination of skilled pedagogy and dedicated effort that assures every graduate of our school of being able to cope with college English courses.

LANGUAGE

DR. S. CHARLES

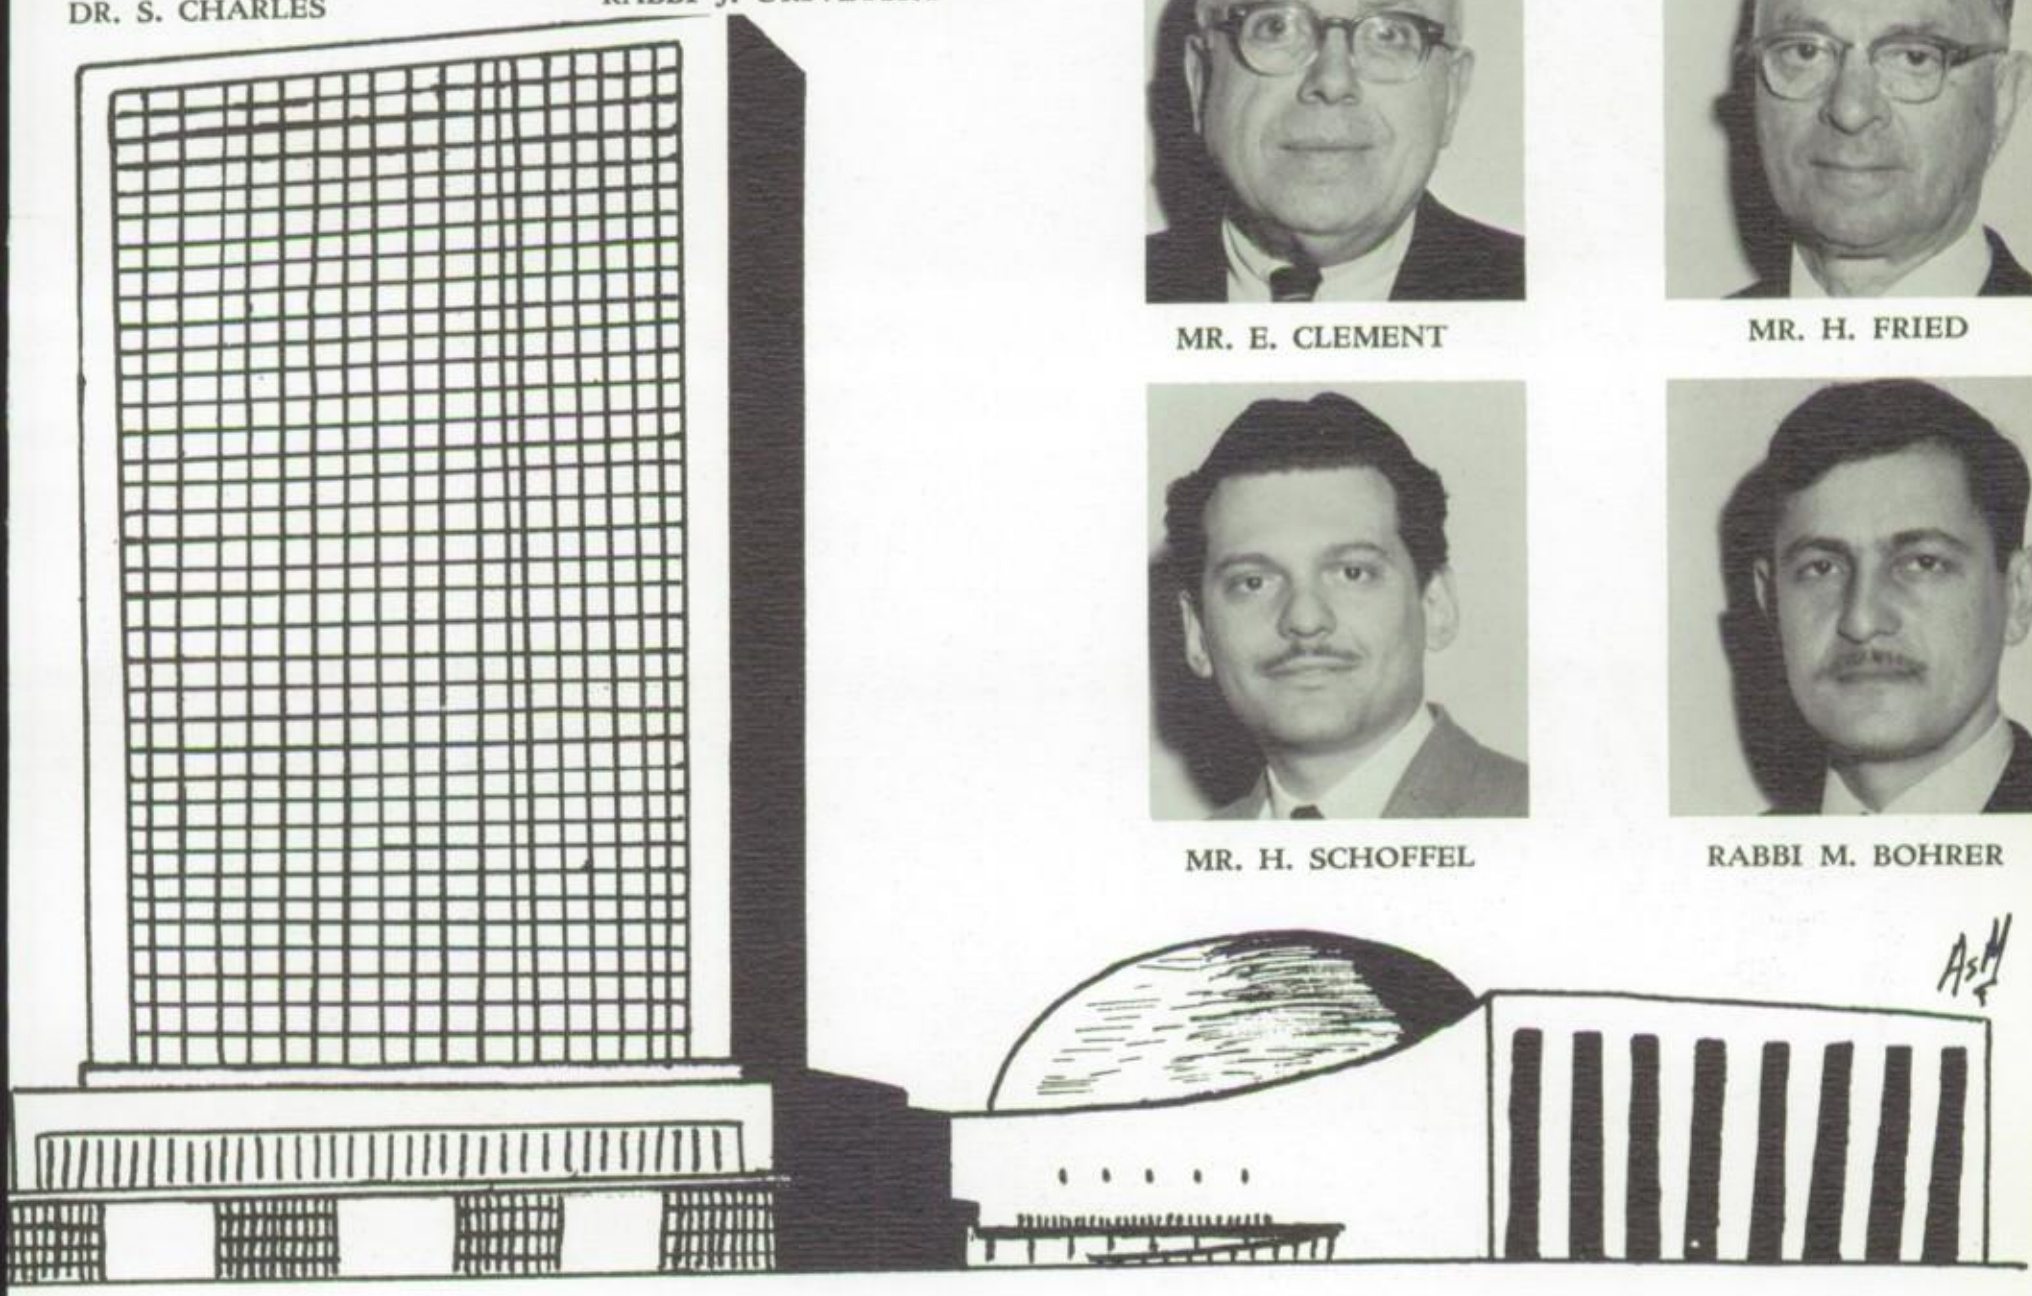
RABBI J. URIVETSKY

MR. E. CLEMENT

MR. H. FRIED

MR. H. SCHOFFEL

RABBI M. BOHRER



The language department of Y.U.H.S. shoulders much of the responsibility of providing the student with the cultural broadening that is such an important part of education. It offers courses in three foreign languages: French, Spanish, and Latin. Students of Spanish and French gain conversational familiarity as well as grammatical proficiency in their respective languages. They also learn the culture of Spain and France. In Mr. H. Schoffel's Spanish classes this takes on the guise of singing native songs as well as reading about native customs.

Because Latin, the third language offered, is not spoken today, it is studied chiefly to analyze its considerable influence on English grammar and vocabulary. Since this study alone would be rather dry, the curriculum includes Roman history and, in the second year, the heroic and noble deeds of Julius Caesar as told by himself.

MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE

NOT SHOWN:
MR. M. SCHLESS

Mathematics and Science is one area in which Yeshiva truly excels. The mathematics faculty includes such excellent teachers as Mr. M. Schwartz, who also teaches at Stuyvesant High School, and Mr. Jay Stepleman, head of the math department at George Washington High School. The science department boasts the services of Mr. Bernard Landau in physics and Mr. H. Werblow and Mr. Finkelstein in chemistry, all of whom teach in the Bronx High School of Science. But this is not all. Yeshiva offers a varied and complete curriculum in both math and science to go along with its faculties. Four years of mathematics are offered, of which three years are required. In his freshman year the student begins with the study of elementary algebra and continues on to geometry in the second year. The next two years' courses, 11th and 12th year math, are comparatively new curricula. The former includes intermediate algebra and trigonometry while the latter covers advanced algebra, finite algebra and the rudiments of calculus. Science opportunities are even more varied. There is a first-year general science course which serves as a preparatory role to the study of the other sciences, biology, chemistry, and physics, which are studied in the following three years. The laboratory facilities for biology and chemistry are somewhat inadequate at the present time, but the use of Yeshiva College's physics lab makes that science's facilities excellent. It is certainly true that anyone who takes the advantage of all that Yeshiva has to offer in math and science will be totally prepared for anything he might encounter in college in these areas.

The goal of our school's history department is to instill in the minds of every student an understanding of the other peoples of the world and a sense of history, which shapes the destinies of us all. In keeping with this goal the following courses are offered: In the freshman year, a unique course called Civics which deals with the geography and population of our world; In the junior year a World History course whose content is self-evident; and another self-explanatory course in the senior year, American History. Also given in the fourth year are two interesting half-year courses; Economics, which explains the workings of capitalism, and Problems of American Democracy, which reviews American foreign policy and serves as a refresher for the American History Regents.

IN THE END

While the human mind can be regarded as a complex series of passageways, corridors, desires, and emotions, we are all too often afraid to follow these pathways to their source—knowledge of one's self. A society of people exists who refuse to recognize the basic motivating truth about themselves, and, what is more damaging, are unable to understand the motivations of others. They are a people blinded by a cheap sense of achievement, and yet they hold within their hands the power to throw open the door of the future and enter into a new era as masters of the universe. It is because of this very power that man must at last learn the centuries-old lesson taught by Shakespeare when he warned men, "to thine own self be true."

Careful evaluation of man and his place in his world should lead to a plea for the recognition of truth. Instead, avarice has become a rationale for the actions of men and nations towards each other. Society no longer admires the individual whose motivations are idealistic or beneficent; on the contrary, he is usually considered a fanatic or a fool. It is a sense of greed masked as sophistication that is admired and sought after. It is almost as if the great bard had written, "To thine own self be false and it must follow as radiation the bomb, you can lie your way out of anything."

Who is it that I am referring to? It is the country that creates gargantuan "defense" forces. It is the businessman who spends to impress his neighbors. It is the corporation which argues that automation will increase the number of jobs and then lays off two thousand employees. It is the college co-ed who hunts a husband on campus. All these are basically similar, for they all have done the same thing. They have disguised, covered, camouflaged and buried their true motivations in heaps of prejudice and rationalization.

Perhaps someday when man, because of his folly, is forced to look back on his massive conquering, incredible building and awesome mastering, he will ask himself "Why?" What led human beings to a position where they could destroy themselves and their world? Why did we refuse to realize that unbounded progress could lead to unbounded devastation? Why did we deceive ourselves? The element of Shakespeare's truth is lost when men fail to realize that no matter how clever their reasoning may be for their illicit actions, in the end "truth will out."

A FLAME EXTINGUISHED

Frantic and frenzied,
A nation recoils, shocked.
Dismayed, a tear stained world sits aghast.
A mother weeps; a child questions.

The skies grow black.
A mournful wind blows
Bearing cries of sorrow.

As a hunter's weapon explodes,
The soaring quail, earthward
Plunges from graceful flight.
So crumbles a noble soul,
A flame extinguished.

EYES TURN TO SALT

Big gray walls, cold steel bars—damn the stubborn door. Too much silence in this place; only clanking of metals and buzzing of electrical currents, guard's clicking heels echoing down the hallway. Be nice to take a walk in the park, ride a bit—that'd be real good—but no such thing. Got to stop thinking about those things in the old life because never again—got to believe that I was born here and don't know the sight of trees in fall or wet grass in summer noontide. Have to forget.

There's that guard again, the fat-bellied, sweating fool still keeps walking away his life down this damn hall. Can't stand the smile he shoves down my throat when he walks by—what's he trying to do? Comfort me or something? Ha, ha! Comfort me!

Can't help thinking about birds. The prettiest ones are always ending up in bars designed to be pretty along with it. They have their mirrors—like mine—I use it to stare in despair and to pity myself. Funniest thing is that they buy the birds so that they'll sing—the louder and shriller the more content the owner. Ask me, pal. I'll tell you that they're crying and praying and begging but nobody thinks about it. Probably wouldn't make a difference if they would. I might like being an ugly, black bird. Real ugly—no people would want me to pour their wonderful love on me; no one would ever hunt me. Pal, I'd be the prettiest little ugly bird around—flying and gliding. . . .

Maybe my ulcerous walls protect me from the living people. I remember the busy, long streets with the police and the artificial women with their ugly makeup and padded bodies and the quiet, aching hospitals. The gargantuan office building—every time I would walk by at its feet, the windows would peer down at me, dirty clothes and no hat, and they would poke fun, mock and ridicule.

Hey you, fool of the street
Funny man licking my feet
Do something funny, sing me a song
Been busy making money all day long.

Damn those people and their Judas-goat leaders. They just don't know, never will. They can't, pal, they can't because they're people too long. Artificial people, television molded, products of Madison Avenue, too easy, too great. Their catalyst is the friendly neighbor, their judge is the understanding psychologist. Wonderful, beautiful. What can they do wrong? Woman starving in Asia. Buddhist burning in Viet Nam. Nazi's blood boiling and mouth foaming while persuading neighborly people to gas Jews, send niggers back to the jungle. Wonderful, beautiful!

Getting pretty hot in here. Same sun is probably caressing more people at the beach. I guess that must be fair—as much as anything else.

Black garbed, white collared man just walked into the cell across the hall. Might as well take a look. His book is open and he's saying something to Rodriguez—hey, he's crying. Now what sense does that make from a grown man? He's crossing himself and on his knees now—wonder if that cross helps. Collared man has his hand on his shoulder, the guard opens the door and they're all walking down the hall.

See you around, pal, but don't cry. You cried when you were born. Don't cry now. Doesn't make sense.

Daddy wasn't even lying
When they took him to court for trying
Old man started crying
Body turn to dust, eyes turn to salt.

What I'm trying to say, man, is knowing that this world didn't just happen, like snap your fingers and there it is, so if someone went to all the trouble to imagine us and then create, well then, man, he wouldn't just leave it like it is. There's more, pal, don't you forget it. Just no sense in closing the door . . . just no sense. . . .

BUSINESS MANAGERS

Marvin Sussman, Jack Bendheim, Jules Dienstag

EDITORS-IN-CHIEF

J. Lemberger, A. Rockoff.

It is with much pride and satisfaction that one might safely say that this year's edition of the Elchanite is one of the most original, thought-provoking, and generally chaotic issues ever distributed.

In heated battle during the spring of '63, Alan Rockoff and John Lemberger were elected-appointed co-editors-in-chief. Their landslide victory has often been referred to as "The Big Fix." It should be noted that for the first time T.A. T.I. (or is it T.I.-T.A.) rivalry was eliminated by dividing the Elchy staff equally between members of both factions. This should never happen again.

Editors Lemberger and Rockoff were exceptionally conscientious and efficient as the administration can clearly testify. However, such was not the case with the rest of the managers of this book. The feature section was revised and censored a record one hundred and twenty-seven times. Also the crack tzedaka-box carriers of the business staff were forced to apply certain pressures on the apathetic seniors to bring in ads. The seniors, though, finally came through, and for an entire week in mid-April the business staff was hard at work.

Even the administration began helping in April. After seven months and fifteen days, the Editors of the Elchanite were finally given an office to work in. In a blaze of ceremony Rabbi Weinbach gave Lemberger the key to Room 021—later called "The Hideout." Indeed, Rabbi Weinbach gave us the greatest compliment possible when he said so tenderly and sentimentally, "It won't be run this way next year."—or, unfortunately for the lower classmen, probably ever again.

The Academy News

Official Student Publication of Yeshiva University High School

First Row: B. Eisenberg, M. Feffer, R. Nussbaum, D. Gitler, J. Kriger, M. Baskin. Second Row: M. Frankel, S. Schoenwetter, I. Epstein, M. Levin, B. Schafran, S. Glanz, I. Hoberman, H. Wajsman, M. Birnbaum, M. Fuchsman, B. Schimmel

Under the leadership of Editors-in-Chief David Gitler and Ronald Nussbaum, the Academy News had a very successful year. Mr. Rudolph Bernstein served ably as faculty advisor.

The first issue of the Academy News came out in record time for our tenure in YUHS. After that issue the Academy News ran into various difficulties in putting out the second one, but finally came out with an interesting issue which included a moving tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy.

In the second term the Academy News published three full four-page issues and one two-page issue.

The front-page news in the Academy News was reported by News Editors Barry Eisenberg and Harry Wajsman. Surprisingly good news articles were also contributed by lower classmen Moshe Grajower, Joey Rotenberg, and Irving Ruderman.

The exciting adventures of our frustrating five were reported by Sports Editors Ira Hoberman and Sam "Shot" Schoenwetter.

The best liked articles were the traditional Under the Dome series written by humorist Mark Feffer and by social critic Moses A. Birnbaum. Some of these articles, besides being interesting reading, turned out to be very controversial.

A new feature of the Academy News, instituted in the second term, was a series of movie and play reviews, written by the editors, Ron Nussbaum and David Gitler. These were not just dramatic reviews but also included incisive looks behind the scenes of the movie or play. The first review, on the film version of William Golding's "Lord of the Flies," contained a excerpts of a press conference with the author which followed a special screening of the film to which the editors of the Academy News were invited. The second review, on Rolf Hochhuth's controversial play, The Deputy, gave the historical background of the play and tried to give an objective opinion on its accusation of Pope Pius XII.

The editorial column, again authored by the editors-in-chief, tried to bring out faults in attitudes or methods used by the administration or the student body. It did not, however, simply criticize for the sake of criticizing, for it also proposed ways and means to eliminate these sore spots. However, many of the editorial crusades which Editors Nussbaum and Gitler carried on went on beyond the view of the student body.

As with the Elchanite, the Academy News was forced to search for its office which the administration hid from it all year. This was the paper's biggest failure; the office was never found.

COMPACT

Editorial Board: M. Singer, A. Monderer, E. Blitz, J. Woren Klein, J. Reimer

This year, as the result of an administrative change in policy towards student publications, the Compact was printed as a cooperative effort. The costs of production were shared by the school and the student council.

Attempting to stick to their stated principle: that the Compact would be devoted to the publication of the best the students could offer, without any false pretenses, proved difficult for the editors, Martin Singer and Joseph Reimer. An historic forty page Compact-Hatchiya appeared in printed form, on time. For the first time in school history the Compact was discussed and debated in English classes throughout the school, an action that made all of the previous months' work worthwhile.

HATCHIYA

Editorial Board: Seated, S. Posner; Standing, A. Malter, D. Meyer, M. Frankel.

Under the able first-term leadership of Ben-Zion Berliant and Simon Posner, Hatchiya, the Hebrew magazine of Y.U.H.S., underwent a radical change. The two seniors converted it from a crude mimeographed sheet, into a printed, wholesome literary magazine. Issued in one volume with the Compact, it contained various articles, essays, and stories.

With the advent of the second term senior, David Meyer and junior Amiel Ungar took over the editorship of Hatchiya. It, too, showed the fine spirit of creativity and talent displayed in the previous edition and continued to represent the best of Y.U.H.S. in Hebrew language and literature.

This year's General Organization has been one of the most dynamic in years. It has had its failures as well as its successes, but the sheer mass of its undertakings, whether successful or not, have at least shown it to be dynamic.

The Fall Term's Student Council inaugurated the practice of purchasing basketball games to raise revenue. This proved highly successful. At the same time money began pouring into the G.O.'s coffers at an astounding rate from the G.O. store which quadrupled its previous year's sales under the able management of Paul Rosenstock and Philip Kleiner.

Thus well-supplied with funds, the G.O. turned to financing its numerous activities. Money was liberally appropriated to the various interscholastic teams. The G.O. also sponsored the printing of an impressive Compact-Hatchiya.

At the same time, the executive council threw its influence behind rejuvenating the committee system and intramural sports participation. These activities were looked into thoroughly to make sure that they were functioning. Threats were made that any activity not functioning would be disbanded. Soon it became necessary to disband every one of the intramural activities and to reorganize them on the basis of voluntary clubs. No one attended these, but since they were now voluntary it didn't matter.

The fall term ended with the G.O. somehow in the red. The outgoing president, David Radin, delivered an apologium criticizing the student body for lack of participation and departed.

The prospects for dynamic action in the spring term appeared slight when the candidates actually seemed to have run out of campaign promises. However, if the numerous G.O. activities and meetings carried on during class time are any indication, such fears were unfounded. As of this time nothing may have been accomplished, but an awful lot of dynamic class-time action has been expended accomplishing it.

The 1964 members of the National Honor Society, Tehillah chapter, were duly chosen and sworn in this year as in the past. Those who had done well on the P.S.A.T., had numerous service credits and had not offended any of the faculty members became members. Soon the Arista officers were chosen and took office. In spite of this, however, the Society got around to ratifying the constitution and appointing judges to the student court. Many members then magnanimously offered to tutor underclassmen during school time. Its numerous official duties thus accomplished, the Arista settled down to planning trips and excursions. By the time this book went to press, however, the only such trip taken was a half-day World's Fair jaunt.

First Row: M. Sussman, S. Schoenwetter, I. Hoberman, A. Tuchman, Chief Justice. Second Row: S. Glanz, D. Radin, H. Wajsman, S. Edelstein, S. Goldsmith.

STUDENT COURT

The Student Court dispensed justice on a new basis this year when Arista after stiff debate removed this passage from the constitution: "Decisions should be reached by intelligently blending Talmudic and secular law." Rightists claimed that no student was qualified to interpret Talmudic law. Leftists (Alan Tuchman) were opposed to Talmudic law on principle. This coalition defeated the middle-of-the-roaders. Thus the court has reached decisions by ignoring both secular and Talmudic law. This highest student judicial body has meted out terrible justice in cases of misdemeanors (speeding in the halls), felonies (walking on the wrong side of the staircase) and high treason (talking back to a Service squad member). Under chief justice Alan Tuchman a new era of respect for the Court has been established.

SENIOR COUNCIL

This year the class councils hit a new low in accomplishments. True, the Senior Council did succeed in producing the ill fated senior buttons. But the freshmen and sophomore councils entirely disappeared, and when they were called upon to be photographed only seniors showed up.

ASSEMBLIES

Never before in Yeshiva annals has the assembly program reached such spiraling heights. The year's schedule started off with a bang! Our starting four of the Varsity College Bowl Team almost destroyed the formidable faculty, who included Messrs. L. Cohen, M. Minchenberg, B. Schwartz, and P. Finkelstein. Mr. Cohen's difficult "bonus" recital of Humpty Dumpty astonished the audience. The year's greatest fiasco was the first Student Talent Assembly at which the featured act couldn't appear due to illness. Debates were numerous, though often disastrous; however, due to keen insight on the part of the administration, large attendance was curtailed. The year's second Talent Assembly was a joy to behold. The Y.U.H.S. "orchestra" played the beautiful strains of "Kim Lay Bid'raboh Minay," Rabbi Dulitz ranted, Rabbi Weinbach winced, the Junior cheerleaders pranced fairly well, and the Four Winds belted out a Beatles hit tune. Perhaps the finest assembly was the much awaited arrival of Casey Stengel.

CHAGIGA

At the Hotel Diplomat the first and the last I.Y. sponsored Chagiga, though quite controversial, proved a smashing success. Without the dread problem of KOL ISHAH, and featuring the fascinating antics of Shlomo Carlebach, the scintillating melodies of Mickey Posnick, and the debut of the fabulous Four Winds, the evening was gratifying and enjoyable to all. I.Y. president J. Reimer deserves a special thanks.

The 1963-64 basketball season was a disappointing one for all concerned. Our team, which had been picked for first or second place by everyone, surprised the league by finishing third with a mediocre 7-5 record. What brought about these predictions was the superiority of our ballplayers man for man, as compared with the other teams. However, not only did the team as individuals fail to live up to the pre-season expectations, but as a team their deficiencies multiplied. Coach Wettstein is not as much to blame as the team itself. He has had much weaker teams in stronger leagues and yet still managed to come out on top.

The complete reason for the team's downfall will always remain an enigma. Let it suffice to say that five really good ballplayers can hamper a team's performance as much as five bad ones. So instead of writing about our frustrating season, let us examine the ballplayers who made up M.T.A.'s Cinderella—after-twelve o'clock team of 1963-64.

P. Palefski

Paul Palefski is the type of ballplayer who thrives on those "BIG" games. Paul, a four year veteran of the varsity, led the team in scoring in his three Garden games. The unfortunate part of it was that we didn't win any of these games, so Paul couldn't get the M.V.P. He wasn't so unfortunate however, in last year's HILI Invitational Tournament and this year's All-Star Game. In both of these Paul took top honors with the M.V.P. award. He is also one of those few ballplayers who made the All-Star team in his sophomore year and not in his junior year.

As co-captain with Dave Radin, Paul was the field leader. Also as captain, Paul demonstrated his oratorical ability in his inspiring pep talk at half time in the second R.J.J. game.

Not only one of the best passer's and dribbler's in the league, Paul also possesses an excellent shot. His high game was 23 points which led the team to victory in the first B.T.A. game. All this made Paul one of the best players in the league this year.

Even such a fine all-around ballplayer as David Radin could do nothing while flat on his back. But, even when Dave was in uniform, his effectiveness was hampered by his constant leg injuries. About mid-season he finally regained full use of both legs and slowly began to live up to his pre-season expectations.

In the Cathedral game, Radin completely outplayed Cathedral's 6′ 5″ center, scored twelve points and pulled seventeen rebounds. From then on, except for his foul shooting percentage, which was less than his field goal percentage, Dave was a holy terror. His tremendous play in the quarter final game almost singlehandedly got us into Madison Square Garden.

Dave then received one of the biggest disappointments in his life. Another ill-timed leg injury kept him out of the semi-final game against HILI.

It is no coincidence that Dave's injury-ridden and therefore disappointing season went hand-in-hand with ours.

Jacob Bauman, the team's high scorer and Florence's brother, is a tremendously gifted athlete. His phenomenal body control and picture jump shot made him one of the league's best ballplayers.

His 21 points against Bronx Science couldn't quite pull out a victory for us, but his 23 points in the second Elizabeth game did. Jake also endeared himself to Mr. Wettstein by the cheerful attitude he takes towards criticism.

In recognition of Jake's fine all-around play he was chosen as a starting member of this year's All-Star team. But then again, Jake does everything in a big way.

Barry Eisenberg is gifted with a tremendous amount of desire and enthusiasm for the game. Always striving to improve himself, Barry developed into a fine ballplayer. Although he was not known for his scoring ability, his 21 points in the first HILI game almost led us to victory.

Barry's performance was hampered by the fact that he was forced to carry an excessive load because of Radin's injuries. A tenacious rebounder and fine passer, he was also one of the teams best foul shooters. Barry was the perfect image of an all-around Y.U.er: good in both secular and religious studies while still ably performing on the court.

Tommy Hoffman's skills encompassed those not usually appreciated in a basketball player. His fine defensive play plus sharp passing and speed made him a vital factor in most of our games. His scoring touch shone through in the first Elizabeth game where his 15 points led us to victory.

In some of the games, Tommy was an unusual starter—he started on the bench. Yet Tommy's excellent sportsmanship came to the fore when after being a starter for more than half the season he was relegated to sixth man.

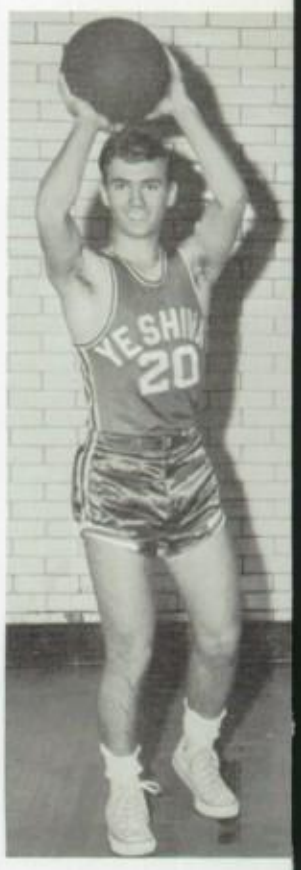
The only thing lacking in Donny Bleich, an excellent ballplayer, is drive. Possessing an excellent shot, Don is also a fine rebounder and driver. He demonstrated his fine natural ability against R.J.J. in the playoff game, in which his play contributed greatly to our victory. Frustratingly, Donny did not utilize his ability to full advantage in the other games. It might be to Don's credit that his temperament does not allow him to get excited over such trivial matters as basketball games. This explains Donny's coolness under pressure and his quarter-ending shots, some of which Mr. Wettstein took exception to.

Uri Lemberger's play is one of the few pleasant surprises of the season. Lem's tremendous shot was invaluable against any team that played a zone defense. Uri's unique temperament proved useful in the key reserve spot he so ably filled. Uri also provided one of the more exciting thrills of the season when he obligingly slammed into a wall in an attempt to block an opponent's shot. Lem's initial reaction to the gaping hole in his knee was one not unusual for him—he laughed.

Sidney Goldstein, next year's captain, possesses one of the finest long range shots that has ever been seen in Yeshiva. Sid's best performance this year was in the second Magnus game in which he scored 14 points, hitting 7 for 9 from the field. Sidney must play up to his potential next year if the team is to make the playoffs.

If any member of the team is to be a legend, it is Sam "Oscar the Shot" Schoenwetter. If Sam's basketball playing could have matched his superior wit, our team would have surely ended up undefeated. While "Osc" carried the team's emotional burden on his shoulders, he still found time to score 6 points—2 of them in the Garden. It can truly be said of the "Shot," "He reached his potential."



Jules Pogrow, a three year veteran of the varsity, achieved a feat unheralded in M.T.A. sports annals. He never scored a point. However, Yitz always strove to better himself. In three years he never missed a practice, being the first to come and the last to leave each time.

Mike Faber, as inexperienced as he was, helped the team with his timely rebounding. It is too bad that Mike played only one year, for if he had played more he would have been an even bigger asset to the team.

A gracious loser is a rarity in sports, especially in the M.J.H.S.L. Mr. Wettstein has accepted this frustrating position in a manner most commendable. If the basketball reputation of our school has in any way been tarnished by our team's performance this year, Mr. Wettstein's certainly has not.

JUNIOR VARSITY

Paced by the efforts of Bajnon, Gertel, and Kriger, the J.V. acquitted itself honorably in all its contests. It is hoped that the J.V. stalwarts will be able to provide competent talent to equalize the loss of the senior varsity members.

First Row: J. Goodman, A. Croog, P. Kriger, E. Ribner. Second Row: A. Krudt, T. Zurrof, S. Bajnon, T. Schreiber, U. Gertel, R. Schiffman. Third Row: D. Burton, A. Gribetz, S. Head, E. Hoch, L. O'Brien, A. Ralbag, I. Pest, Coach, Mr. Schless.

Captain B. Altman, Captain R. Summer, W. Silberman, B. Becker, I. Kurz, J. Kalman, S. Wender.

SWIMMING

The Aquamen's third place finish this year was really better than it looks, considering they had no coach, very little time to practice, and a fear of water. Yet captains Barry "Fish" Altman and Ronnie "Shark" Summer still made the team one we can be proud of.

SOCCER

In a disappointing season Y.U.H.S. soccer degenerated to a new low. The victory over Power Memorial H.S., however, loomed as the lone bright spot in the dismal 1-13 record.

First Row: Captains A. Dib, M. Lasky and A. Becker, A. Izry, A. Rudzinsky. Second Row: A. Silberman, I. Becker, J. Dienstag, A. Benner, B. Dib, R. Unt. Third Row: L. Halpert, I. Closed, J. Burger, J. Slater, V. Lemberger, S. Glanz, M. Marcovitz, D. Meyer, J. Kirschner.

TENNIS

First Row: J. Bendheim, S. Mann. Second Row: M. Levy, J. Pogrow, A. Hartman, I. Pollack, L. Lasky. Third Row: G. Brown, I. Kurz, G. Landa.

Our tennis team, quite proficient in "love," was another one of our first place finishers. The graduation loss of captains Jack C. Bendheim and Sammy Mann might reverse this year's 8-1 record next year.

CHEERING SQUAD

Assorted C.J.'s; Missing: Captain J. "Twinkletoes" Lemberger.

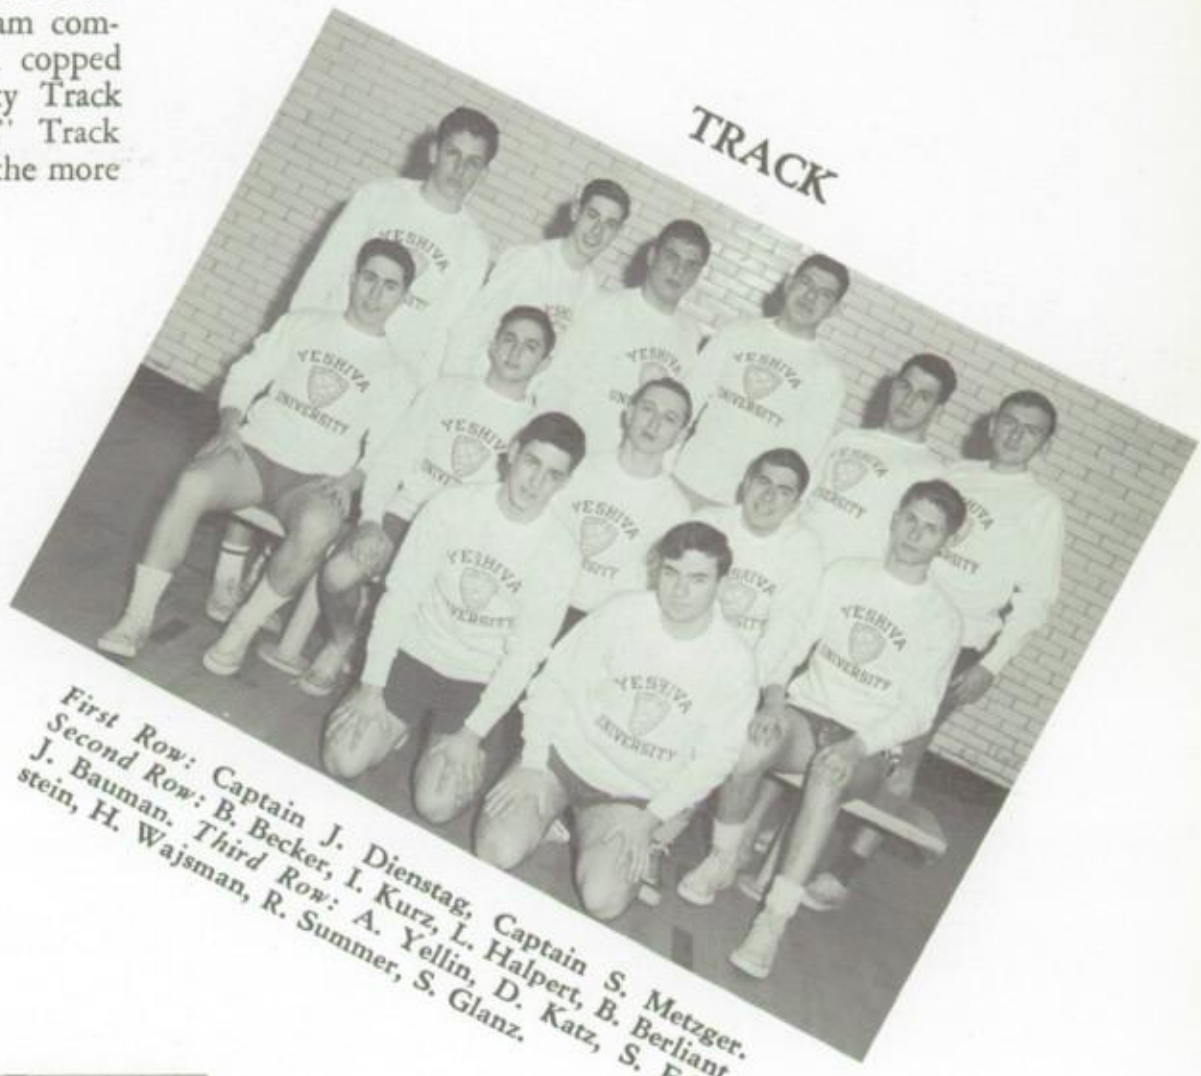
HANDBALL

First Row: B. Usdan, S. Metzger, D. Goldschmidt, J. Fasten, I. Metal. Second Row: A. Grosser, M. Birk, M. Frankel, D. Heimowitz, S. Goldsmith. Third Row: H. Feldschreiber, S. Weilgus, S. Meier, I. Reinstein, S. Koneig, M. Levin.

This years handball team truly lived up to its pre-season expectation by finishing in first place. Led by captains Mike Frankel and Dave Heimowitz, the ball slappers went out on a limb and finished with a 13-0 record.

TRACK

Led by its fleetfooted captains Jules Dienstag and Sol Metzger the track team completed a brilliant 14-2 record and copped first place honors in the Inter-City Track League. The future of the "Lion" Track Team appears bright with many of the more essential starters returning.



First Row: Captain J. Dienstag, Captain S. Metzger. Second Row: B. Becker, I. Kurz, L. Halpert, B. Berliant, J. Bauman. Third Row: A. Yellin, D. Katz, S. Edelstein, H. Wajsman, R. Summer, S. Glanz.

BASEBALL

First Row: B. Becker, A. Grosser, M. Frankel, I. Kurz, W. Silberman, L. Halpert. Second Row: D. Goldschmidt, T. Hoffman, J. Krieger, J. Reimer, U. Lemberger. Third Row: S. Schoenwetter, A. Shift, S. Weilgus, D. Meyer, H. Bajnon, D. Gitler, J. Bauman, B. Finer, J. Kirschner, R. Newhouse, R. Summer, R. Nussbaum.

Captains Tommy Hoffman and Jerry Kriger are to be commended on the superb team they organized. This represents an important step forward in Y.U.H.S. athletics.

BOWLING

This year's bowling team was handicapped by too many seniors and not enough bowlers. Due to many forfeits by both sides, the team, led by Co-Captains Larry Kobilinsky and Marty Halbfinger, ended up in fourth place.

First Row: A. Silberman, J. Fasten, J. Kirschner, L. Koblinsky, Captain, B. Croog, E. Taylor. Second Row: M. Yellin, A. Bajnon, I. Polak, S. Schoenwetter, J. Bauman, M. Markowitz. Third Row: I. Kurz, B. Kimmel, M. Groob, J. Kaplan, T. Hoffman, A. Grosser, R. Newhouse, M. Levin, A. Krudt. Missing: M. Halbfinger, Captain.

DEBATING

First Row: J. Eichenholz, A. Rockoff, Captain L. Oberstein, Captain M. Birnbaum, S. Posner, J. Reimer. Second Row: R. Silver, I. Epstein, H. Wajsman, S. Glanz, H. Brown, J. Worenklein, D. Gitler, A. Greengold, A. Belsky, A. Malter.

The most active Debating Team in our history traveled much, accomplished little. Its record was three and seven. The Chess Team fared better, finishing first with a record of six and two.

CHESS

R. Cappel, M. Frankel, Captain P. Kleiner, Captain L. Presby, B. Zaitchek, P. Rosenstock, M. Markovitz, M. Frankel, E. Blitz, A. Rosenstock.

MATH

First Row: R. Sangfroid, A. Hartman, J. Smith, L. Bernstein, I. Metal, A. Brain. Second Row: M. Frankel, B. Gelernter, Capatins J. Silver and H. Markowitz, M. Levin, S. Meier. Third Row: A. Heifner, M. Birk, S. Schoenwetter, H. Raymon, D. Radin, A. Rockoff, M. Baskin, I. Ruderman, L. Firn, J. Cox.

The Math Team eased fears when on May 8th it decisively nosed out George Washington High School for forty-second place. The Yeshiva Bowl team won one, lost six (five under protest). The Checker Team finished fourth with a record of five and five.

YESHIVA BOWL

First Row: A. Rockoff, M. Levin, A. Tuchman, Captain, D. Miller, J. Silver. Second Row: H. Markowitz, S. Posner, A. Unger, A. Hartman, J. Dienstag.

CHECKERS

First Row: S. Mann, S. Meier, Captain M. Levin, Captain R. Newhouse, F. Metal, S. Goldsmith. Second Row: I. Tesser, I. Kurz, H. Werblowsky, M. Kirk, I. Reinstein, A. Schranz, M. Halbfinger, H. Bajnon, M. Baskin, L. Presby, W. Silberman, M. Koslowsky.

The Key To Life

As the crystal-white crests
Of the Lapping blue waves
In endless succession
Roll in toward the shore;
As the vast, incomprehensible
Expanses of heaven
So dark and foreboding
Lie just beyond reach,
So in each man entrenched
Grows a spirit so fearsome
A pride in himself
In his G-d-given rights.
Like the fierce, roaring lion
In the frightful, dense jungle
Like the screaming ship sinking
In the harsh, wind-tossed sea,
This concept, this feeling,
When desperately endangered
Is a raging volcano
Enflamē'd, erupting
Spewing pure and just vengeance
As it crushes raw hate,
The seed of all evil
The flower of doom.
Indeed, above all,
Must we protect this spirit
For its strong roots lie buried
Deep in life's bold, swift mainstreams.
Without it we perish;
We're a race undeserving
Of this breath of life G-d gave us
And blessings innumerable.
Oh a chance to repay Him
For these boons and these blessings
If we'd but pause to witness,
Gleams, awaiting our glance.
In simplicity rare beauty
It exists—understanding
And a virtue, a spirit:
To love all our brothers!

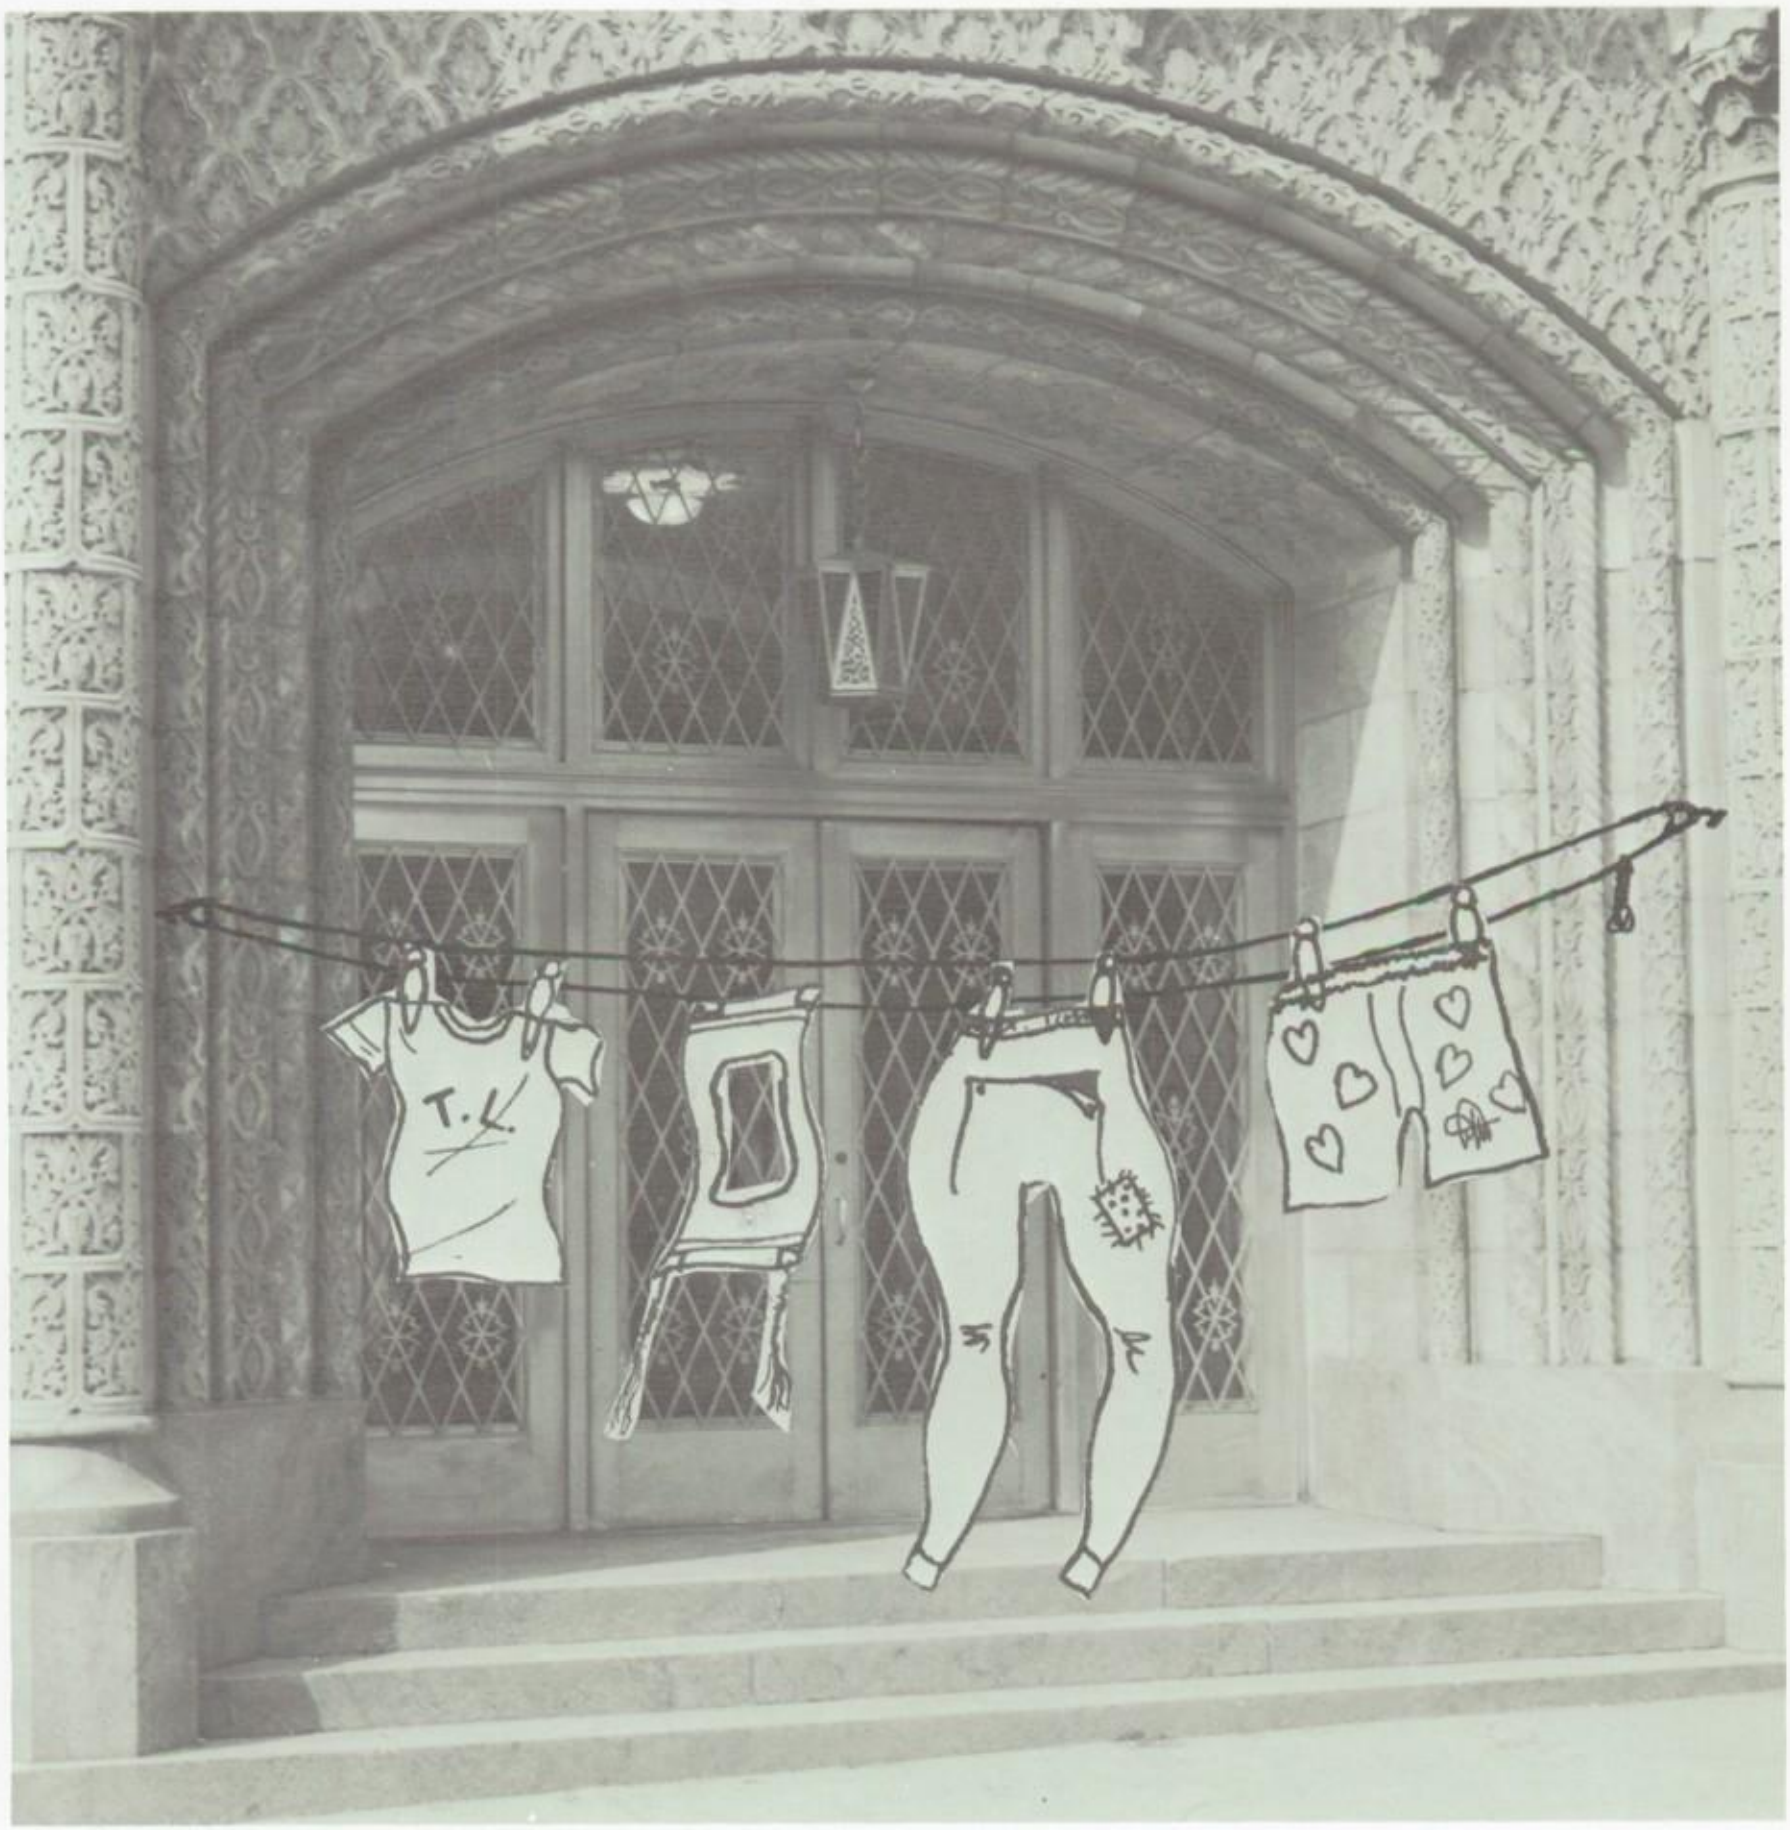
INTRODUCING



Y. U. H. S.

GREETINGS, TALMID!

Are you a renowned lamdan? If you are and would like to feel superior to 500 people, Yeshiva University High School for Boys is the school for you. This old and well established institution is located in the picturesque hamlet of Olde New Yorke. It is situated on the pastoral banks of the meandering Harlem River, nestled in the rolling hills of Washington Heights. Our Citadel of Learning and Sanctuary of Scholarship offers a well-rounded program in both Jewish and, le havdle, secular studies. It is staffed by many outstanding educators who often know something about their fields, but rarely, if ever, teach the field about which they know something.

Perhaps, at the outset, it may seem that this is not the school for you. But pause a moment and think for yourself, for once; after all, you are old enough by now to pull the chain. Upon close analysis, you will realize that it is nothing to scoff at when an institution offers to supply new Gemorahs every two years!

If the student is discouraged, he can find many short cuts to help him through the maze of high school. One can easily acquire pads of pre-signed admit blanks, etc. if he has an "in" with Sid. The businessman-type student can get fat commissions on Y.U. Drive contributions. Old unpunched luncheonette tickets, old tests, reports, etc., can be procured in the locker-room black-market. One can make a small fortune peddling elevator passes and discount tickets for Shatnes testing to freshies. So as you can see, if you are a smart boy, there are many ways to skin a "shore." Life can definitely be interesting at Y.U.H.S.

Yes, it should be clear that coming to Y.U.H.S. will be a rewarding and possibly even an educational experience. Our record of performance will attest to this. As a matter of fact, we have been accorded numerous academic and athletic awards which we proudly display in the second floor broom closet (one of the finest of its kind) along with such other priceless relics as the brooms used to sweep up a record 7,356 pistachio shells after one of the more engrossing morning lecture assemblies. Some other interesting items that may be found there include the mortal remains of Mark Feffer's old Dinim Test and shredded remnants of Irwin Epstein's application for admission to Yeshiva College on a gemara scholarship.

Our college acceptance rate speaks for itself—Yeshiva College will take anybody with pants and 25 Chalov Yisroel carton tops.

General Facilities

The facilities of our institution are housed within one major old decrepit building and a scattering of newer . . . old decrepit buildings. Contained within the Yeshiva complex are all the facilities for living, learning and discontented grumbling.

Y.U.H.S. provides living facilities for its students which are surely not. All conveniences for dormitory students are complete and provided for. No expenses are spared in order to keep the dorm one of the most outstanding looking edifices in the neighborhood—which isn't hard.

The dorm provides all the comforts of home (assuming you live in a railroad car). One needs only bang on the pipes with his roommate's head and all the heat needed to raise the temperature of one gram of water one degree centigrade will be readily provided.

A free wake up service is provided for all residents. Every morning the harbinger of morning minyan comes prancing through the corridors scantily clad in his jockey shorts and tzitis inviting all of his disciples to come and join him in communal prayers thanking the Almighty for delivering them from the evils of another night in the dorm.

A nurse capable of treating vermin bites resides on the premises.

Parker's

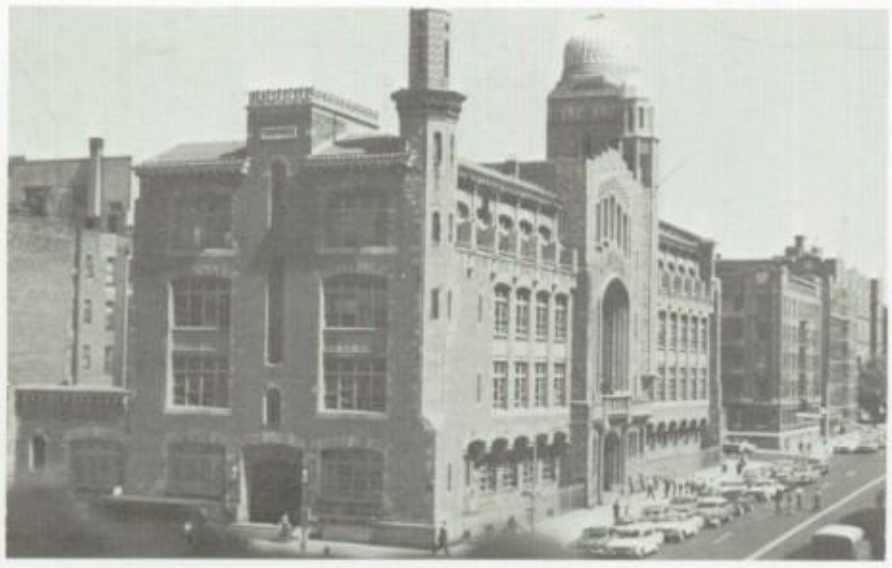
The luncheonette, with a quite varied menu.

Eating Facilities

In terms of dining facilities, the student body at Yeshiva enjoys a rather large variety of excellent but distinctively different cuisines. One may eat at the plush Tov M'od club, decorated in the styles of Ancient Grease. It is managed most ably by Alex and Gene, the originators of the inorganic knish. It attracts the students like flies . . . though not as many. Many unusual, exotic and unpalatable dishes are created by Jose, the 112th faithful chef and Maitre d', who won the Sobell prize for his pea-less split pea soup, using only some dishwater and discarded punches from green checks. It has been rumored for months that a Strictly Kosher Delicatessen Will Be Coming Soon. But at the present the closest one can get to a corned beef sandwich is the picture of a pregnant cow on page 21 of the Amsco Biology Review Book.

Parker's Chop House literally undermines the college dorm. Through the miracles of modern chemistry, they have proven that "once a carrot, not always a carrot." The beauty of the place lies in the fact that if you like "pies" you will like the soup, and the "spinach" and the "protose steak" and the vegetables, etc. . . . for the simple reason that they are all one and the same—transformed leftovers. If one can live on pickles and water, he is assured of not having to spend a dime during his tenure at Yeshiva. Bring your own "Benchilich."

Another must for the true epicure is Zunder's, where, thank G-d, only commercially prepared food is sold. Ask any dorm student and he'll tell you it is possible to live solely on Dipsey Dulitzes, Pepsi Cohens, and Sunafish or Gefulda fish sandwiches and come out looking no worse than a student in class on New Year's morning.



Students Union and Recreation Center

Recreational Facilities

An integral part of any university is its facilities for recreation and relaxation. The Student Union and Recreation Center is located on Amsterdam Ave. and 186th Street. One can wander in any time during the day and partake of a varied and stimulating program of extracurricular activities.

On the lighter side, we have the annual intermural Eraser Heave and Rubber Band Brigade led by that cockroach enthusiast and ice cube grower, Mr. I. D. Lyons.

On the practical side, Dr. Zorblow of the chemistry department has formed an Embalming Club.

For those who enjoy the pleasures of learning in their spare time, the facilities are more than adequate. Every Thursday night from 7 P.M. onwards, one can find a member of the Talmid Chochom Club who will be more than anxious to expound on everything from clumsy cows to tearable tallises.

The Rabbi Goodman Memorial Student Lounge and Phumphering Hall, sometimes jokingly called the bathroom, is the hub of student activity. To gain admission, one must present a pass or a note signed by a respectable member of the community, usually a doctor or a member of the administration. One can enter at any time and find representatives from most of the various classes discussing such vital aspects of today's society as last nights Knicks' game or the latest methods of getting away with ten minutes gemara study a month. Marvin Sussman, Lounge Administrator, would be happy to dispense any information concerning its activities.

The Shiur Club is an organization founded on the basic tenet of Wender's Law: That the amount of learning is inversely proportional to the distance from the Rebbe's desk.

Communal singing is an integral part of the Beis-Medrash Club and is under the direction of Monsieur Schoffel.

Mr. Schwartz's Bathroom Club is a society of aspiring mathematicians who are presently delving into the problem of:

$$\frac{\text{SIN } 2X + \pi}{\sqrt{\sqrt{37}}\ \sqrt{\sqrt{}}}$$ which concerns the relationships between checks, marks and the square roots of boneheads.

Stephen Beck, our Student Activities Co-ordinator is noted for his attempt to form a club for research into the history of the infamous legumous Blowguns. He is also known for his highly successful research into Nasal Irritation and Air Pollution.

Oh no! Another midwife!

Educational Facilities

Hebrew Department

Our esteemed faculty is divided into two distinct sections, morning and afternoon, with some mercenary souls bridging the gap.

For those whose forte is the melodious strains of the Hebrew tongue, we have the T.I. department, which is staffed by many "gedoley ha dor," several of whom proudly display their "D.D." license plates on their cars (Doctors of Dik-duk). T.I. is dedicated to the proposition that "Rabbi Romm is just one part of the New Year's festivities." A few of the more notable personalities connected with this "black sheep" department of Yeshiva include Rabbi Louie, that renowned jacket wrinkler and tea-totaler who knocks himself out to get here everyday from a remote corner of Queens just for spite. A "dictator" at heart, he plans to open up a new country somewhere in Antarctica and perhaps teach the penguins Hebrew so that he can bring some back and let them pit their wits against Messrs. Summer, Altman, and Feffer. He also enjoys dominating his family, asserting his authority over two "Batos."

Another faculty member that one can always count on to tell you are no good is the administration's friend, Dr. Urivetsky. He is better known for his efforts at getting Beth boys back in line. A direct outgrowth of this tireless soul's work is the Urivetsky Sanctuary and Rest Home for Wayward Beth Boys. This long established institution, more commonly known as T.I. Boy's Town, offers a wide variety of counseling services for those who feel that they have wandered off the path of you-know-what. One can enter a physical and moral wreck and come out looking young, healthy and beautifully tanned (from "Orr Torah," of course). Brochos on bread, etc. are taught. For amusement, one can watch the master himself waste hours and hours on Joe sheets. Watch him attempt to make 24 different tests on the first three sentences of "Kedoshim." Rates are cheap—just your soul. Dietary laws strictly observed.

Just another day

Another person who is to Y.U. as horse radish is to gefilte fish is Rabbi "Gabriel-blow-your-horn" G-rd-n. This notorious party thrower's specialty is making students sweat. An unrelenting tanoch checker, he professes the philosophy of "a tanoch in every pocket, some gemara in every kop." An unusual phenomenon to be observed in his class is the behavior of the class before a dinim test. All the students can be found walking around with strange incoherent mumblings slightly resembling Alenu, Birchas Ha Mazon, Shmone Esrey, etc. emanating from their lips. Another phenomenon peculiar to the Rabbi's boys is cheating on the "Genayvas Daas" test.

For those students who have difficulties concentrating, who need sleep, and whose minds function in a less orderly and logical manner, we have the T.A. department.

Bench Institute

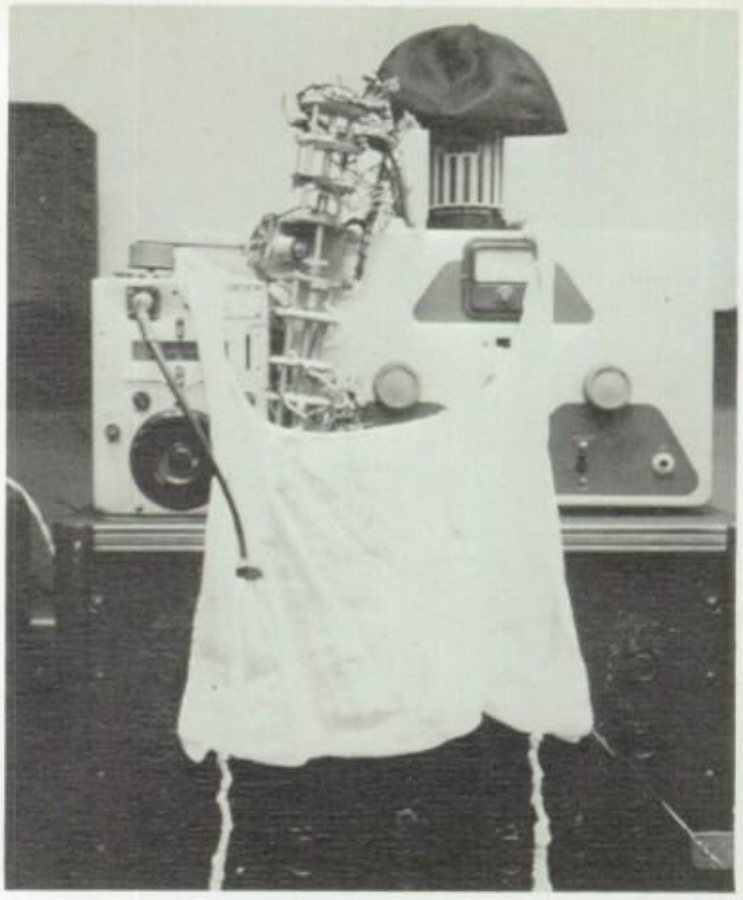
For the more astute and diligent student and epicure of knowledge, scholarships are available for the B.I. department, the well known Bench Institute located in Weinbach Hall in front of the office. All queries should be addressed to D. Bleich, Director of Admissions.

Our school is noted for its inter-faculty cooperation. An example of such concerted efforts among the instructors was the attempt to create and program a computer for gemara. Rabbi Fulda and a member of the physics department worked on it.

Rabbi Fulda, with his amazing ability to condense an entire chapter of gemara (including Mephorshim) into a compact box 3½ by 4.8 inches, attempted to program the machine. He took much time off from his G.A.T. (Gemara Aptitude Test) activities to work on the project. After two years of painstaking labor the computer was ready to go. The first question asked of it was: What would happen if a "bore" fell into a "shore." After a few seconds of the machine's version of phumphering, it lit up like an administrator who looked at a senior button and simply exploded. After careful examination of the debris, it was determined that the extremely logical circuits of the computer could not handle the dialectics of the gemara. Its fine components just couldn't take it.

A new machine is being built now. The connections, however, are being assembled in a haphazard and random manner. The new machine should be able to handle anything, even a Tosephos.

Director of Bench Institute.



The gemorah machine.

Secular Studies

English Department

Rabbi Dulitz, an all around guy . . . is one of the most well known teachers in Y.U.H.S. Since he has asserted himself in almost every area of Y.U. erudition, rare is the student who has been spared the Big D's vociferation. Some students have been known to have had the Rabbi for four years in a row. Mr. Ripley has been notified of this. The hardier souls fared well. The weaker ones, however, can be seen wandering aimlessly around the building with a glazed look upon their faces mumbling something about a schtus and a nahrishkite. Ask the Rabbi any conceivable, possible, potential, thinkable or imaginable question concerning any Shakespearean play, whether comedy, tragedy or history (as long as it is the Merchant of Venice) and he will astound you with his knowledge of lines, pages, acts and scenes. Incidentally, Rabbi Dulitz spends his spare time reading page numbers. Presently, he is half way through the Brittanica's impressive numerals.

If his students spent half the time preparing for his test as he does making them, they would not have to worry constantly about how much easier it will be next year.

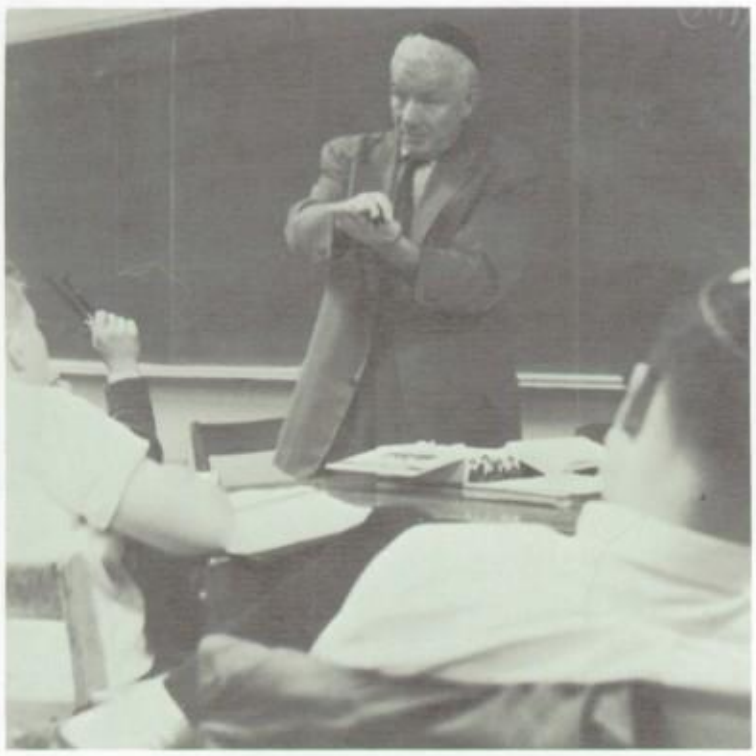
Rumor has it that the Rebitzen has been sitting at basketball games discreetly knitting little .... yarmulkas.

A new addition to our beloved faculty was Mr. "G.E. Bulbs" Cohen. A highlight of the year was when this unique gentleman rattled off the last stanza of an obscure nursery rhyme during a "college bowl" assembly and Rabbi Dulitz turned green with envy. His job this year at Y.U.H.S. consisted of abortive attempts at attendance taking, at making inquiries as to why everybody was always late, at arranging seats, at berating students and at ranking out Sidney. Next year he hopes to teach English.

Language Department

Señor Schoffel, a member of the language department, now teaches only Spanish after realizing that a two week Berlitz course in French was insufficient to teach it on the high school level. Señor Hawkeye's approach to Spanish is unique—one just sings himself to a 95%.

Dr. Charles could probably say that there isn't a language or dialect that he doesn't speak fluently; however, this isn't true since he doesn't seem to understand Marv Sussman's Spanish. Dr. Charles has been taking a music course with Mr. Nullman, who sings fairly well, so that he can keep up with Mr. Schoffel's "Sing your way to a more powerful Spanish vocabulary" course.



If it's alive, I'll be a prima ballerina.

Math and Science Department

Mr. Schwartz, an aspiring ballerina, who is also the senior member of the math department, has an original approach to tests—he doesn't give any. When the office forces Mr. Schwartz into giving a final he employs a system tried at Rochdale over 100 years ago—the cooperative—where all individual student effort becomes the property of the class.

Mr. Schain, the merry molecule, is no longer at Yeshiva, but it has been rumored that he is making up challenging matching tests for the CEEB. He has perfected a method of preserving paper so that the same exam can be used for a century and show no signs of wear and tear.

To conclude, we would like to remind you that the purpose of this brochure is to remind the prospective student with the joys and advantages of Yeshiva U. life. You will soon have to make up your mind as to which high school you will attend. Will it be Flatbush with its, feh, girls, or Ramaz with its, feh, girls or R.J.J. with its, feh, boys, or Yeshiva University H.S. with its Rabbi Dulitz?

As you begin to make your choice, keep this in mind. At times, our school is more fun than a barrel of shors. We don't exactly have a faculty; it may be more accurately described as a cast. Not precisely a school building, but a theater. Not specifically an administrator, but a director. Not students, but an audience. As the curtain falls on the final scene of the Class of '64.

שמשון רפאל הירש

מאת: שמחה פוזנר

בין הרבנים שדנו בהתנגשות היהדות נגד זרם תרבות ההשכלה במאה האחרונה היה הרב שמשון רפאל הירש. במדה גדולה, מחשבותיו מכוונות לחדש את תקופת היהדות באור מחשבת הנאורה במאה התשע־עשרה. ביחוד, רעיונותיו על הגלות ותפוצת ישראל מביעות ההנחה שיש לישראל חלק פעיל בגורל אומות העולם. כדי להבין את הגיונות רב הירש ביחסם למסגרת השלמה של סברה הרבנית על הגלות כדאי להביט על כמה מקורות תלמודיות.

מובן ממאמרי חכמינו זכרונם לברכה שהגורם התכוף לגלות היה עברת שנאת חנם כמו שאמרו[1]: „מקדש ראשון, מפני מה חרב? מפני שלשה דברים שהיו בו. עבודה זרה וגילוי עריות ושפיכות דמים. אבל מקדש שני, שהיו עוסקין בתורה ובמצות וגמילות חסדים, מפני מה חרב? מפני שהיתה בו שנאת חנם. ללמדך ששקולה שנאת חנם כנגד שלוש עבירות — עבודה זרה וגילוי עריות ושפיכות דמים.

לכן אנו מבינים את טעם חורבן הבית. אולם, הלא מעמסת חורבן הבית עונש מספיק? איזו מטרה ראה הקדוש ברוך הוא בתפוצת ישראל בין העמים. המלצה למקור תנאי מגלה לנו את סבירת חז"ל, שחשבו את הגלות להמשך הפורענות, כמו שאמרו[2] „קשה היא גלות שהיא שקולה כנגד הכל". אמנם, חכמינו יחסו לגלות רומא פורענות נוסף על גלות בבל, שבגלות בית ראשון היהודים גלו למקום מרכזי אחד, אבל בגלות רומא הם נתפזרו לקצוי עולם כמו שאמרו[3]:

„ואתכם אזרה בגוים — זו מדה קשה לישראל שבשעה שבני המדינה גולים למקום אחד, רואים זה את זה ומתנחמים. וכאן (גלות רומה) הוא אומר: ואתכם אזרה בגוים — שאפזר אתכם בין אומות העולם, ואין אחד מכם קרוב אצל חברו..."

אבל לב האדם אינו שבע רצון להשאיר את האשמה על ראש האדם בלי איזו הצעה של הצטדקות. מפני סבה זו, לא קשה להבין שיש אלו שמוצאים בגלות איזו תועלת, שאינה אך ורק עונש. הם רצים ליחס לגלות תכונה חיובית במקום להדגיש את התכונה השלילית. בין אלו אנו מוצאים את הרב שמשון רפאל הירש.

בתוך ספריו, הרב הירש מביע את הסברא שהיו מטרות הגלות שתים — מטרה אחת לבוא תכף ומיד, והשניה שתבוא לאחר זמן[4]. תוצאת המטרה הראשונה שהשיגה את היהודים תכף אחרי החרבן היתה עקירת השקפה חמרית מישראל. כאשר הם נעו ונדדו בגלות בלי נכסים, היה להם רק דבר אחד להדבק בו — תורת ה'. ולכן בני ישראל הכירו שאהבת ה' ותורתו הדבר היחיד שיש לו ערך תמידי.

התוצאה השניה לפי רב הירש היא ההשתפרות של העמים שהגלו את היהודים. מפני שכל הגוים דרשו רק את הדברים הגשמיים והחמריים בחיים, ובקשו לסלק את ה' מחייהם ולשלול את השגחתו עליהם, ה' שלח ביניהם את בני ישראל כדי שהיהודים ישמשו קנה מדה בעד שוביהם.

אלא רב הירש ממשיך ומאשר את הלאומיות, שעל יהודי הגלות לא רק לשפר את מצב המוסרי של שוביהם, אלא גם כן את מצב המדיני. הוא סובר שהמאמר „דינא דמלכותא דינא" מחייב את היהודים להיות קנאים לשפור ארץ גלותיהם בכל אופן, נוסף על קיום פשוט של דיני המדינה. והחיוב עומד בין אם יחס המדינה ליהודים טוב או רע[5].

בודאי עלינו לשפר את מצב המוסרי של שכינינו בגלות, אלא נראה לי שבכתביו, רב הירש מתאר את הגלות לדירה תמידית במקום להדגיש את התכונה העראית של הגלות. בהשתדלותו להצדיק את מעמד היהודים בין הגוים הלא הוא העלים עין מן המטרה היסודית של יהודי הגלות — לשוב לארץ ישראל.

שינוי השם, אע"פ שהבעל יכול לאמר לא היה, באמת קונה, אלא שבעורות והקדש אין שם שינוי השם בלי יאוש שבהקדש שניהם אינם יכולים להקדיש זה לפי שאינו שלו וזה לפי שאינו ברשותו ולכן צריך יאוש לעשות שינוי השם. וכן בעורות לשיטת תוספות משכבו ולא הגזול שצריך בעלים לעשותו משכב, ולכן לא קני בלא יאוש ואח"כ אם יש יאוש השנוי השם הוא הקונה. אבל לתירוץ ראשון יכולים לאמר שהדין ששניהם אינם יכולים להקדיש וכן עורות של בעל הבית מחשבה מטמאתן (לשיטת רש"י) הוא מחמת הדין של יאוש ושינוי השם. אבל לתירוץ שני צריך לאמר שהם דין בפני עצמם. ועוד נפקא מינה אם בעורות והקדש אם היה שינוי השם קטן עם שינוי מעשה. דלא קני, לתירוץ ראשון מוטב אבל שלא לתירוץ שני אם אין יאוש אין בהקדש שינוי השם דשניהם אינם יכולים להקדיש.

והא דתוס' סוכה ל. ד"ה שינוי החוזר שאומר שמה שנקצץ מן המחובר אינו חשיב שינוי מעשה משתנה שמו בכך. תוספות אומר שבאמת על פי הטבע כל דבר ודבר משתנה קצת אבל אנו צריכים שיהא כמו דבר אחר לקיים "אם כעין שגזל יחזיר ואי לא לא" וזהו רק אם אנו קוראים שזהו באמת שינוי ובנוגע להדס מה שנקצץ אינו שינוי כי מגדלים הדס לקצוץ ואין משתנה שמו בקציצה פיסוק לחיותא אינו שינוי.

וכן תוספות ב"ק צג: ד"ה עצים וז"ל דוקא סופן כי האי שנעשה בכך בוכני מועיל דחשיב שינוי מעשה וכן בעבדי נסרים נמי מהני אבל שיפוי שאין משתנה שמו בכך לא מהני, עכ"ל. והוא מפני שאינו שינוי מעשה עד שישתנה שמו. כי באמת זה מה שעושים להרבה הנסרים ועדיין הם נסרים ואין הכל רואים בזה שינוי אלא אם משתנה שמו אז הוא דבר אחר. אבל לגבי כחשה דלא הדר שלא בעינן שינוי השם כי הכל מכירים שזהו שינוי מעשה כי זהו דבר גדול ואין בהמה מגודלת בשביל כיחוש לכן הוי שינוי ואינו אותה הבהמה, משא"כ גבי שיפוי ופיסוק לחיותא שהם באמת דברים שייכים לנסרים והדס. וכן הוא קיצוע שבאמת אינו שינוי שהרבה עורות נקצעים ועדיין הם עורות רק ששוות קצת יותר והוי כמו שיפוי. אבל אם יש יאוש עמו כבר יש עמו שינוי השם שאנו עוסקים פה במחשבה מטמאתן. ואפילו אם עדין לא אמרינן שינוי השם קונה אבל יכול לעשותו לשינוי מעשה. ובהמה והזקינה שאין הזקנה תכלית הבהמה ורצון הבעל לכך, אלא אדרבה זה מבטלה מעבודה ומכחש הבשר. ואפשר זהו כונת התוס' (בשינוי השם קטן).

ולענין שינוי החוזר, דבר שעתיד לחזור למה שהיתה באמת אפילו עכשיו היא אותה הדבר שהיתה, לכן בשינוי מעשה לא קני, דמה שעתיד לחזור מוכיח שעכשיו הוא אותה הדבר. אבל לגבי שינוי השם אם יש שינוי מעשה או יאוש הגנוב יכול לטעון שזהו שמו עכשיו. ומה שחוזר הוא לא מפני שהיה אותו הדבר כל הזמן אלא מפני שהיה עוד שינוי השם שלגבי שינוי השם אם באמת יש שינוי השם, אינו חוזר אלא אם כן נשתנה עוד פעם. ושינוי כזה לא חשיב שינוי החוזר כמו בהגוזל עצים צו: "האי מאן דגזל נסכא מחבריה ועביד זוזי לא קני, מאי טעמא הדר עביד להוי נסכא זוזי ועבדינהו נסכא קני. וכי טעמא הדר עביד להו זוזי פנים חדשות באו לכאן". כשטבע מטבעות מנסכא הוי שינוי החוזר שיכול לעשות נסכא מהם עוד פעם והוי כמו שהזוזים עדיין חלק מהנסכא. אבל בזוזי ועבדינהו נסכא מה שיכולים לחזור ולטבוע מהם מטבעות אינו מוכיח שהנסכא עכשיו זוזי אלא כשטובע עושה שינוי אחרת והוי כמו שני שינויים. וכמו כן בכל פעם בשינוי החוזר אם יש יאוש או שינוי מעשה עם שינוי החוזר הוי באמת שינוי השם. ועכשיו שהוא שינוי השם, זה שחוזר הוא לא מפני שהיה שמו כל הזמן, אלא מפני שנעשה שינוי השם אחרת ולא שייך לאמר שהשם חוזר אלא צ"ל נשתנה שמו פעם שנית.

בענין יאוש ושינוי השם

מאת: יהודה סילבר

הדבר התמוה ביותר בענין שינוי קונה הוא שבמקום ששינוי בעצמו לא קני ויאוש גם כן לא קני, לפעמים ששניהם ביחד קונים. וקשה, הלא הם שני מושגים שונים זה מזה ואיך יתכן כשאחד לבדו אינו קונה ששניהם ביחד יקנו.

וכן בס"ד דתוס' ס"ו: ד"ה שינוי השם וז"ל: לאו כשינוי מעשה ממש דשינוי מעשה לחוד קני... אבל שינוי השם גרידא לא קני בלא יאוש או שינוי מעשה. עכ"ל. וכן במסקנת רז"ה והמאירי. ואפילו נייחס יאוש לשינוי השם וקונה, מהו הקשר לשינוי מעשה שאו שינוי השם יקנה או שינוי מעשה יקנה אבל אם אינו שינוי השם הראוי לקנות מה מוסיף לו שינוי מעשה. ועוד, בתוס' ס"ז ד"ה הא לאו הכי הדרא כתב שכוונת הגמרא היא מכיון ששינוי השם קטן יקנה עם יאוש צריך לומר ששינוי השם גדול לחוד גם כן יקנה. והלא אפילו אם יש קשר בין יאוש ושינוי השם, על כל פנים איך מקשים ממנו ששינוי השם גדול קונה בלחוד.

ועוד תוס' סוכה דף ל' ד"ה שינוי החוזר וז"ל ומה שנקצץ מן המחובר ולא חשיב שינוי מעשה כיון דלא נשתנה שמו בכך דמעיקרא אסא והשתא אסא... ואע"ג דפסק לחיותא גרא מכחשא דלא הדר או מבהמה והזקינה דיחשיב שינוי אע"ג דלא נשתנה שמם ומשלם כשעת הגזילה עכ"ל.

ואפילו אם נשתמש בתירוץ שתוס' בענין יאוש ושינוי השם מנא ליה ששינוי מעשה יצטרך שינוי השם? ועוד, אפילו נאמר ככה תוספות בעצמו מחלק בענין כחישה דלא הדר ומהו החילוק?

ועוד קשה הוא התוס' דף ס"ו: ד"ה כגון וז"ל ומועיל עם היאוש אבל לחודיה לא קני דלאו שינוי מעשה הוא. עכ"ל. ומוסיף הרשב"א וז"ל ויאוש עם קיצוץ זה קונה אבל הקיצוץ לבדו אינו קונה שאינו מעשה גמור. עכ"ל. וקשה, במה מגדיר מעשה גמור ומהו מעשה לא גמור. ואפילו אם זה מעשה לא גמור מה ענין יאוש אצל מעשה דמעשה פעול בעצמו ואין יאוש פועל במעשה לעשות ממעשה שאינו גמור מעשה גמור.

ועוד קשה בתוס' סוכה דף ל. ד"ה ולקנ"ה מסיק דשינוי השם שאינו חוזר קונה לבדו. וששינוי השם החוזר קונה עם יאוש או שינוי מעשה, איך מחלק תוספות בין חוזר לאינו חוזר שאחד קונה לבדו ואחד קונה רק עם יאוש. ועוד, שמדאורייתא שינוי מעשה החוזר לא קני כלל ומה ההבדל בינו לשינוי השם החוזר.

ויש ליישב את הסוגיא שהס"ד דתוס' היה שינוי מעשה קונה בלחוד שהרי נראה לכל שהוא דבר אחר אבל בשינוי השם, הגנב יכנהו בשם אחד והבעל יכנהו בשם אחר. בשינוי השם לחוד אין הוכחה שהיה שינוי אבל אם יש יאוש עם שינוי השם הבעל אינו אומר כלום ושייך רק בשם שהגנב קורא לה וכן אם יש עמו שינוי מעשה (אפילו שאין ראוי לקנות) הכל רואים את השינוי מעשה שבא עם שינוי השם וקוראים לדבר כמו שהגנב קורא לה ועל ידי זה הוי שינוי השם וקונה אבל בלי יאוש או שינוי מעשה אינו באמת שינוי השם. ולמסקנא תוספות אומר שלשינוי השם קטן שאינו נראה לכל שהוא שינוי השם אלא יש שקוראים אותו שם זה ויש שקוראים לו שם זה, צריך יאוש או שינוי מעשה לעשותו לשינוי כמו בסלקא דעתה שאם יקרא על שם הגנב או גוף הדבר יוכיח שנעשה שינוי השם אבל שינוי השם גדול שנראה לכל שהוא שינוי (כמו במריש) קונה בעצמו. וקושית הגמרא לפי תוספות כך הוא: אם תאמר ששינוי השם קונה, גם כן במריש צריך לקנות. ואנו יודעים ששינוי השם הוא קונה מששינוי השם קטן עם יאוש או שינוי מעשה קונה והיאוש רק להוכיח שהוא שינוי השם. אבל בהא דמריש שאינו צריך יאוש להוכיח שהוא שינוי השם. אבל בהא דמריש אינו צריך יאוש להוכיח שהוא שינוי השם היה צריך לקנות בפני עצמו. ותירוץ שני של תוס' שבכל מקום אם היה

שערים

מאת: דוד מילר

נושא חוברתנו בשנה הזאת הוא „שערים". המילה: „שער" מרומז בהרבה פנים בתורה. שער אחד מופיע בפסוקים „ויירש זרעך את שער אויביו" (בראשית כ"ב י"ז) ו„ירש זרעך את שער שונאיו" (בראשית כ"ג, י'). זהו השער לעולם החילוני וגם פתח לחכמת הגויים, ששני דברים אלו נתנו גם ל„אויביו" ול„שונאיו" של ישראל. בשהותנו בישיבה נפתחו לנו שערים לעניינים הגשמיים בחיים. רכשנו חדירות חדשות בחיים מהספרות האנגלית והאמריקנית שקראנו. למדנו יסודי המדע והמתמטיקה. לימודים אלו משמשים לתכלית כפלי. הם יעזרו לנו להבין את העולם המסובך, שזה גם חלק מהתורה. אם נעמק בעניינים אלו, נקבל הבנה אמיתית בפסוק „מה רבו מעשיך ה' כולם בחכמה עשית מלאה הארץ קניניך". התכלית השניה ללמודים אלו היא לאפשר לנו הפרנסה כדי שנוכל ללמוד תורה כל חיינו. רואים צד זה של העולם כלומר צד הפרנסה, הרכוש של אדם, בפסוק „ולגר אשר בשערך" (דברים י"ד, כ"א), שמדברים בגר תושב כי פרוש „שעריך" זה במובן ממשי וחמרי, ולא במובן רוחני (ומה שכתוב „וגרך אשר בשעריך" (שמות כ' י') בעשרת הדברות — באמת היה צריך להיות מדבר על גר תושב כי כתוב „בשעריך", אלא משמע שזה מדבר בגר צדק כי יש עוד פסוק לגר תושב (ספרי).

עוד שער שמדברים עליו בתורה הוא השער במאמר יעקב „אין זה כי אם בית אלקים וזה שער השמים" (בראשית כ"ח, י"ז) כלומר, שער לעולם הרוחני, הפתח לחיי תורה, כמו שכתוב „פתחו לי שערי צדק אבוא בם אודה קה" (תהילים קי"ח). עיקר זמננו בישיבה בלינו בלמודי קודש. שערים נפתחו לנו על ידי רבותינו בתורה שבכתב, בתורה שבע"פ, בראשונים ובאחרונים, וכו'. נמסר לנו דרך לימוד שישמש לנו לטופס ללמודנו בעתיד. אורח חייהם, מעשיהם ואישיותם של רבותינו ישארו נטבעים במוחינו לזמן רב.

השער השלישי זהו „שער שנדון בה" — שהתואר שער בתורה לפעמים מונח על פתח בית דין שהיו יושבים בשער העיר. וכן הוא אומר: „ועלתה יבמתו השערה אל הזקנים (דברים כ"ה, ז'), „שופטים ושוטרים תתן לך בכל שעריך" (דברים ט"ז, י"ח) וגם ברות (פרק ד') „ובועז עלה השער", השער הזה הוא פתח לחיים בחברה, אגודה — החיים היום־יומיים שלנו, יחסנו לשאר בני אדם, ועל הצד החילוני הזה של חיים, קבעה התורה בית דין לתקן קנה־מידה ולחוקק לנו חוקים על פי התורה.

מטרת ישיבתנו היא לפלס אורח חיים בין שער העולם הרוחני (התורה) לשער העולם החמרי (המדע) כדי שנוכל להכנס לשער השלישי — לחיות חיים חברתיים על פי תורה.

כהיום, קבוצה גדולה של יהודים נכנסים לשער העולם החמרי בזריזות אבל הם מפקפקים על הסף של שער העולם הרוחני ועומדים רגל אחת בחוץ ורגל אחת בפנים, כפוסחים על שתי הספים. זה אי אפשר. להכנס בשער, זה להכנס לדרך חיים. אדם לא יכול לפסוח על שתי הספים כל ימי חייו — או להכנס או להסוג אחורה. השער הוא פרשת דרכים ואין להתמהמה. וזהו שמשה אמר לבני ישראל אחרי מעשה העגל „ויעמד משה בשער המחנה ויאמר מי לה' אלי" (שמות ל"ב, וכ"ו) הוא נתן לבני ישראל ברירה — או להכנס או להסוג אחורה, אבל אי אפשר לעמוד על הסף.

יש עוד פסוק שמדבר בשער: „וכתבתם על מזוזת ביתך ובשעריך" (דברים ו' ט') שמיד כאשר אנו נכנסים לשער, התורה נותנת לנו מצוה. טעם מצות מזוזה, לפי ספר החינוך, הוא שהיה לזכרון לאדם באמונת ה' בכל עת. מקום קדוש פטור ממצות מזוזה (יומא י"א) מפני שיש לו קדושה מאליו, קדושה תוכי, וזה זכרון בעצמו באמונת ה' בלי סמל חיצוני. אנו עומדים עכשיו בשער החיים. נקוה שישבתנו תשמש לנו זכרון באיזה שער להכנס ולהשאר כחיים.

Memorial to Warsaw Ghetto Fighters

EXTENSION OF REMARKS
OF

HON. JACOB K. JAVITS
OF NEW YORK

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES

Monday, May 13, 1963

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, last month a memorial was unveiled in Washington, D.C., to the martyrs of the Warsaw ghetto and other victims of nazism. Similar memorials have been placed in synagogues throughout the United States through the generosity of a man who has dedicated himself to the task of keeping fresh the heroism and sacrifice of those brave men and women. He is Paul Lewis, a Dallas, Tex., businessman and has done outstanding work here.

I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the Appendix of the RECORD the address by Paul Lewis, delivered at the Adas Israel Synagogue, Washington, D.C., on April 22, 1963.

There being no objection, the address was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SPEECH BY PAUL LEWIS AT THE MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD IN THE ADAS ISRAEL SYNAGOGUE, APRIL 22, 1963

We are assembled here tonight to dedicate a memorial to the 6 million of our brethren, who perished in the greatest bloodbath of all times. This happened in our century, just two decades ago.

It was just yesterday, when a civilized nation, that very same culture which gave the world a Schiller, a Goethe, and a Mendelson; also gave birth to history's greatest monster, who slaughtered 6 million of our people for no other reason than because they were Jews. They were the victims of devices never before known to mankind. Young and old, men and women, even tiny children, all were carried like cattle to be slaughtered, tortured and burned, in the gas chambers and crematoriums of a man-made hell. They suffered inhumanities and cruelties never before known on the face of our earth, and, as a result, our people were diminished by one-third.

The mountains did not move. The oceans did not dry out. Words can never express our grief when we recall the memories of these brutal massacres; these crimes, which occurred in our era.

Those of us who were never exposed to this holocaust, and those few who experienced it, and somehow survived, we each have a solemn duty and obligation to preserve the memory of those who perished. It is also our obligation not to allow that these acts should ever be wiped out of human memory. Such memorials as the one we dedicate here today must be built and displayed so that the story of our people should be told. It is our tragic story to the civilized world, which cannot and should not be permitted to be left out when the history of the 20th century shall be written.

This memorial is not intended as a means or device to look for revenge. It is rather a reminder not to forget and not to allow others to forget the greatest tragedy ever to befall our people and all of mankind. This should also serve as a warning and as a lesson to every member of our human family to be on guard, and to beware the delusions of demagogs; who, crazed by their own power can poison a nation with lies; and under the guise of phrases such as "the Master race" can lead them to acts of genocide.

May God grant us a tomorrow that this epoch should be referred to as the darkest and most shameful epoch of this, the 20th century. A tomorrow, when brotherhood will prevail among all the nations of our earth.

When this has been accomplished, then the martyrs who lifted their last breath with the Son of "Ani Mainiim,"—"I believe," proclaiming their conviction and faith in a better world to come, will not have died in vain.

We, the men of the blue and white, hold
our heads so mighty high.
Nothing stands before our will and might,
with the best we vie.
Inspired by your past, we will sing 'till the last, your glory and world renown.
Your cherished ideal emblazoned with zeal,
the standard of your crown.
Oh, Mentor of youth, Guardian of truth,
Molder of lofty minds,
Oh, fill us with wisdom, virtue, discretion,
worship of divines.
To Thee we sing with glowing hearts, our pride and joy so true.
To a tow'ring place from depths of dis-
grace hast raised the spirit of the Jew.
Oh, Alma Mater do comply, with strength
us fortify,
With a torch on high to lead the way,
mankind to edify.
With heart and soul to fulfill thy goal,
Yeshiva U. High.
